Great Britain's Airmen Drive Off Attacking Nazis

But London also Reports the Loss of a Naval Trawler

NETHERLANDS SHIP IS TORPEDOED IN CHANNEL

Six of the Crew of the Tajandoen Reported Missing

London, Dec. 7 (AP)—Great Britain reported a successful defense of the air above her northeast coast today, with British battle planes forcing two German raiding attacks into retreat.

But she had to acknowledge the tenth naval loss of the war in the sinking by a mine of the 209-ton navy trawler Washington. Eight men aboard her died.

British airmen reported they scored hits on two of today's ten raiders, none of which dropped any bombs. All were driven off, eight of them as they approached the vital Firth of Forth area in Scotland, where lie the city of Edinburgh and the Rosyth naval base.

In addition, authoritative sources said two German Dornier flying boats were badly damaged yesterday when beset by defense craft as they approached the British east coast. The air ministry announced tonight, however, that one British plane failed to return from patrol duty yesterday.

Netherlands Ship Sunk

Today's sea war toll included the 2,159-ton Netherlands motorship Tajandoen, torpedoed and burned in the English Channel after calling at a British contraband control port en route to the West Indies. Six of the crew were missing. It was the eighth ship lost in the war by neutral Netherlands.

British accounts of the mining of the trawler Washington yesterday said she was the first victim of "mines dropped from the air by German planes" which flew over the Thames estuary yesterday.

Mrs. May Grimmer, resident of a coastal village, gave the following word picture of the Washington mining:

Saw Trawler Sink

"I saw the trawler come from the south. There was a great explosion, which shook my house. One minute the trawler was there, and the next it was gone. It was horrible."

Air raid warnings were sounded in the Firth of Forth area today at 12:45 p. m. (7:45 a. m., E.S.T.), when eight German bombers approached. Almost immediately coastal batteries blazed into action and pursuit planes whizzed aloft to engage the attackers.

A communique issued later said one of the Germans was known to have been hit in this dog fight and the other craft were "driven off."

The second aerial engagement today occurred when two more German planes were met by Royal Air Force fighters off the north coast. The R. A. F. said both planes "at once turned back and were pursued out to sea, one of them being seen to be hit."

The torpedoed Tujandeon, the second Netherlands submarine victim, was bound for the East Indies with a general cargo. All fourteen

Junius A. Love Granted Parole

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 7 (AP)—Junius A. Love, 63, of Hagerstown, former state legislator, was granted a parole today by Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor.

Love has served almost half of a two-year sentence imposed in Washington county circuit court for assault with intent to murder, after his tenant was wounded by a gun in a scuffle and argument.

The governor also granted paroles to William G. Baker and Harry E. Sexton, reduced the sentence of another man, and granted conditional pardons to two negro prisoners who have tuberculosis.

Baker, 37, was sentenced in Baltimore City Circuit Court nine-and-a-half-years ago to twenty-one years on a charge of statutory rape.

Sexton, 25, convicted of bigamy in Cecil county circuit court, has served fourteen months of a two-year sentence.

The term of Miles Gue, sentenced in April, 1938, in Montgomery County Circuit Court to four years for burglary, was reduced to three years. O'Conor said he had given testimony responsible for conviction of two others in the crime.

Fascist Grand Council Reiterates Old Alliance

Declaration Says Relations Will Remain as Established in Treaty

Rome, Dec. 8 (Fridaly) (AP)—The Fascist Grand Council today declared Italian-German relations "remain as established by the treaty of alliance and exchanges of views which took place before and afterwards at Milan, Salzburg and Berlin."

The declaration reiterating the Rome-Berlin military alliance was made after an important session of the council, at which Premier Mussolini spoke for an hour and a half.

Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano also gave a review of the international situation at the two and a quarter hour meeting.

The announcement, a communique said, was made "in view of tendentious information of foreign origin."

The developments of the war, the council decided, "fully justify the Italian decision to remain non-belligerent," a decision which it said "prevented extension of the conflict to southeastern Europe and the Mediterranean."

Among the developments noted were the "character of static siege assumed on the western front, its (the war's) prosecution largely in the economic sphere with blockade and counter-blockade, and the displacements which have occurred in the territorial situation and the ratio of forces from the Baltic to the Carpathians."

With an evident reference to possible Soviet Russian plans in southeastern Europe, the council asserted, "everything which may happen in the Danubian-Balkan basin cannot fail to interest Italy in view of the common territorial and maritime frontiers which were lengthened since the Albanian kingdom's union with Italy."

Referring to the effect of the war on Italian maritime traffic which recently was made the subject of representations to Great Britain because of her blockade of German exports, the council said:

"Italy intends to safeguard it in the most explicit manner, both for her prestige and for the undeniable necessities of life."

Decisive Battle Looms in Finland

Finns Massing 20,000 Men for Big Engagement

Kirkenes, Norway (At the Finnish Frontier), Dec. 7 (AP)—A big engagement, possibly decisive, is expected to take place soon on Finland's Arctic front.

The Finns are said to be massing large forces around Petsamo, Finland's strategic port at the head of her narrow corridor to the Arctic ocean. Some reports received today said 20,000 men were being massed there with the apparent intention of clearing out the Russian invaders at all costs and thus safeguard the northern outlet.

The Russians, on the other hand, were reported to be continuing the landing of troops on Petsamo Fjord.

Press Club Presents Roosevelt With Ring, Hat To Throw in It

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt saw himself pictured tonight as Popeye the Sailor cramming January 1941 spinach down the throat of the protesting press, in the all-nautical setting of the National Press Club's annual founders' dinner.

In honor of the president, who is commander-in-chief of the navy, naval signal flags fluttered overhead in the club's auditorium. Blue jackets saluted. The navy band played. The press club chorus sang salty sea chanties. Ship models were displayed.

Opposite the speaker's table, where the president sat with Acting Secretary of the Navy Edison, Secretary Hull and other guests, hung the huge cartoon showing Mr. Roosevelt as Popeye on the deck of a top-heavy destroyer.

Secretary Edison appeared as a mermaid in a fore-and-aft admiral's hat. Third-term smoke blew from the destroyer's stack.

Strictly according to regulations, the president was "piped aboard" by a boatswain's mate upon his arrival, while blue jackets stiffened to attention.

With the traditional, "welcome aboard, sir," Arthur Hachten, club president and International News Service correspondent, greeted the president, who replied with the customary, "good to be aboard."

The menu cards expounded a "National Press Club Navel Expansion Program," including "neutrality eggs in 16-inch shells, hors (du combat) a la dictator, kedgeree of destroyers in drydock with high gravity and cracked sternposts, and hemisphere on ice with raspberry sauce and e$$ence of good neighbor."

During the evening, the president

French Infantry Routs Nazis on Northern Flank

Germans Driven Back after Heavy Assaults on Outposts

Paris, Dec. 7 (AP) — Hard-hitting French infantry was reported today to have routed German troops from temporary positions in No-Man's Land after beating off heavy Nazi assaults on outposts along the entire northern flank of the Western Front.

The savage fighting followed a night of intense activity, in which the French reported heavy losses inflicted on divided units of a German company which attacked near Wissembourg, about twelve miles west of the point where the Rhine flows into Germany.

Military advices said the Germans were halted by fierce French machine-gun and artillery fire and dug in instead of withdrawing, as has been their customs in the past.

Germans Forced Back

At daybreak the French sector commander ordered a counterattack, which forced the Germans back to their lines.

Lawrence Case Ready for Jury

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 7 (AP)—Final arguments were completed today in the trial of Pennsylvania Democ-chairman David L. Lawrence on charges of blackmail and conspiracy to favor a gravel company on state contracts.

The case will go to the jury tomorrow after the charge by Judge Howard W. Hughes.

Counsel for Lawrence, former secretary of the commonwealth, asked that he be acquitted and termed the whole case a "tissue of lies."

Lawrence's wife sobbed during the plea.

District Attorney Carl R. Shelley referred to Lawrence as "the boss" who, he said, dominated state departments during the administration of Former Governor George H. Earle.

Shelley asked the jury to believe testimony by a former head of the gravel company that Lawrence forced him to pay $5,000 under threat that money owed him by the state would be withheld.

Senator Radcliffe Files for New Term

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 7. (AP)—United States Senator George L. Radcliffe (D-Md.) today filed notice with the secretary of state he is a candidate for re-election in 1940.

"I said some time ago that I was going to be a candidate and I happened to be in Annapolis and thought I might as well do it," explained Maryland's junior senator. "So I did."

Former Governor Harry W. Nice has made several speeches recently indicating he intends to seek the Republican nomination.

American Writer Escapes Death as A Spy in Russia

Kenneth Brown Collings Placed against Wall Three Times

Berlin, Dec. 7 (AP) — Kenneth Brown Collings of Rockville Center, N. Y., correspondent for the California Newspaper Publishers' Association, turned up in Berlin today and described experiences in Russian prisons and narrow escapes from being shot as a spy.

Collings said he had been on an assignment to look at the German-Soviet Russian frontier.

"I inadvertently walked across into Russian territory near Prostken in East Phussia," he said. "Two seconds later three Russian soldiers sprang from concealment behind a partially demolished house and rammed their bayonets into my ribs."

Has Narrow Escape

Unable to speak Russian, Collings could not make himself understood. The Russians thought he was a spy, he said, and three times within twenty minutes they made him stand against a wall while they loaded their rifles apparently with the intention of shooting him.

Each time, Collings said, he waved his American passport and shouted "Americansky correspondent."

"An officer came along and compromised by throwing me into the basement of a cell with nine Polish prisoners," he continued.

He said one of the prisoners offered him a belt to hang himself.

The next day, Collings said he was compelled to walk twenty miles through a downpour with a group of Polish prisoners who had become reconciled to being executed.

Makes Officer Understand

At Raegrod on the frontier he "succeeded in making the officer understand who I was but I was kept prisoner just the same."

During the night he was moved again, he said, this time to Augustow and another basement prison.

"Every time I went down into one of those basements," said Collings, "I never expected to come out alive. For three days I expected each moment to be my last."

A German-speaking Russian who finally acted as interpreter relieved Collings of his complications.

After his identity was straightened out, Collings said, the Russians were "so sorry for what they had done they installed me in a room in the officers' club. The next day they escorted me back to the German frontier."

Turks Angry at Franz Von Papen

Ankara, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Turkish press today called upon Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, to halt alleged propaganda activities or "pack up and get out."

There were widespread reports the government would ask for von Papen's recall unless activities under attack were halted.

As newspapers criticized the ambassador and other Germans accused of attempting to provoke a conflict between Turkey and Russia, Deputy Hossein Djahod asked the government what steps were being taken to curb "Nazi propaganda and infection."

The incident arose over circulars bearing the water mark of the German embassy press service, which reprinted an article from the Moscow newspaper Pravda, Communist party organ, attacking the Turkish press. The circulars were distributed to newspapers and press correspondents. Turkish newspapers said the article was falsely translated.

Von Papen was reported to have "explained" the embassy's distribution of the circulars in a conference yesterday with Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu. Informed sources said von Papen reported the pamphlets were spread merely for the information of the public.

The newspaper Yenisabah said that if Adolf Hitler's No. 1 trouble-shooter continued the alleged propaganda activities it would publish his biography telling of his "mischevious life and unscrupulous Nazi propaganda methods."

Blacked Out Streets Cost Many Lives

London, Dec. 7. (AP)—Nearly 3,000 persons were killed by accidents on blacked out thoroughfares in Britain during the first three months of the war, Lord Alness, chairman of the Accident Prevention Committee, said tonight in a broadcast.

(Latest figures place British war fatalities in the air and the navy at 2,141. Losses aboard merchant ships, Britsih and neutral total 3,373.)

Republicans Plan Immediate Drive To Pay Off Debt

Need $655,000 To Settle for Their Campaign in 1936

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Republican headquarters tonight announced that an immediate drive would be made to pay off the $655,000 debt remaining from the 1936 campaign and establish the party upon a sound financial basis for the battles of 1940.

Chairman John D. M. Hamilton said an effort would be made to obtain subscriptions of $1,000 each from 655 party members. He added that he hoped, but was not certain, that it could be done by the end of this month.

His announcement followed a meeting of the party's national executive committee, at which finances were discussed, but more time was devoted to the question of whether next year's party convention should be deferred until after the Democrats have met.

The strategy talk, also covered a variety of other subjects, and Hamilton said that from private discussions with many of the committee members he got the impression that the administration's foreign policy, "particularly with respect to Russia and Finland" had "not been helpful to Mr. Roosevelt."

You mean by failing to break relations with Russia?" he was asked.

"Yes."

Convention Date Uncertain

While an informal discussion at the committee meeting brought out differences of opinions on the question of postponing the convention, it was apparent that some members, including Hamilton, himself, strongly favored such a course. It would be advantageous, he told reporters later, to wait and see whom the Democrats nominate.

The convention date question and informal discussion of Thomas E. Dewey's opening speech in his campaign for the presidential nomination provided subjects which overshadowed what had been expected to prove an important discussion of means of paying off the party's debt of $655,000. There was an exchange of views on the debt, but no decisions were reached because of the absence of the party treasurer, C. P. Goodspeed, who is ill.

Comments on Dewey's speech at Minneapolis last night ranged from "splendid," a "knockout," and "very good," to "very encouraging."

Committee To Pick Site

The convention city and date are to be selected at a meeting of the full Republican committee to be held after the first of the year. Under the party's rules, four months notice must be given before the convention can be held.

A number of cities interested in obtaining the convention have made inquiries, he said, including Brooklyn, Atlantic City, Philadelphia, Detroit, Baltimore, Chicago, Minneapolis, San Francisco, St. Louis and New York.

WPA Enrollment in State Drops 6,000

Baltimore, Dec. 7.(AP)—Federal curtailment of funds available for WPA projects has dropped Maryland's enrollment this year approximately 6,000 under the figure for the comparable period in 1938, State Administrator Frank H. Dryden said today.

Records disclosed present enrollment of 14,138 compared to 20,-201 on Dec. 1, 1938.

Of the present enrollment, 2,191 are at work on federal projects and the remainder on state or municipal jobs.

Water Defense System Not Pierced, Helsinki Says; Heavy Fighting along Taipale River

By LYNN HEINZERLING

Helsinki, Dec. 7 (AP)—Finnish troops launched a fierce counter-attack today in the Karelian isthmus in an effort to halt a Red army surge toward the eastern terminus of their Mannerheim line.

The Russians bombarded the southern coast of Finland from the sea and renewed their land attacks on the central front.

Contrary to Russian assertions, a Finnish army spokesman said, the invaders were not yet threatening the Mannerheim line, a water defense system composed of an irregular chain of lakes extending almost across the narrow isthmus. The line begins at Sakkola on the east and follows a westward course through the town of Moulaa to Kuolema Lake, "The Lake of Death."

(The Russians announced early today they had broken through the Mannerheim line at two places and were continuing to advance northward. On the east, they said they reached Kiviniemi, a town behind the line and 7½ miles west of Sakkola. On the west, they reported occupation of Perkjarvi, twenty-five miles southeast of Viipuri, a main objective on the Gulf of Finland.)

Fighting Along River

The heaviest fighting was reported along the Taipale river and along the southern edge of Lake Ladoga near Sakkola, which is twenty miles from the frontier, and at Usikirkko, about 12½ miles from the frontier and fifteen miles southeast of the Mannerheim line's eastern terminus.

Despite the bad weather, the Red fleet bombarded undisclosed points along the southern coast but Finns declared the big guns caused no damage. They said their famed coastel batteries, designed by Lieut.-Gen. V. P. Menonen, chief of Finnish artillery, beat off the attacks.

On the front in central Finland, the Finns reported they held their own against new Soviet attacks. Soviet fighters were aiming at Tolua Lake on this front.

A government spokesman said army physicians were treating eleven cases of gas poisoning at Salmi, on the northern shore of Lake Ladoga.

"Red Skin Fighting"

(On the far northern front, the Kirkenes correspondent of the Oslo newspaper Dagbladet described the warfare in the Arctic darkness around the port of Petsamo as "old-fashioned Red skin fighting," with frequent hand-to-hand encounters with long knives. Russian pressure there was said to be increasing, but their airplanes and heavy artillery were described as being of little value because of the long darkness and rough terrain.)

Finland's fighting forces welcomed 230 Finnish-Americans, some of whom had never seen the country, who arrived to join the fight against Russia. They left New York upon learning that Finnish independence was threatened and came here by way of Norway and Sweden.

The group said more Finnish-Americans would follow.

Liberals Against McNutt, Sec. Ickes Says in Interview

Declares Roosevelt Followers Will Not Support Him

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Secretary Ickes said today that the Roosevelt Liberals in both Democratic and Republican parties would not support a ticket headed by Paul V. McNutt for president in 1940.

He made the statement to reporters who stormed his office at the end of a hectic press conference during which he said that he did not believe President Roosevelt had decided on the former Indiana governor to succeed him in the White House in the event he did not run for a third term himself.

"I have been in close touch," Ickes said, "with the Liberal and the Progressive elements in both Democratic and Republican parties, and I believe I know how they feel about this matter. I, therefore, can say that they would not support Paul McNutt even if he were selected by Mr. Roosevelt."

Ickes said that Liberals opposed McNutt because of his record in office. This, he said, included organized labor's opposition dating from the time that McNutt called out the National Guard during a strike in the Terre Haute area. Also, he said, Liberals disliked the "Two Percent Club" in Indiana under which state employes have given two percent of their salaries to the McNutt political organization.

Rep. Tabor Replies

When Rep. Taber (R-NY) heard about Ickes' remarks he said:

"Honest Harold is just trying to look after his own neck."

Second Maginot Line Completed

Paris, Dec. 7 (AP)—The French Maginot line of steel and concrete now has a second line backing it up, the French newspaper, Le Matin, announced tonight in its early editions.

"The Maginot line has been doubled and the work is completed," the newspaper said, adding the new fortifications contain all the features its famous forerunner has, forts both big and small, casements, dugouts, tank and armored car traps.

In addition, Le Matin declared, French fortifications along the Belgian and Swiss frontiers have been extended and strengthened.

French and British troops waiting for the "zero hour," the newspaper said, are protected now by "impregnable" fortresses from the Jura mountains to the North Sea.

"The assault of 1,000,000 men which might break over the Maginot line," Le Matin said, "still would have to take the second line.

"It is enough to say that the assault would be broken abruptly and that the armies behind the successive outposts and behind Maginot Line No. 1 and Maginot Line No. 2 are located behind impregnable fortresses."

Cincinnati Calls upon Governor To Take Action in Relief Crisis

Cincinnati, Dec. 7 (AP) — Cincinnati's voice was added today to the list of Ohio cities clamoring about state handling of relief.

City council called upon Gov. John W. Bricker to "see to it that the state of Ohio lives up to its moral obligation to match necessary local relief money fifty-fifty."

Pointing out Ohio had paid "only an average of thirty-three percent" this year, the council declared in a resolution that unless the state "lives up to its obligation" a relief shortage of "not less than $400,000" would develop here in 1940.

Thus far this year, Cincinnati has been comparatively free of the relief woes of Cleveland, Toledo, and some other Ohio cities.

Although Cleveland expects to obtain $1,200,000 through sale of tax delinquency bonds, approved yesterday by the state tax commission, officials pointed out this did not mean 12,000 employable single persons and childless couples would return to city food order rolls. Mayor Harold H. Burton declared the sum would insure against further privation to those still on the rolls, however.

At Toledo, Martin S. Dodd, city law director, went to work on a demurrer to a $560,782 suit filed by Harold Fraser, attorney for the city's relief creditors. Fraser promised that merchants he represents will meet to arrange immediate extension of credit within twenty-four hours after a final judgment is obtained against the city.

All Toledo employables have been without city relief for eighty days. Nearly 6,000 were estimated in a social counsel survey to be "in actual want," and eating federal surplus food and whatever else they could obtain

Senator Radcliffe Files for New Term

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 7. (AP)—United States Senator George L. Radcliffe (D-Md.) today filed notice with the secretary of state he is a candidate for re-election in 1940.

"I said some time ago that I was going to be a candidate and I happened to be in Annapolis and thought I might as well do it," explained Maryland's junior senator. "So I did."

Former Governor Harry W. Nice has made several speeches recently indicating he intends to seek the Republican nomination.

Norwegian Ship Sunk

London, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Norwegian steamer Primula, 1,024 tons, sank in the North sea on Monday after an explposion, Reuters (British news agency), reported from Oslo today.

The dispatch said eight of the crew of fifteen were missing.

Turks Angry at Franz Von Papen

Ankara, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Turkish press today called upon Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, to halt alleged propaganda activities or "pack up and get out."

There were widespread reports the government would ask for von Papen's recall unless activities under attack were halted.

As newspapers criticized the ambassador and other Germans accused of attempting to provoke a conflict between Turkey and Russia, Deputy Hossein Djahod asked the government what steps were being taken to curb "Nazi propaganda and infection."

The incident arose over circulars bearing the water mark of the German embassy press service, which reprinted an article from the Moscow newspaper Pravda, Communist party organ, attacking the Turkish press. The circulars were distributed to newspapers and press correspondents. Turkish newspapers said the article was falsely translated.

Von Papen was reported to have "explained" the embassy's distribution of the circulars in a conference yesterday with Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu. Informed sources said von Papen reported the pamphlets were spread merely for the information of the public.

The newspaper Yenisabah said that if Adolf Hitler's No. 1 troubleshooter continued the alleged propaganda activities it would publish his biography telling of his "mischevious life and unscrupulous Nazi propaganda methods."

Blacked Out Streets Cost Many Lives

London, Dec. 7. (AP)—Nearly 3,000 persons were killed by accidents on blacked out thoroughfares in Britain during the first three months of the war, Lord Alness, chairman of the Accident Prevention Committee, said tonight in a broadcast.

(Latest figures place British war fatalities in the air and the navy at 2,141. Losses aboard merchant ships, Britsih and neutral total 3,373.)

American Writer Escapes Death as A Spy in Russia

Kenneth Brown Collings Placed against Wall Three Times

Berlin, Dec. 7 (AP) — Kenneth Brown Collings of Rockville Center, N. Y., correspondent for the California Newspaper Publishers' Association, turned up in Berlin today and described experiences in Russian prisons and narrow escapes from being shot as a spy.

Collings said he had been on an assignment to look at the German-Soviet Russian frontier.

"I inadvertently walked across into Russian territory near Prostken in East Phussia," he said. "Two seconds later three Russian soldiers sprang from concealment behind a partially demolished house and rammed their bayonets into my ribs."

Has Narrow Escape

Unable to speak Russian, Collings could not make himself understood. The Russians thought he was a spy, he said, and three times within twenty minutes they made him stand against a wall while they loaded their rifles apparently with the intention of shooting him.

Each time, Collings said, he waved his American passport and shouted "Americansky correspondent."

"An officer came along and compromised by throwing me into the basement of a cell with nine Polish prisoners," he continued.

He said one of the prisoners offered him a belt to hang himself.

The next day, Collings said he was compelled to walk twenty miles through a downpour with a group of Polish prisoners who had become reconciled to being executed.

Makes Officer Understand

At Raegrod on the frontier he "succeeded in making the officer understand who I was but I was kept prisoner just the same."

During the night he was moved again, he said, this time to Augustow and another basement prison.

"Every time I went down into one of those basements," said Collings, "I never expected to come out alive. For three days I expected each moment to be my last."

A German-speaking Russian who finally acted as interpreter relieved Collings of his complications.

After his identity was straightened out, Collings said, the Russians were "so sorry for what they had done they installed me in a room in the officers' club. The next day they escorted me back to the German frontier."

Republicans Plan Immediate Drive To Pay Off Debt

Need $655,000 To Settle for Their Campaign in 1936

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Republican headquarters tonight announced that an immediate drive would be made to pay off the $655,000 debt remaining from the 1936 campaign and establish the party upon a sound financial basis for the battles of 1940.

Chairman John D. M. Hamilton said an effort would be made to obtain subscriptions of $1,000 each from 655 party members. He added that he hoped, but was not certain, that it could be done by the end of this month.

His announcement followed a meeting of the party's national executive committee, at which finances were discussed, but more time was devoted to the question of whether next year's party convention should be deferred until after the Democrats have met.

The strategy talk, also covered a variety of other subjects, and Hamilton said that from private discussions with many of the committee members he got the impression that the administration's foreign policy, "particularly with respect to Russia and Finland" had "not been helpful to Mr. Roosevelt."

You mean by failing to break relations with Russia?" he was asked.

Convention Date Uncertain

While an informal discussion at the committee meeting brought out differences of opinions on the question of postponing the convention, it was apparent that some members, including Hamilton, himself, strongly favored such a course. It would be advantageous, he told reporters later, to wait and see whom the Democrats nominate.

The convention date question and informal discussion of Thomas E. Dewey's opening speech in his campaign for the presidential nomination provided subjects which overshadowed what had been expected to prove an important discussion of means of paying off the party's debt of $655,000. There was an exchange of views on the debt, but no decisions were reached because of the absence of the party treasurer, C. P. Goodspeed, who is ill.

Committee To Pick Site

The convention city and date are to be selected at a meeting of the full Republican committee to be held after the first of the year. Under the party's rules, four months notice must be given before the convention can be held.

A number of cities interested in obtaining the convention have made inquiries, he said, including Brooklyn, Atlantic City, Philadelphia, Detroit, Baltimore, Chicago, Minneapolis, San Francisco, St. Louis and New York.

WPA Enrollment in State Drops 6,000

Baltimore, Dec. 7.(AP)—Federal curtailment of funds available for WPA projects has dropped Maryland's enrollment this year approximately 6,000 under the figure for the comparable period in 1938, State Administrator Frank H. Dryden said today.

Records disclosed present enrollment of 14,138 compared to 20,-201 on Dec. 1, 1938.

Of the present enrollment, 2,191 are at work on federal projects and the remainder on state or municipal jobs.

Army Spokesman Denies Russians Have Advanced Along Mannerheim Line

By LYNN HEINZERLING

Helsinki, Dec. 7 (AP)—Finnish troops launched a fierce counter-attack today in the Karelian isthmus in an effort to halt a Red army surge toward the eastern terminus of their Mannerheim line.

The Russians bombarded the southern coast of Finland from the sea and renewed their land attacks on the central front.

Contrary to Russian assertions, a Finnish army spokesman said, the invaders were not yet threatening the Mannerheim line, a water defense system composed of an irregular chain of lakes extending almost across the narrow isthmus. The line begins at Sakkola on the east and follows a westward course through the town of Moulaa to Kuolema Lake, "The Lake of Death."

(The Russians announced early today they had broken through the Mannerheim line at two places and were continuing to advance northward. On the east, they said they reached Kiviniemi, a town behind the line and 7½ miles west of Sakkola. On the west, they reported occupation of Perkjarvi, twenty-five miles southeast of Viipuri, a main objective on the Gulf of Finland.)

Fighting Along River

The heaviest fighting was reported along the Taipale river and along the southern edge of Lake Ladoga near Sakkola, which is twenty miles from the frontier, and at Usikirkko, about 12½ miles from the frontier and fifteen miles southeast of the Mannerheim line's eastern terminus.

Despite the bad weather, the Red fleet bombarded undisclosed points along the southern coast but Finns declared the big guns caused no damage. They said their famed coastel batteries, designed by Lieut.-Gen. V. P. Menonen, chief of Finnish artillery, beat off the attacks.

On the front in central Finland, the Finns reported they held their own against new Soviet attacks. Soviet fighters were aiming at Tolua Lake on this front.

"Red Skin Fighting"

(On the far northern front, the Kirkenes correspondent of the Oslo newspaper Dagbladet described the warfare in the Arctic darkness around the port of Petsamo as "old-fashioned Red skin fighting," with frequent hand-to-hand encounters with long knives. Russian pressure there was said to be increasing, but their airplanes and heavy artillery were described as being of little value because of the long darkness and rough terrain.)

Finland's fighting forces welcomed 230 Finnish-Americans, some of whom had never seen the country, who arrived to join the fight against Russia. They left New York upon learning that Finnish independence was threatened and came here by way of Norway and Sweden.

The group said more Finnish-Americans would follow.

Declares Roosevelt Followers Will Not Support Him

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Secretary Ickes said today that the Roosevelt Liberals in both Democratic and Republican parties would not support a ticket headed by Paul V. McNutt for president in 1940.

He made the statement to reporters who stormed his office at the end of a hectic press conference during which he said that he did not believe President Roosevelt had decided on the former Indiana governor to succeed him in the White House in the event he did not run for a third term himself.

"I have been in close touch," Ickes said, "with the Liberal and the Progressive elements in both Democratic and Republican parties, and I believe I know how they feel about this matter. I, therefore, can say that they would not support Paul McNutt even if he were selected by Mr. Roosevelt."

Ickes said that Liberals opposed McNutt because of his record in office. This, he said, included organized labor's opposition dating from the time that McNutt called out the National Guard during a strike in the Terre Haute area. Also, he said, Liberals disliked the "Two Percent Club" in Indiana under which state employes have given two percent of their salaries to the McNutt political organization.

Rep. Tabor Replies

When Rep. Taber (R-NY) heard about Ickes' remarks he said:

"Honest Harold is just trying to look after his own neck."

Representative Plumley (R-Vt): "If nobody pays any more attention to what Harold Ickes' contention that Mr. Roosevelt was the only

Second Maginot Line Completed

Paris, Dec. 7 (AP)—The French Maginot line of steel and concrete now has a second line backing it up, the French newspaper, Le Matin, announced tonight in its early editions.

"The Maginot line has been doubled and the work is completed," the newspaper said, adding the new fortifications contain all the features its famous forerunner has, forts both big and small, casements, dugouts, tank and armored car traps.

In addition, Le Matin declared, French fortifications along the Belgian and Swiss frontiers have been extended and strengthened.

French and British troops waiting for the "zero hour," the newspaper said, are protected now by "impregnable" fortresses from the Jura mountains to the North Sea.

"The assault of 1,000,000 men which might break over the Maginot line," Le Matin said, "still would have to take the second line.

Junius A. Love Granted Parole

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 7 (AP)—Junius A. Love, 63, of Hagerstown, former state legislator, was granted a parole today by Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor.

Love has served almost half of a two-year sentence imposed in Washington county circuit court for assault with intent to murder, after his tenant was wounded by a gun in a scuffle and argument.

The governor also granted paroles to William G. Baker and Harry E. Sexton, reduced the sentence of another man, and granted conditional pardons to two negro prisoners who have tuberculosis.

Baker, 37, was sentenced in Baltimore City Circuit Court nine-and-a-half-years ago to twenty-one years on a charge of statutory rape.

Sexton, 25, convicted of bigamy in Cecil county circuit court, has served fourteen months of a two-year sentence.

The term of Miles Gue, sentenced in April, 1938, in Montgomery County Circuit Court to four years for burglary, was reduced to three years. O'Conor said he had given testimony responsible for conviction of two others in the crime.

Press Club Presents Roosevelt With Ring, Hat To Throw in It

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt saw himself pictured tonight as Popeye the Sailor cramming January 1941 spinach down the throat of the protesting press, in the all-nautical setting of the National Press Club's annual founders' dinner.

In honor of the president, who is commander-in-chief of the navy, naval signal flags fluttered overhead in the club's auditorium. Blue jackets saluted. The navy band played. The press club chorus sang salty sea chanties. Ship models were displayed.

Opposite the speaker's table, where the president sat with Acting Secretary of the Navy Edison, Secretary Hull and other guests, hung the huge cartoon showing Mr. Roosevelt as Popeye on the deck of a top-heavy destroyer.

Secretary Edison appeared as a mermaid in a fore-and-aft admiral's hat. Third-term smoke blew from the destroyer's stack.

Strictly according to regulations, the president was "piped aboard" by a boatswain's mate upon his arrival, while blue jackets stiffened to attention.

With the traditional, "welcome aboard, sir," Arthur Hachten, club president and International News Service correspondent, greeted the president, who replied with the customary, "good to be aboard."

The menu cards expounded a "National Press Club Navel Expansion Program," including "neutrality eggs in 16-inch shells, hors (du combat) a la dictator, kedgeree of destroyers in drydock with high gravity and cracked sternposts, and hemisphere on ice with raspberry sauce and e$$ence of good neighbor."

During the evening, the president

Cincinnati Calls upon Governor To Take Action in Relief Crisis

Cincinnati, Dec. 7 (AP)—Cincinnati's voice was added today to the list of Ohio cities clamoring about state handling of relief.

City council called upon Gov. John W. Bricker to "see to it that the state of Ohio lives up to its moral obligation to match necessary local relief money fifty-fifty."

Pointing out Ohio had paid "only an average of thirty-three percent" this year, the council declared in a resolution that unless the state "lives up to its obligation" a relief shortage of "not less than $400,000" would develop here in 1940.

Thus far this year, Cincinnati has been comparatively free of the relief woes of Cleveland, Toledo, and some other Ohio cities.

Although Cleveland expects to obtain $1,200,000 through sale of tax delinquency bonds, approved yesterday by the state tax commission, officials pointed out this did not mean 12,000 employable single persons and childless couples would return to city food order rolls. Mayor Harold H. Burton declared the sum would insure against further privation to those still on the rolls, however.

At Toledo, Martin S. Dodd, city law director, went to work on a demurrer to a $560,782 suit filed by Harold Fraser, attorney for the city's relief creditors. Fraser promised that merchants he represents will meet to arrange immediate extension of credit within twenty-four hours after a final judgment is obtained against the city.

All Toledo employables have been without city relief for eighty days. Nearly 6,000 were estimated in a social counsel survey to be "in actual want," and eating federal surplus food and whatever else they could obtain

Slain Consulate Officer Found To Have Been a Spy

Dr. W. R. Engelberg Known To Have Carried on Espionage

HOOVER INVESTIGATING FOR FEDERAL BUREAU

Police Inclined To Believe Personal Enemy Killed German

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—A suggestion that Dr. Walter Richard Engleberg had used his post as first secretary of the German consulate as a facade behind which he carried on espionage was made officially today as the authorities sought amid a mass of correspondence and pictures of nude men to identify his slayer.

Deputy Medical Examiner M. E. Marten asserted he had learned that Engleberg, whose beaten body was found in his home yesterday, was a German intelligence officer.

"He was in a line of business," the physician added, "where a thing like this could be expected." He did not disclose the origin of his information.

Hoover Investigating

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, came here presumably to direct an independent inquiry, but government sources declined to discuss it.

So fantastically savage was the bludgeoning that the police meanwhile provisionally had accepted the theory that the motive must have been mad personal vengeance.

The fifty-odd photographs of nude men found among Dr. Engleberg's effects, they said, had been taken at a nearby nudist camp.

Late in the day two men were urgently sought.

One is of extraordinary bulk and about six feet, four inches in height. Police said his size eleven bedroom slippers and capacious dressing gown were found in Engleberg's home—a home full of the meticulous touches not usually found in bachelor quarters, and also marked with fingerprints that might have been made by a big man.

Young Man Sought

The second is a man about twenty-three years old who, the authorities were informed, went Saturday night to Engleberg's house—"Hitler's House" the neighborhood children called it; left the home with the consular official during the evening and returned later with him.

While this search went on, a squad of some twenty-five officers capable of reading German was marshaled to go through Engelberg's papers. The police, following protocol to the letter, regarded the house as German territory and asked that a consular representative be present before they touch the victim's belongings.

The fact that the investigation was centering around the correspondce and pictures was disclosed by District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn, who said the case in its present state did not suggest "international complications."

Kid Cocoa Wins Bout with Bland

Puerto Rico Boy Easily Takes Baltimore Bout

Baltimore, Dec. 7 (AP)—Scrappy Louis (Kid) Cocoa played a tattoo on the eyes and nose of Tommy Bland, claimant to the Canadian welterweight championship, to win a unanimous ten round decision tonight.

Both eyes nearly closed by left jabs, Bland was knocked off his feet three times but was fighting back gamely in the tenth.

Cocoa, of Puerto Rico, weighed 146½, a pound less than Bland, a Toronto fighter who had met leading welterweights on both sides of the border.

Bland was downed for a count of seven in the first with a battering series of right and left jabs. A few seconds later in the same round he went down for a count of six.

The Canadian went down again for a count of eight in the ninth round, within ten seconds of the bell.

Other results:

Ralph Sexton, 128, and Phillip Ensegna, 130, fought to a draw in four rounds. Both are from Baltimore.

Woody Boord, 142, Uniontown, Pa., won a six round decision over Eddie Finazzo, 144, Baltimore.

Joe Cataflamo, 129, Baltimore, won a technical knockout in the fourth of a six round fight over Elwood Harris, 132, Richmond.

In the semi-final, Lawrence Gunn, 123 Baltimore, took a six round decision from Tony Novello, 129, New York.

(An Amsterdam message said the Belgian steamer Louis Scheid landed twenty-eight crewmen and six passengers — all Netherlanders — at Weymouth, England, but a later Rotterdam message reported the Louis Scheid was around south of Dartmouth, England, and needed assistance. This message said the Belgian ship carried thirty-four of the Tajandoen survivors.)

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons that Parliament's promised one-day secret session to discuss supply measures would be held next Wednesday.

SWEDISH BOY SCOUTS PREPARE FOR AIR RAIDS

Steel-helmeted and carrying their gas masks in cases worn haversack fashion, Swedish Boy Scouts undergo ambulance drill in Stockholm, where anti-air raid precautions are the order of the day. The boys are carrying a "wounded" comrade to a dressing station. Sweden fears Russia's invasion of Finland is part of a drive to obtain a port on the western coast of Europe.

Manufacturers Ask for Harmony Between Management and Labor

National Association Adopts Resolution at New York Convention

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers declared today for harmony between labor and management to promote "national security and well-being."

The declaration was contained in a resolution adopted by delegates to the forty-fourth convention of the organization.

"Harmonious relations between labor and management in each industrial enterprise," said the resolution, "is in the interest not only of the employer and the employe, but of the whole people.

"National security and well-being cannot be built on a foundation of antagonism between labor and capital, resulting in unnecessary strikes and interferences otherwise with the continuity and economics of production. . . .

Harmony First Need

"The success of every business, and hence the welfare of its employes, depends upon finding a workable method for achieving harmony.

"No single method can be applied to all industrial units or to all labor groups. It is, rather, the responsibility of management in each individual plant to seek a proper method by which the interests of all those immediately concerned can be best served. . . .

"The employe should have the right to join any labor organization he wishes, or none at all, as he may himself deem best in his own interests. . . .

"Laws and political administrative acts which create suspicion in labor relations and thereby encourage unbecoming practices will inevitably defeat their own ends by impairing the interests of the public and of labor itself. The functions of industry cannot be performed under conditions of litigation and conflict."

The manufacturers asserted that wages should be kept flexible "in keeping with rates in the industry and with due regard to conditions in the community" and added: "It is not practicable for most manufacturing enterprises to provide an established annual wage for employes."

The convention elected as directors-at-large for the next two years: W. S. Farish of New York, president of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey; John Holmes of Chicago, president of Swift & Co.; Malcolm Muir of New York, president and publisher of Newsweek magazine; James H. Rand, Jr., of New York, president of Remington-Rand, Inc.; W. S. S. Rodgers of New York, president of the Texas Co.; and R. E. Wood of Chicago, chairman of Sears Roebuck & Co.

Liberals Against

choice of the liberal element for president in 1940, Senator Johnson (D-Colo) said:

"The liberal element is in a hell of a fix if there be but one among them fit to run for president. I do not agree with Ickes."

Besides talking about Democratic presidential politics, Ickes poked fun at a Republican candidate, Thomas E. Dewey. He said Dewey's speech in Minneapolis last night was "baby talk."

"Dewey proved his qualifications as a candidate," he added: "He talked forty-five minutes without saying anything."

Ickes quoted as follows from Dewey's speech:

"Let us again believe in the ability of a free people to solve its problems if given a chance to go to work."

Dewey, he said, probably worked the sentence out with Governor Bricker of Ohio. Bricker, he added, had "shown with respect to the people who are starving in Cleveland how advisable it is to turn administrations over to Republicans who can indulge in platitudes like this."

Berlin Disclaims Blame for Attack Upon the Finnish

Berlin, Dec. 7 (AP)—An officially inspired statement, reviewing Germany's relations with the Scandinavian countries, tonight rejected charges abroad that Germany had any responsibility for Finland's fate or any obligation to aid her.

Such suppositions, said the statement disturbed by DNB, official news agency, were "malevolent, silly, and politically childish."

In examining Scandinavian relations, DNB found that the northern countries had "followed more and more in the wake of English policy."

The attack was an evident continuance of the Nazi pressure campaign against European neutrals who were admonished in German newspapers last Tuesday to "be wise" and free themselves of "English misguidance."

Afater Adolf Hitler came to power in 1933, said DNB, most of the northern countries' newspapers indulged in "unchecked criticism of the Fuehrer's every act toward toward eliminating the Versailles treaty. In the name of progress, humanity, liberalism, and democracy, Germany was cast into disrepute, scolded and economically boycotted."

The agency pointed out that Finland, along with Sweden and Norway, had turned down a German offer of non-aggression pacts early last summer, thereby disclosing that "they actually did not lay so much value on a determined and uniform peaceful stand toward all sides despite repeated assertions of neutrality, as in the hope of the political superiority of the other side (Britain) with which they sympathized in an unneutral manner."

German Steamer Attacked by Russ

Copenhagen, Dec. 8. (Friday)—(AP)—The correspondent of the newspaper, Nationaltidende, reported today that he German steamer Oliva upon arriving at Mantyluoto, Finland, reported she had been fired on by a Russian submarine.

The submarine fired three shells and damaged the Oliva's bow at about 11:45 P. M. Tuesday.

The Oliva, 7,885 tons, is from Hamburg.

Gridiron Oddities Provide Fun for Fans of Nation

Many Strange Plays Made During Season Just Closed

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—The college football stage confined to stark drama, provided its usual quota of comic touches during the 1939 campaign, the annual Associated Press poll to discover gridiron oddities reveals.

For instance, there was the case of Guard Milt Simington of Arkansas, who refuted the common charge that college football players play for money by quitting play, at least temporarily, for twenty-five cents.

During the SMU game Simington left his post during the game and trotted forty yards to the bench to pick up a quarter he had seen there. He explained he wasn't needed right then as "we were knocking down all their passes anyway."

Although by no means funny to Quarterback Forest Evashevski of Michigan, his experience in the Michigan State game was unusual, to say the least. Tom Harmon had just scored on a short plunge, but Evashevski failed to see the official raise his arms.

Bewildered Quarterback

While he was protesting the ball was placed in position for the conversion. Evashevski, apparently thinking a touchdown had not been allowed, called for Harmon to carry the ball again. Harmon failed to make it, and Evashevski was the most astonished person on the field when the ball was taken up the field for a kickoff.

Then there was George Stirnweiss, clever North Carolina back, who nearly completed a forward pass to an official in the Duke game. The officials were garbed in colors resembling the Carolina players. Stirnweiss dropped back, looked over the field, and saw what he believed was a teammate standing all alone, hands on hips as if spotted for a pass. Stirnweiss threw a perfect pass, which the umpire cleverly dodged.

Columbia Boy Perplexed

One of life's embarrassing moments came to Les Stanczyk of Columbia in the Navy game. Stanczyk back to punt, missed the ball completely.

It wasn't the fact that he missed, but that he wasn't missed, that bothered Junior Hovious of Old Miss., who sneaked out to play, only lines for a perfect sleeper play, only to discover that his teammates didn't miss him and ran a routine play.

And here's another variety of sleeper. Benny Bulvin, Georgetown back, suffered a bump on the head in the last quarter of the Maryland game. He doesn't remember a thing that happened after that, although he carried the ball twice for gains, threw a touchdown pass and kicked the extra point.

Milt Sullivant, Kansas halfback, nearly had to fork over his own money to watch himself play in the Nebraska game. He arrived late in a taxicab, and couldn't convince the gatekeepers he was one of the performers. He finally crashed the gate when a guardian's back was turned.

Then there was Dave Zoeller of Kentucky, who threw two forward passes on one play. His first toss in the Alabama game was knocked back into his arms by a 'Bama guard, so he let fly again, but failed to hit the mark.

Pullman Executive Dies

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—James T. Morrison, 69, president of the Pullman Railroad Company, a subsidiary of the Pullman company, died today after a two-year illness.

A thief threw away 250 coffin handles he had stolen because he couldn't sell them. He might have held on with a view toward the European market.

Speeding Cyclist Lands on Top of An Automobile

And Many Other Freak Accidents Are Listed in Magazine

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP) — Joseph Schoelling scorched along a Salt Lake City street on his bicycle. Suddenly—uummpphh—he crashed into the rear of a parked automobile. Rider and wheel flew through the air in a perfect loop. He landed, rightside up, on top of the car, still astride his bike.

The cyclist landed, too, close to the top of the list of odd accidents of 1939 compiled by the National Safety Council's magazine, Public Safety.

In contrast to Schoelling's happy landing was a story with a most unhappy end. Frank Miska stepped into a Temple, Tex., street. A machine whizzed by and ripped off his pants.

Bobby Robb, 10, of Pittsburgh, also lost some apparel—a swimming suit. He stooped to pick it up. A double-head freight train struck him from behind. He lay unconscious between the tracks while two locomotives and 125 cars thundered over him. But a fractured thigh, cuts and bruises were his only injuries.

No Faith in Slogans

A lad just one year older was among those who lost faith in slogans. Johnny Holland of Fredonia, Kan., stepped on the base of a sign. The iron standard swung up, smacked him on the forehead, and knocked him out. The sign read: "Safety First." And Mrs. Murray T. Morgan of Cleveland munched on an apple while driving. One a day, she had been told, would keep the doctor away. But when she tossed out the core, the car turned over in a ditch.

She could sympathize with Miss Marjorie Volke of Tuscon, Ariz., who noticed, as she motored along, a traffic ticket under the windshield. She reached for it. Her automobile plunged into a fire hydrant. The bill for damage to city property was $50.

The irony of her experience had a counterpoint in the strange case of John Grela of Waterloo, N. Y. He was blinded in a workshop accident. Three weeks later, while he was being driven to see an eye specialist, the auto collided with a truck. The impact snapped back his head. His sight was restored instantly.

Bites Into Thumb

Fate's finger was in evidence elsewhere, too—literally so in two instances. Marjorie Wambeck, 15, of Worcester, Mass., bit into a hot dog sandwich and—ouch—a surgeon took two stitches in her tooth-lacerated thumb.

Marcelino Mareno of Seginaw, Mich., was showing a friend how he shot off one of his fingers at the second joint twenty-six years ago. He pulled the trigger of the "unloaded" gun. Off went the rest of the digit.

In contrast, John Castle was wounded without benefit of firearms. He placed a lighted cigarette on a window ledge near a bullet. The heat exploded the cartridge, and the slug entered his chest.

Finally, fortune tossed a hero's laurels to Tony Galeto of Cleveland and he made a splendid catch.

An older sister wheeled 3-year-old Bobby Dunn in a perambulator. A car skidded over the curb, struck the buggy and hurled the child fifteen feet. Galeto, ambling down the sidewalk, looked up, took a quick stance and caught the boy on the fly.

Mr. Galeto was susprised. Everybody else was astounded.

Rep. David J. Ward To Seek Re-Election

Salisbury, Md., Dec. 7 (AP)—Friends of U. S. Rep. David J. Ward said today an announcement of Ward's candidacy for re-election may be expected Wednesday.

Several weekly Democratic newspapers of the first Congressional district publish that day.

Ward has been conferring with Democratic leaders in many Eastern Shore counties. His friends reported that if he is a candidate, his campaign would not start actively until county campaign committees are named early next year.

Party leaders said they regard State Senator Dudley G. Roe of Sudlersville as another "certain" candidate. An opportunity to announce his candidacy, if he intends to, will come Tuesday evening at a testimonial dinner for him in Centreville.

Find No Trace of Winnie Ruth Judd

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 7 (AP)—Baffled searchers waited impatiently tonight for cold and hunger to drive Winnie Ruth Judd from her hiding place.

The mad murderess remained at liberty six days after her first escape from the state hospital for the insane last October, then was surrounded as she emerged from a house with pilfered food.

It has been four days and nights since she again walked out of a ward at the asylum, and Deputy Sheriff Ernest Roach said he was confident the fugitive could not long endure inadequate nourishment.

Mrs. Judd has been confined to the hospital six years since escaping the gallows for killing two women friends in 1931.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Conflicting claims from Berlin and London as to the progress of the German-British-French war on its only active front, the sea, share world attention with Russia's moves as Europe's strife drags into its fourth month.

Against a picture of developments of the war at sea, drawn for parliament by Winston Churchill and Bolstered by specified figures, Berlin advices that Nazi operations by Submarine, mine, airplane and surface warships are weaving an "impenetrable" counter blockade about the British isles sound fantastic. Unless London is concealing sea losses in direct violation of announced British policy, the Churchill report makes the Berlin version sound a bit like Nazi whistling in the dark.

Little Cheer for Germans

It may have been issued for home consumption rather than in any hope of its acceptance by the neutral world as an authentic account of the war at sea. There has been little in the war news of late to cheer German public opinion, and much to discourage it, including the Russian sweep into Finland.

Some hint of the plight in which Germany now finds herself in her doubtful partnership with Moscow must be seeping through to the German public despite every precaution to prevent it. Some word of the Churchill statement on three months of the war at sea must also sooner or later raise doubts in many German minds as to dependability of Berlin-sponsored contentions that the British navy has already fled the scene of battle to seek refuge in remote harbors.

Truth Somewhat in Doubt

Truth will out sooner or later, even in war times, and against every expedient of any government to withhold it. And by the criterion of neutral bookkeeping on sea losses to date, the Churchill report comes far nearer the truth than does the account attributed to German military experts. It also jibes with a gloomy picture — drawn in the official Nazi magazine, four year plan—of the effect the Allied blockade has had on Germany to date. This magazine is sponsored by the No. 2 Nazi, Field Marshal Goering.

At least a hint of added confusion in Nazi high councils may be drawn from the fact that such an article was permitted publication in Berlin at the very time other Nazi spokesmen were whistling up German spirits with reports that the British navy had abandoned the North sea because of German attack. Nor can there be any longer much doubt that some Nazi leaders are watching the ripening fruit of the Soviet-Nazi partnership with troubled eyes.

Moscow's report of a Russian break-through on the Karalian Peninsula north of Leningrad, as yet unconfirmed, brings closer the hour when the actual Russian purpose in Finland must be made clear not only to the world, but to Berlin. At no time since the Russo-Finnish crisis developed have Nazi spokesmen endorsed any other Russian purpose on that German flank than territorial and other adjustments to secure Leningrad from military attack and protect Russian outlets to the Baltic via the Gulf of Finland.

Should it prove true that Russian forces have broken through vital Finnish defense lines, a halt on Russian aggression should come soon. If it does not, and the ominous implications of Moscow's fostering of a puppet Finnish state are a more real indication of Soviet intentions, not much doubt can linger in Berlin as to the situation in which Germany stands.

Continue Probe of Mysterious Slaying

New Castle, Pa., Dec. 7 (AP)—District Attorney John Lamoree said today a two-months investigation of the mysterious torso slaying in "murder swamp" near here showed that Cleveland's "mad butcher" might be the killer.

He added, however, the theory involving the "mad butcher" was only one of several under consideration by state motor police and Cleveland authorities.

A headless torso was found in the swamp last Oct. 13 by boys picking nuts. Several days later, the head was found in an empty coal gondola on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad tracks nearby.

The slaying was one of nine unsolved murders in the swamp in the last ten years. Heads of several other victims also had been hacked or sawed off.

Lamoree said the manner in which the victim had been cut up and parts of the body strewn about resembled the killings of the "mad butcher," blamed for the deaths in Cleveland of twelve persons.

State Motor Patrolman Robert McCullough said investigators were convinced the slaying was the work of a pervert.

Russian Aim Revealed

An army spokesman said papers taken from captured Russian officers indicated the Soviet forces were aiming at reaching the Atlantic.

The prisoners had maps of the Aland islands and eastern Sweden on which certain objectives were marked for bombing, the spokesman asserted.

He added that the papers indicated Russia long had planned her attack on Finland. Two captured Russian flying lieutenants were quoted as saying they had orders to load their bomb racks the night of Nov. 26, four days before the Red army marched into Finland.

The Russians were quoted as saying that Soviet pilots for months had been given special instruction on bombardment of Finnish objectives.

Earle's Portrait Not in Gallery At Harrisburg

Not To Be Seen Nearly a Year after End of His Term

By The Associated Press

The last portrait of a governor placed there was at the end of the administration of Former Governor John S. Fisher.

At the end of each administration, the legislature sets aside $750 for an official portrait of the outgoing chief executive. The choice of an artist, and the time of sitting, usually is left to the governor being painted.

Aides in the governor's office said they do not know whether Earle had arranged for his portrait or has named an artist.

Col. Lynn G. Adams, head of Pennsylvania's state police, laughed when informed of Former Governor Earle's testimony in the Lawrence trial in which Adams was described as "a Republican himself—which none of us can doubt."

"It might interest you to look up my registration," the police commissioner told a reporter. "But I'll save you that trouble. I'm registered 'no party.'"

Earle was testifying that he asked Adams to make the investigation in the Erie gravel case in 1937 and Adams was "not a Democrat but a man I inherited from previous Republican administrations—a Republican himself, which none of us can doubt."

Adams quit as deputy commissioner during Earle's administration, after Percy W. Foote, retired admiral and Earle's personal friend, was installed as commissioner. Adams helped District Attorney Carl B. Shelley assemble the grand jury evidence on which twelve ranking Democrats, including Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence were indicted.

"I registered as a non-partisan during the Earle administration," Adams said. "Prior to that I was a lifelong Republican, but I'm not a politician, I'm a policeman.

"I never asked the politics of any man on the force or never took a political contribution."

Auditor General Warren R. Roberts tells this one with a chuckle.

As a Democratic senator during the Republican administrations prior to the Democratic regime of Governor Earle, Roberts led the fight in the state senate against bills for the construction of the new state finance building. The bills were defeated.

When the Democrats came into control of the state government, the general state authority was set up in 1937, and the finance building was constructed under the authority's $65,000,000 building program.

The first official to move into quarters in the now completed structure was Roberts.

It affords an informal social period, as well as a general discussion group on official business matters, for the deputies who have been engrossed frequently until late at night in the rush of the state's legal business.

Rider Backs Radcliffe For Another Term

Baltimore, Dec. 7 (AP)—"One hundred per cent" support of U. S. Senator George L. Radcliffe for renomination was announced today by Harrison Rider, Baltimore county Democratic leader.

Rider declared that on Radcliffe's record in the senate since 1935 "I believe that the democratic voters will insist on his renomination and that their votes will insure his re-election next November."

Neither Radcliffe nor Howard Bruce, Democratic national committeeman from Maryland who is expected to oppose the Senator in the primary, has formally announced his candidacy.

Rider said he had assured Radcliffe of his support "more than a month ago, and I see no reason for keeping it secret."

Slain Consulate Officer Found To Have Been a Spy

Dr. W. R. Engelberg Known To Have Carried on Espionage

HOOVER INVESTIGATING FOR FEDERAL BUREAU

Police Inclined To Believe Personal Enemy Killed German

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—A suggestion that Dr. Walter Richard Engleberg had used his post as first secretary of the German consulate as a facade behind which he carried on espionage was made officially today as the authorities sought amid a mass of correspondence and pictures of nude men to identify his slayer.

Deputy Medical Examiner M. E. Marten asserted he had learned that Engleberg, whose beaten body was found in his home yesterday, was a German intelligence officer.

"He was in a line of business," the physician added, "where a thing like this could be expected." He did not disclose the origin of his information.

Hoover Investigating

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, came here presumably to direct an independent inquiry, but government sources declined to discuss it.

So fantastically savage was the bludgeoning that the police meanwhile provisionally had accepted the theory that the motive must have been mad personal vengeance.

The fifty-odd photographs of nude men found among Dr. Engleberg's effects, they said, had been taken at a nearby nudist camp.

Late in the day two men were urgently sought.

One is of extraordinary bulk and about six feet, four inches in height. Police said his size eleven bedroom slippers and capacious dressing gown were found in Engleberg's home—a home full of the meticulous touches not usually found in bachelor quarters, and also marked with fingerprints that might have been made by a big man.

Young Man Sought

The second is a man about twenty-three years old who, the authorities were informed, went Saturday night to Engleberg's house—"Hitler's House" the neighborhood children called it; left the home with the consular official during the evening and returned later with him.

While this search went on, a squad of some twenty-five officers capable of reading German was marshaled to go through Engelberg's papers. The police, following protocol to the letter, regarded the house as German territory and asked that a consular representative be present before they touch the victim's belongings.

The fact that the investigation was centering around the correspondce and pictures was disclosed by District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn, who said the case in its present state did not suggest "international complications."

Kid Cocoa Wins Bout with Bland

Puerto Rico Boy Easily Takes Baltimore Bout

Baltimore, Dec. 7 (AP)—Scrappy Louis (Kid) Cocoa played a tattoo on the eyes and nose of Tommy Bland, claimant to the Canadian welterweight championship, to win a unanimous ten round decision tonight.

Both eyes nearly closed by left jabs, Bland was knocked off his feet three times but was fighting back gamely in the tenth.

Cocoa, of Puerto Rico, weighed 146½, a pound less than Bland, a Toronto fighter who had met leading welterweights on both sides of the border.

Bland was downed for a count of seven in the first with a battering series of right and left jabs. A few seconds later in the same round he went down for a count of six.

The Canadian went down again for a count of eight in the ninth round, within ten seconds of the bell.

Other results:

Ralph Sexton, 128, and Phillip Ensegna, 130, fought to a draw in four rounds. Both are from Baltimore.

Woody Boord, 142, Uniontown, Pa., won a six round decision over Eddie Finazzo, 144, Baltimore.

Joe Cataflamo, 129, Baltimore, won a technical knockout in the fourth of a six round fight over Elwood Harris, 132, Richmond.

In the semi-final, Lawrence Gunn, 123 Baltimore, took a six round decision from Tony Novello, 129, New York.

Manufacturers Ask for Harmony Between Management and Labor

National Association Adopts Resolution at New York Convention

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers declared today for harmony between labor and management to promote "national security and well-being."

The declaration was contained in a resolution adopted by delegates to the forty-fourth convention of the organization.

"Harmonious relations between labor and management in each industrial enterprise," said the resolution, "is in the interest not only of the employer and the employe, but of the whole people.

"National security and well-being cannot be built on a foundation of antagonism between labor and capital, resulting in unnecessary strikes and interferences otherwise with the continuity and economics of production. . . .

Harmony First Need

"The success of every business, and hence the welfare of its employes, depends upon finding a workable method for achieving harmony.

"No single method can be applied to all industrial units or to all labor groups. It is, rather, the responsibility of management in each individual plant to seek a proper method by which the interests of all those immediately concerned can be best served. . . .

"The employe should have the right to join any labor organization he wishes, or none at all, as he may himself deem best in his own interests. . . .

"Laws and political administrative acts which create suspicion in labor relations and thereby encourage unbecoming practices will inevitably defeat their own ends by impairing the interests of the public and of labor itself. The functions of industry cannot be performed under conditions of litigation and conflict."

The manufacturers asserted that wages should be kept flexible "in keeping with rates in the industry and with due regard to conditions in the community" and added: "It is not practicable for most manufacturing enterprises to provide an established annual wage for employes."

The convention elected as directors-at-large for the next two years: W. S. Farish of New York, president of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey; John Holmes of Chicago, president of Swift & Co.; Malcolm Muir of New York, president and publisher of Newsweek magazine; James H. Rand, Jr., of New York, president of Remington-Rand, Inc.; W. S. S. Rodgers of New York, president of the Texas Co.; and R. E. Wood of Chicago, chairman of Sears Roebuck & Co.

"The liberal element is in a hell of a fix if there be but one among them fit to run for president. I do not agree with Ickes."

Ickes quoted as follows from Dewey's speech:

"Let us again believe in the ability of a free people to solve its problems if given a chance to go to work."

Dewey, he said, probably worked the sentence out with Governor Bricker of Ohio. Bricker, he added, had "shown with respect to the people who are starving in Cleveland how advisable it is to turn administrations over to Republicans who can indulge in platitudes like this."

Berlin Disclaims Blame for Attack Upon the Finnish

Berlin, Dec. 7 (AP)—An officially inspired statement, reviewing Germany's relations with the Scandinavian countries, tonight rejected charges abroad that Germany had any responsibility for Finland's fate or any obligation to aid her.

Such suppositions, said the statement disturbed by DNB, official news agency, were "malevolent, silly, and politically childish."

In examining Scandinavian relations, DNB found that the northern countries had "followed more and more in the wake of English policy."

The attack was an evident continuance of the Nazi pressure campaign against European neutrals who were admonished in German newspapers last Tuesday to "be wise" and free themselves of "English misguidance."

Afater Adolf Hitler came to power in 1933, said DNB, most of the northern countries' newspapers indulged in "unchecked criticism of the Fuehrer's every act toward toward eliminating the Versailles treaty. In the name of progress, humanity, liberalism, and democracy, Germany was cast into disrepute, scolded and economically boycotted."

The agency pointed out that Finland, along with Sweden and Norway, had turned down a German offer of non-aggression pacts early last summer, thereby disclosing that "they actually did not lay so much value on a determined and uniform peaceful stand toward all sides despite repeated assertions of neutrality, as in the hope of the political superiority of the other side (Britain) with which they sympathized in an unneutral manner."

The Oliva, 7,885 tons, is from Hamburg.

Gridiron Oddities Provide Fun for Fans of Nation

Many Strange Plays Made During Season Just Closed

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—The college football stage confined to stark drama, provided its usual quota of comic touches during the 1939 campaign, the annual Associated Press poll to discover gridiron oddities reveals.

For instance, there was the case of Guard Milt Simington of Arkansas, who refuted the common charge that college football players play for money by quitting play, at least temporarily, for twenty-five cents.

During the SMU game Simington left his post during the game and trotted forty yards to the bench to pick up a quarter he had seen there. He explained he wasn't needed right then as "we were knocking down all their passes anyway."

Although by no means funny to Quarterback Forest Evashevski of Michigan, his experience in the Michigan State game was unusual, to say the least. Tom Harmon had just scored on a short plunge, but Evashevski failed to see the official raise his arms.

Bewildered Quarterback

While he was protesting the ball was placed in position for the conversion. Evashevski, apparently thinking a touchdown had not been allowed, called for Harmon to carry the ball again. Harmon failed to make it, and Evashevski was the most astonished person on the field when the ball was taken up the field for a kickoff.

Then there was George Stirnweiss, clever North Carolina back, who nearly completed a forward pass to an official in the Duke game. The officials were garbed in colors resembling the Carolina players. Stirnweiss dropped back, looked over the field, and saw what he believed was a teammate standing all alone, hands on hips as if spotted for a pass. Stirnweiss threw a perfect pass, which the umpire cleverly dodged.

Columbia Boy Perplexed

One of life's embarrassing moments came to Les Stanczyk of Columbia in the Navy game. Stanczyk back to punt, missed the ball completely.

It wasn't the fact that he missed, but that he wasn't missed, that bothered Junior Hovious of Old Miss., who sneaked out to play, only lines for a perfect sleeper play, only to discover that his teammates didn't miss him and ran a routine play.

And here's another variety of sleeper. Benny Bulvin, Georgetown back, suffered a bump on the head in the last quarter of the Maryland game. He doesn't remember a thing that happened after that, although he carried the ball twice for gains, threw a touchdown pass and kicked the extra point.

Milt Sullivant, Kansas halfback, nearly had to fork over his own money to watch himself play in the Nebraska game. He arrived late in a taxicab, and couldn't convince the gatekeepers he was one of the performers. He finally crashed the gate when a guardian's back was turned.

Then there was Dave Zoeller of Kentucky, who threw two forward passes on one play. His first toss in the Alabama game was knocked back into his arms by a 'Bama guard, so he let fly again, but failed to hit the mark.

Speeding Cyclist Lands on Top of An Automobile

And Many Other Freak Accidents Are Listed in Magazine

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP) — Joseph Schoelling scorched along a Salt Lake City street on his bicycle. Suddenly—uummpphh—he crashed into the rear of a parked automobile. Rider and wheel flew through the air in a perfect loop. He landed, rightside up, on top of the car, still astride his bike.

The cyclist landed, too, close to the top of the list of odd accidents of 1939 compiled by the National Safety Council's magazine, Public Safety.

In contrast to Schoelling's happy landing was a story with a most unhappy end. Frank Miska stepped into a Temple, Tex., street. A machine whizzed by and ripped off his pants.

Bobby Robb, 10, of Pittsburgh, also lost some apparel—a swimming suit. He stooped to pick it up. A double-head freight train struck him from behind. He lay unconscious between the tracks while two locomotives and 125 cars thundered over him. But a fractured thigh, cuts and bruises were his only injuries.

No Faith in Slogans

A lad just one year older was among those who lost faith in slogans. Johnny Holland of Fredonia, Kan., stepped on the base of a sign. The iron standard swung up, smacked him on the forehead, and knocked him out. The sign read: "Safety First." And Mrs. Murray T. Morgan of Cleveland munched on an apple while driving. One a day, she had been told, would keep the doctor away. But when she tossed out the core, the car turned over in a ditch.

She could sympathize with Miss Marjorie Volke of Tuscon, Ariz., who noticed, as she motored along, a traffic ticket under the windshield. She reached for it. Her automobile plunged into a fire hydrant. The bill for damage to city property was $50.

The irony of her experience had a counterpoint in the strange case of John Grela of Waterloo, N. Y. He was blinded in a workshop accident. Three weeks later, while he was being driven to see an eye specialist, the auto collided with a truck. The impact snapped back his head. His sight was restored instantly.

Bites Into Thumb

Fate's finger was in evidence elsewhere, too—literally so in two instances. Marjorie Wambeck, 15, of Worcester, Mass., bit into a hot dog sandwich and—ouch—a surgeon took two stitches in her tooth-lacerated thumb.

Marcelino Mareno of Seginaw, Mich., was showing a friend how he shot off one of his fingers at the second joint twenty-six years ago. He pulled the trigger of the "unloaded" gun. Off went the rest of the digit.

In contrast, John Castle was wounded without benefit of firearms. He placed a lighted cigarette on a window ledge near a bullet. The heat exploded the cartridge, and the slug entered his chest.

Finally, fortune tossed a hero's laurels to Tony Galeto of Cleveland and he made a splendid catch.

An older sister wheeled 3-year-old Bobby Dunn in a perambulator. A car skidded over the curb, struck the buggy and hurled the child fifteen feet. Galeto, ambling down the sidewalk, looked up, took a quick stance and caught the boy on the fly.

Mr. Galeto was susprised. Everybody else was astounded.

Russian Aim Revealed

An army spokesman said papers taken from captured Russian officers indicated the Soviet forces were aiming at reaching the Atlantic.

The prisoners had maps of the Aland islands and eastern Sweden on which certain objectives were marked for bombing, the spokesman asserted.

He added that the papers indicated Russia long had planned her attack on Finland. Two captured Russian flying lieutenants were quoted as saying they had orders to load their bomb racks the night of Nov. 26, four days before the Red army marched into Finland.

The Russians were quoted as saying that Soviet pilots for months had been given special instruction on bombardment of Finnish objectives.

Earle's Portrait Not in Gallery At Harrisburg

Not To Be Seen Nearly a Year after End of His Term

By The Associated Press

The last portrait of a governor placed there was at the end of the administration of Former Governor John S. Fisher.

At the end of each administration, the legislature sets aside $750 for an official portrait of the outgoing chief executive. The choice of an artist, and the time of sitting, usually is left to the governor being painted.

Aides in the governor's office said they do not know whether Earle had arranged for his portrait or has named an artist.

Col. Lynn G. Adams, head of Pennsylvania's state police, laughed when informed of Former Governor Earle's testimony in the Lawrence trial in which Adams was described as "a Republican himself—which none of us can doubt."

"It might interest you to look up my registration," the police commissioner told a reporter. "But I'll save you that trouble. I'm registered 'no party.'"

Earle was testifying that he asked Adams to make the investigation in the Erie gravel case in 1937 and Adams was "not a Democrat but a man I inherited from previous Republican administrations—a Republican himself, which none of us can doubt."

Adams quit as deputy commissioner during Earle's administration, after Percy W. Foote, retired admiral and Earle's personal friend, was installed as commissioner. Adams helped District Attorney Carl B. Shelley assemble the grand jury evidence on which twelve ranking Democrats, including Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence, were indicted.

"I registered as a non-partisan during the Earle administration," Adams said. "Prior to that I was a lifelong Republican, but I'm not a politician, I'm a policeman.

"I never asked the politics of any man on the force or never took a political contribution."

As a Democratic senator during the Republican administration prior to the Democratic regime of Governor Earle, Roberts led the fight in the state senate against bills for the construction of the new state finance building. The bills were defeated.

When the Democrats came into control of the state government, the general state authority was set up in 1937, and the finance building was constructed under the authority's $65,000,000 building program.

The first official to move into quarters in the now completed structure was Roberts.

It affords an informal social period, as well as a general discussion group on official business matters, for the deputies who have been engrossed frequently until late at night in the rush of the state's legal business.

Rider Backs Radcliffe For Another Term

Baltimore, Dec. 7 (AP)—"One hundred per cent" support of U. S. Senator George L. Radcliffe for renomination was announced today by Harrison Rider, Baltimore county Democratic leader.

Rider declared that on Radcliffe's record in the senate since 1935 "I believe that the democratic voters will insist on his renomination and that their votes will insure his re-election next November."

Neither Radcliffe nor Howard Bruce, Democratic national committeeman from Maryland who is expected to oppose the Senator in the primary, has formally announced his candidacy.

Rider said he had assured Radcliffe of his support "more than a month ago, and I see no reason for keeping it secret."

Graceful and Proper

IN MANY INSTANCES, the laws of this state require that members of opposing political parties be chosen for governmental agencies. It is a rule that obtains in most of the states, in accordance with the constitutional theory of checks and balances, and, in such light, it is a good rule.

In many states also there is statutory requirement that when an elective office holder dies or is otherwise incapacitated from holding his office, thus causing a vacancy, the appointive power must fill the position with a person of the same political affiliation of the one so removed. The theory of checks and balances there is overcome by the theory that, as such an office is beholden rather to the people than to the appointing power, the wishes of the people should prevail. There is reason for that statutory provision and the requirement in the absence of legal mandate might well be practiced as a custom, as, in fact, it is under a long established rule in some states.

In the light of such legislation and practices, and in view of the political ethics of the situation, it would be quite proper for Governor O'Conor to appoint a Republican to the vacancy caused on the Allegany County Board of Commissioners caused by the recent death of Harry W. Matheney, a Republican. He has the right of appointing any person he feels is fitted for the position, but it would be a graceful and not improper thing for him in this instance to look to the wishes of the county voters as originally expressed in the election of Mr. Matheney rather than to the importunities of politicians.

Getting Funny Again

IN ITALY the order has gone forth from the Duce to the controlled press that it liven things up along American lines, with more feature material, comic strips, non-political cartoons, picture pages and sports news.

It was not to be supposed that Mussolini, an old newspaperman himself, would put up forever with the kind of press that naturally evolves in the totalitarian state. When the absolutist moves in, the first victim is the right of free expression, and with it goes all life and sparkle and the civilized catholicity of interest that mark the complete and interesting newspaper. A denominator common to all zealots is an absence of humor, and inevitably this extends to the mouthpieces in their control. Certainly the dreariest newspapers of the century have been the tame journals of Nazi Germany these touching an all-time low in the Goebbell prize joke competition.

The Duce, of course, is more than just a former journalist who would recognize these defects, and no doubt his command to the boys to ginger things up has more than a surface significance. Perhaps it can be termed a small evidence, but evidence nonetheless, of his new orientation, of the swing back to what is European and civilized in its accommodation of the human spirit.

Luxuries

FIGURES which explain at least in part why it is difficult to stabilize business conditions have been issued by the National Industrial Conference Board.

A survey of consumer expenditures from 1910 to 1937 shows that the American public spent $44,500,000,000 more in the latter year than in 1910. Some of this increase must be discounted as far as the standard of living is concerned, for prices as well as the population increased during the period. Nevertheless, the figures seem to prove that the average man in 1937 had a gain of about one-seventh in actual purchasing power.

The average man did not spend this gain on necessities. In fact, the record shows that the proportion of total expenditure made for food, clothing and other needs declined. In 1910, 29.2 per cent of the family money went for food; in 1937 only 24.5 per cent was spent on things to eat. Where did the increase go? Into automobiles, with a jump from 4.1 to eleven per cent; into recreation, into medical care, and into other items not actually daily necessities.

This means that while the consumption of foods and other staples has remained relatively static, there is a margin of fluctuation in other purchases. The non-essentials which have played such a large and important role in business development since 1910, can be and are dispensed with in time of depression.

A depression causes a terrific decline in the consumption of these goods, throwing business off balance in a way which was impossible in the days when the family budget was largely devoted to things the family could not do without. The higher the standard of living, the higher the industrial instability of the nation. That, at least, seems to be the conclusion reached by the Conference Board.

Double Bookkeeping

THE PRESIDENT'S ANNOUNCEMENT that he will submit to Congress an "A" budgent, containing estimates of normal expenditures for national defense and a "B" budget of additional expenditures allegedly necessitated by the war in Europe is in line with the policy of deceit and evasion of the spirit, if not the letter, of the law which has characterized the New Deal's handling of the public finances since it came into power.

The obvious purpose is to throw a smoke screen about the extravagance and waste in our huge unbalanced budget by spotlighting the "emergency" national defense expenditures. It is an attempt to mislead the people into believing that the New Deal's reckless spending was made necessary by the war.

In his first term Mr. Roosevelt resorted to the trickery of a "regular" and an "emergency" budget to obscure the unsound condition of the public finances. Next, the administration resorted to the subterfuge of having the special agencies, such as the R. F. C., sell their own obligations to the public and use the proceeds to retire their obligations to the treasury, as if the agencies' guaranteed obligations were any the less obligations of the federal government than direct treasury obligations themselves.

The plain fact is that the New Deal has reached the bottom of the sugar barrel. The national debt is now close to $42,000,000,000, not counting contingent obligations. Some time during the next fiscal year a head-on collision is due between the irresistible force of spending and the immovable national debt limit of $45,000,000,000.

Whether in an "A" budget or a "B" budget, spending is spending. It's going to cost the taxpayers just as much no matter into how many budgets the total may be sliced.

The president says he has been using the blue pencil to good purpose on departmental budgets. Yet the only example he gives is the cutting of $3,000 from a $300,000 department by eliminating two $1,500 a year jobs.

The American people can hardly be fooled by the deceipt and double bookkeeping of the two budgets. The purpose is all too obvious: to blind the people to the true condition of federal finances, to serve as an excuse for another unbalanced budget and a pretext to justify either lifting of the present debt limit or the saddling of more crippling taxes upon the American people.

Wrapped Up in Leaves

MEN'S SUITS and overcoats are being made out of potato leaves and stems in Germany, it is reported by the American consulate in Leipzig, which tells of the newest development in the German commerce department as a result of the shortage of wool and wood. From another source comes the information that production of synthetic fats from coal, a process started in Germany about a year ago, is being expanded speedily and that housewives in Germany have worked out a barter system of their own to overcome the difficulties of rationing.

The housewives are assigned to certain stores according to the districts in which they live. Sometimes one district's stores will have a shortage in some commodity, but in another district there will be ample supplies. To cope with this uncertain condition, housewives telephone their friends in other districts and effect trades of surpluses so as to round out the needs of the family.

The war is being fought not only on the North sea and the Atlantic and the line between Germany and France, but in the homes of non-combatants, if there are any non-combatants in dictator countries. The war may come to an end, not when ammunition gives out and there are no more ships and trenches to withstand the enemy, but on the day when there are no more potato leaves to clothe the folk at home and no more food for housewives to exchange.

The man at the next desk says that perhaps the reason the wolf has not left his door despite better times is that the beast has been there so long he must consider himself a member of the family.

The man at the next desk says that in the next generations marriage-minded young men will be looking for brides who can handle a can-opener "just like mother used to do."

Now that western songs are popular again, broadcasting studios no doubt will be filled with that modern phenomenon—the cowless cowboy.

What is there to the rumor that a committee made up of Hitler and Joe Stalin meets regularly to decide on a Crime-of-the-Month?

Fable: Once upon a time a football expert selected an All-American football team and all the fans agreed it was a fine selection.

Love's labor lost: Looking through old clippings one finds a couple of dozen well-written obituaries of New York's Tammany.

Human Nature Changes

By MARSHALL MASLIN

The pessimists tell you, with a gleam of satisfaction in their eyes, that human nature never changes. They refer you to the harshness of a Pharaoh in Egypt 5,000 years ago. . . . They quote something that Plato wrote or Socrates said in Athens. . . . They speak of the madness of Caligula, the stuffiness of Cicero, the ambition of Caesar in ancient Rome. . . . They compare the skepticism of those who did not believe in the fifteenth century that the world was round with the skepticism of human beings today who doubt the solidity of the world. . . . They remind you of the horrible cruelty of the Aztecs less than 500 years ago, and show by examples from modern history that the cruelty of man has been only slightly refined through the ages.

Marshall Maslin

You will observe that the man who says that human nature never changes always has a very low opinion of it. He means that man has been cruel, greedy, vain, grandiose, lazy and small-brained and will always be. . . . And he makes no reference to man's courage, decency, unselfishness, kindness, loyalty, self-sacrifice, nobility, faith and idealism. . . . Also he measures man with a very short ruler. He takes but a small space of human history, forgetting or ignoring man's residence of millions of years on this changing globe. He does not compare men with his remote cave-dwelling ancestors; he compares him with his stumbling, striving brothers of only a few thousand years ago.

And that is unfair reasoning. . . . We say that human nature does not change, but how can we be so gloomily confident?

We cannot measure human beings as we do a tree or the flow of water from a reservoir, but we have seen enough of man to know that he is mysterious and incalculable. . . . A single man changes his habits, his desires, in the crucible of experience. Why should not all men change?

All breeders of flowers or of animals know of sudden and surprising changes that occur in the species with whom they work, not in single animals but in successive generations. They do not understand these variations, these "sports," these mutations, but they do know that they happen. The potato, the rose, the dog, the sheep—all these leap suddenly ahead (or fall behind, because all changes in nature are toward the better). . . . And if a plant or a beast has this great power within itself, why, O pessimist, deny this gift to man?

The Human Side Of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

Edwin C. Hill

American editorial opinion seems inclined to view with a mixture of irritation and amusement a recent suggestion that a shotgun marriage Sam and our Lady of the Snows. They are quite aware that the gentlemen and the lady have been dwelling in the same continental house for a century and a quarter, though in different apartments, naturally, and they perceive no reason for forced and violent nuptuals.

Such thoughts come to mind as Canada celebrates this year her sixty-seventh birthday as a dominion and as an independent nation. With a population now of about eleven million and a larger territory than the United States, Canada has achieved a lot in those years. She ranks as the world's fifth trading nation and her natural resources of fields, forests, mines and fisheries hardly have been equalled.

Still Greater Place

As the senior member of the British commonwealth, Canada's fine democratic system of government and the quality of her people assure her of a still greater place in time to come. What an example for quarrelling Europe have been the peaceful, neighborly relations between Canada and the United States for 125 years. Not a shot fired in anger. No bristling guns across the border. Canadians and Americans free to come and go as they will.

Last May the United States and Canada shook hands again in celebration of the Rush-Bagot agreement, signed in 1817, which pledged both Canada and the United States to let their border forts fall into ruin, and that no armed government vessel larger than a revenue cutter should be kept on the Great Lakes.

Pledge Is Kept

Honestly and faithfully has that pledge been kept. But, as much editorial opinion emphasizes, if full and complete understanding and friendship is to be maintained between our country and its splendid young neighbor, if poisonous suspicion is to be avoided, certain prejudices and total misconceptions of the Canadian point of view will have to be extinguished. Except for one region, which remains racially unchanged since the days of Champlain and Montcalm, Canada is British—British by birth, largely, and predominantly by sentiment and culture.

Extremely Proud

Canada is extremely proud of her place as an independent nation in the British commonwealth of nations. Canada has never had the least desire to join the American Union. Nothing is more irritating to the average Canadian than that very suggestion. British he is and British he remains.

A little while ago the editor of the Vancouver Sun expressed the conviction that while Canada's political, economical and social philosophy must always be her own, it would be a middle road between American extremism and British compromise.

Enduring Friendship

At all events, most Americans, one feels sure, salute our neighbor to the north, on this anniversary of friendship which, no matter what the state of affairs in Europe may be, no matter what uninformed and inexperienced voices may be raised, will never be broken. Do you remember Mr. Kipling's verses on "Our Lady of the Snows"?

"Daughter am I in my mother's house, but mistress in my own."
A nation spoke to a nation, a throne sent word to a throne,
"Daughter am I in my mother's house, but mistress in my own."
"The gates are mine to open, as the gates are mine to close."
"And I abide by my mother's house," said Our Lady of the Snows.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FELLOW-TRAVELER

Theory That All Adverse Criticism Is Wrong Is Viewed As Dangerous Guide

Where Tolerence Fails

From the Johnstown, Pa., Democrat

"Tolerance to violence," wrote Samuel B. Pettingill in one of his recent daily letters, "is not kindness to labor. It delivers labor to unbalanced men who can point to official tolerance as warrant for continued leadership. This is labor's road to ruin."

Level-headed labor men do not advocate violence. The wisest leader labor ever had was old Sam Gompers. Shortly before he died, in his last message to the men to whose welfare he had devoted his life he said: "I want to urge devotion to the principles of voluntarism. No lasting gain has ever come from compulsion."

There are labor leaders who regard violence as legitimate. For example, Earl Browder says:

"Some form of violence is unavoidable. There is no possible choice between violence and non-violence. The only choice is between the two sides of the class struggle."

Browder and his kind preach a war of extermination. But in the course of every war leaders arise who impose their will upon their class. And thus it has always come about that class struggles have always defeated their own purposes because they have invariably terminated by evolving two classes, those who govern and those who are governed. There are the Stalins and the Hitlers—and those subject to them.

Maryland Farm Musings

From the Extension Service of the University of Maryland

A recent survey of farm orchards near Baltimore and Washington showed that only three percent of the apple growers practiced occasional thinning. On the other hand, almost fifty percent of the peach growers found it necessary to thin their crops occasionally.

Pork products, including pork lard, have been added to the list of commodities obtainable with the blue surplus food order stamps under the stamp plan by an order of the secretary of agriculture. He has also authorized the FSCC to buy surplus lard and certain cuts of salt pork under its direct purchase and relief distribution program.

Charles E. Ratheli, Jr., 19, of Wye Mills, who was recently named champion livestock meat producer for Maryland, has also been awarded first place in the eastern states and will receive a trip to the eighteenth national 4-H Club congress held in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition held in Chicago from December 1 to 9.

Grangers from all parts of the state will gather at the University of Maryland in College Park on December 12, 13 and 14 for the sixty-seventh annual meeting of the Maryland State Grange. Senator Millard F. Tydings and Ezra B Whitman, chairman of the State Roads Commission, will be speakers at a luncheon session Wednesday, December 13, which will be an open meeting.

By MARK SULLIVAN

Washington, Dc. 7 — President Roosevelt, at his press conference, was asked a question: Would he sever diplomatic relations with Russia? To this Mr. Roosevelt gave a sound answer: Nothing at present; it is too early to decide.

Mark Sullivan

From that, Mr. Roosevelt went on with a remarkable comment. As reported in the next morning's newspapers, all versions substantially agree, with each other and with the present writer's understanding as he listened. The version here quoted is from the Washington Post. This did not bring out, as much as some other versions, all the touches of barbed sarcasm which Mr. Roosevelt put into both his words and manner:

Sarcastic At Critics

"He responded sarcastically to critics of the administration's foreign policies and said the stand maintained to date had the approval of most Americans. Criticisms have come largely, he said, from the Soviet press, a portion of the Nazi press, the publicity director for the Republican National Committee whose name he said he did not recall, and the Hearst papers; all of which, he said, are substantially in accord in the attacks. Criticism has come also from statesmen in Russia, some in Germany and a comparatively small number of politically minded people in the United States House and Senate. He concluded that the foreign policies that Secretary of State Hull is carrying out day to day must be pretty good."

The deliberateness of Mr. Roosevelt's utterance, and the form of it, suggested that he had thought it out in advance. As a comment on foreign policy, put out by the president of the United States, it is extraordinary. Factually, one would have to seek far for evidence. Is there any such "accord" in criticism as would justify Mr. Roosevelt's grouping, in a common odium, the seven contemned sources that Mr. Roosevelt listed — a grouping more emotionally angry, and politically effective, than factually sound:

The Soviet press
A portion of the Nazi press
The publicity director of the Republican National Committee
The Hearst papers
Statesmen in Russia
Some statesmen in Germany
Some politically minded persons in the United States Senate and House

Dubious Test

But let us assume Mr. Roosevelt is factually correct. Even so, is this an adequate test of the soundness of foreign policy? So far as one can wrench any logic out of it, it amounts to saying: If a policy is criticized by those you don't like, it is, because of that very fact, a good policy.

That is a poor ground for decision, on any question, national or individual. Yet just that method is practiced by many persons, in whom emotion prevails over reason. The method reduced to simplicity, is: find out what your critics would like you to do — then do the opposite. The result is, your decisions are determined, not by yourself but by your critics and opponents. Not a few persons go through life that way.

There is coming to Washington next month, and to the rest of the country, a motion-picture which is described, by persons who have seen previews of it, as strikingly excellent. It is called "Lincoln in Illinois." In it, or perhaps in Carl Sandburg's recent biography of Lincoln, Mr. Roosevelt might find, remuneratively to himself and to the country, a Lincoln story, which is here repeated from memory — doubtless many readers will recall it more exactly:

Lincoln Story

Lincoln had made McClellan general of his armies. McClellan, in private conversations and even publicly, criticized Lincoln bitterly, told unbecoming stories about him. This was reported to Lincoln by friends, who told Lincoln he ought, for this cause to dismiss McClellan. Lincoln replied: "I only expect General McClellan to win the war for me — if he will do that, I am willing to hold his horse's bridle."

A surmise about Mr. Roosevelt's irritation — and this is a surmise only — might say he is harassed by conflict within himself. It is safe to assume he feels about Russia's invasion of Finland as most Americans do; and that he would like to express his indignation by abrupt and conspicious action. But he may be deterred from severing diplomatic relations by several considerations. He may be deterred by considerations of principle or of justified expediency. Almost certainly the reasons, pro and con, are better known to Mr. Roosevelt and to Secretary of State Hull; than to their critics.

May Sense Distress

Or, Mr. Roosevelt may be conscious of the distress of spirit about Russia that has been brought upon some New Dealers. For several years some New Dealers courted Russia; in some cases took inspiration from Russia. Now, since Russia's pact with Nazi, they are obliged to contemn Russia. Their change of attitude, as expressed in their relations with the Russian Ambassador at Washington, is described by columnists Alsop and Kintner:

"In the old days, Ambassador Oumansky was decidedly popular among extreme New Deal left - wingers and their numerous friends and camp followers . . . The left - wing New Dealers, like liberals all over the world, clung to their faith in the Soviet Union until the last breathless moment. Now their bitterness is compounded by their disillusion."

On the Record

By United States Senator Millard E. Tydings, Democrat, of Maryland

We must begin now to approach the day when we spend no more than we take in. It is elementary that we cannot go on indefinitely spending more than we raise. And the longer we postpone it, the harder it is going to be for the people, particularly the poor, to bear the burdens that will be necessary.

Break with Russia Not Advisable

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Hugh Johnson

Washington, Dec. 7.—What would we gain for Finland or ourselves by breaking off diplomatic relations with Russia? If it is a step toward breaking off trade relations it could be understood as an act of economic war, but merely withdrawing our agency for observation and communication is a sort of petulent gesture. It would mean little or nothing to the Bolos and it would handicap our own international relations, cutting off our national nose to spite our face.

It is true than an American ambassador in Moscow means a Bolo ambassador in Washington, but the latter is at least a barely tolerated institution. We haven't any secrets for him to discover that all the world doesn't know. In spite of strong and continued efforts to obtain commercial credits here and a record of payments on the dot, Soviet Russia has never been able to build up any considerable trade on usual terms. And all the Soviet ambassador has to transmit to his government is news of continuing and increasing detestation of this nation for everything Communistic.

No Great Shakes

It is equally true that as an outpost of information our embassy in Russia is no great shakes. Our military observers in almost every other country know a great deal about what is going on in their line—but not in Russia. That dictatorship has learned the art of impenetrable secrecy. On economic, military and political fronts, Russia remains a guess.

I realize that these remarks seem to weaken the principal suggestion against withdrawing our ambassador and to say: "Neither embassy amounts to much anyway, therefore let em both go." But it isn't as bad as that. So long as we are represented in Russia, we do have a ticket to the show even if it is way off in the left field bleachers. We can get some understanding of developments. We can intervene to protect our people. We can build up at least on paper, our case for international decency. We might even be in a position, through good offices, to add something to a peace.

Real Danger in Crackpots

The Russian embassy here may have abused our hospitality to further Communist activities—but the actual output of the Communist party as such doesn't amount to much here. Especially recently it has tended to kill itself. Our danger is not enlisted Communist partisans. We can take care of them with a couple of Irish cops. Our danger is crackpots in high official positions who scorn any Soviet connections and are scorned by them, but harbor communistic purposes and call them "liberal." The Russian Embassy has less to do with that than the White House.

The cruel, lying, brutal conduct of the Communists in Finland is doing more to effect Communism here and elsewhere in the world than anything either embassy or our whole government could do. It is affecting it to its destruction. The bloodiest ravages and most savage treachery of our Apache and Commanche Indiants were ping-pong compared to these bloody orgies. Nevertheless, we kept our Indian agencies in those reservations as long as the agent could stay there and live. It avoided many troubles, softened thoes that came, helped keep our policy straight and eventually made for peace.

May Go on Relief

We have no ambassador to Germany. We are talking about ceasing trade relations with Japan and all relations with Russia. Because they have been absorbed, we have no diplomatic relations with Austria, Czechoslovakia, Abyssinia and Poland. Pretty soon, at this rate, between losing our representation in the absorbed countries and abandoning it with the absorbers, our diplomatic corps will have to go on relief. If that isn't isolationism, what is it? And what do these turtle tactics gain for us or any other nation?—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Graceful and Proper

IN MANY INSTANCES, the laws of this state require that members of opposing political parties be chosen for governmental agencies. It is a rule that obtains in most of the states, in accordance with the constitutional theory of checks and balances, and, in such light, it is a good rule.

In many states also there is statutory requirement that when an elective office holder dies or is otherwise incapacitated from holding his office, thus causing a vacancy, the appointive power must fill the position with a person of the same political affiliation of the one so removed. The theory of checks and balances there is overcome by the theory that, as such an office is beholden rather to the people than to the appointing power, the wishes of the people should prevail. There is reason for that statutory provision and the requirement in the absence of legal mandate might well be practiced as a custom, as, in fact, it is under a long established rule in some states.

In the light of such legislation and practices, and in view of the political ethics of the situation, it would be quite proper for Governor O'Conor to appoint a Republican to the vacancy caused on the Allegany County Board of Commissioners caused by the recent death of Harry W. Matheney, a Republican. He has the right of appointing any person he feels is fitted for the position, but it would be a graceful and not improper thing for him in this instance to look to the wishes of the county voters as originally expressed in the election of Mr. Matheney rather than to the importunities of politicians.

Getting Funny Again

IN ITALY the order has gone forth from the Duce to the controlled press that it liven things up along American lines, with more feature material, comic strips, non-political cartoons, picture pages and sports news.

It was not to be supposed that Mussolini, an old newspaperman himself, would put up forever with the kind of press that naturally evolves in the totalitarian state. When the absolutist moves in, the first victim is the right of free expression, and with it goes all life and sparkle and the civilized catholicity of interest that mark the complete and interesting newspaper. A denominator common to all zealots is an absence of humor, and inevitably this extends to the mouthpieces in their control. Certainly the dreariest newspapers of the century have been the tame journals of Nazi Germany these touching an all-time low in the Goebbels prize joke competition.

The Duce, of course, is more than just a former journalist who would recognize these defects, and no doubt his command to the boys to ginger things up has more than a surface significance. Perhaps it can be termed a small evidence, but evidence nonetheless, of his new orientation, of the swing back to what is European and civilized in its accommodation of the human spirit.

Luxuries

FIGURES which explain at least in part why it is difficult to stabilize business conditions have been issued by the National Industrial Conference Board.

A survey of consumer expenditures from 1910 to 1937 shows that the American public spent $44,500,000,000 more in the latter year than in 1910. Some of this increase must be discounted as far as the standard of living is concerned, for prices as well as the population increased during the period. Nevertheless, the figures seem to prove that the average man in 1937 had a gain of about one-seventh in actual purchasing power.

The average man did not spend this gain on necessities. In fact, the record shows that the proportion of total expenditure made for food, clothing and other needs declined. In 1910, 29.2 per cent of the family money went for food; in 1937 only 24.5 per cent was spent on things to eat. Where did the increase go? Into automobiles, with a jump from 4.1 to eleven per cent; into recreation, into medical care, and into other items not actually daily necessities.

This means that while the consumption of foods and other staples has remained relatively static, there is a margin of fluctuation in other purchases. The non-essentials which have played such a large and important role in business development since 1910, can be and are dispensed with in time of depression.

A depression causes a terrific decline in the consumption of these goods, throwing business off balance in a way which was impossible in the days when the family budget was largely devoted to things the family could not do without. The higher the standard of living, the higher the industrial instability of the nation. That, at least, seems to be the conclusion reached by the Conference Board.

Double Bookkeeping

THE PRESIDENT'S ANNOUNCEMENT that he will submit to Congress an "A" budgent, containing estimates of normal expenditures for national defense and a "B" budget of additional expenditures allegedly necessitated by the war in Europe is in line with the policy of deceit and evasion of the spirit, if not the letter, of the law which has characterized the New Deal's handling of the public finances since it came into power.

The obvious purpose is to throw a smoke screen about the extravagance and waste in our huge unbalanced budget by spotlighting the "emergency" national defense expenditures. It is an attempt to mislead the people into believing that the New Deal's reckless spending was made necessary by the war.

In his first term Mr. Roosevelt resorted to the trickery of a "regular" and an "emergency" budget to obscure the unsound condition of the public finances. Next, the administration resorted to the subterfuge of having the special agencies, such as the R. F. C., sell their own obligations to the public and use the proceeds to retire their obligations to the treasury, as if the agencies' guaranteed obligations were any the less obligations of the federal government than direct treasury obligations themselves.

The plain fact is that the New Deal has reached the bottom of the sugar barrel. The national debt is now close to $42,000,000,000, not counting contingent obligations. Some time during the next fiscal year a head-on collision is due between the irresistible force of spending and the immovable national debt limit of $45,000,000,000.

Whether in an "A" budget or a "B" budget, spending is spending. It's going to cost the taxpayers just as much no matter into how many budgets the total may be sliced.

The president says he has been using the blue pencil to good purpose on departmental budgets. Yet the only example he gives is the cutting of $3,000 from a $300,000 department by eliminating two $1,500 a year jobs.

The American people can hardly be fooled by the deceipt and double bookkeeping of the two budgets. The purpose is all too obvious: to blind the people to the true condition of federal finances, to serve as an excuse for another unbalanced budget and a pretext to justify either lifting of the present debt limit or the saddling of more crippling taxes upon the American people.

Wrapped Up in Leaves

MEN'S SUITS and overcoats are being made out of potato leaves and stems in Germany, it is reported by the American consulate in Leipzig, which tells of the newest development in the German commerce department as a result of the shortage of wool and wood. From another source comes the information that production of synthetic fats from coal, a process started in Germany about a year ago, is being expanded speedily and that housewives in Germany have worked out a barter system of their own to overcome the difficulties of rationing.

The housewives are assigned to certain stores according to the districts in which they live. Sometimes one district's stores will have a shortage in some commodity, but in another district there will be ample supplies. To cope with this uncertain condition, housewives telephone their friends in other districts and effect trades of surpluses so as to round out the needs of the family.

The war is being fought not only on the North sea and the Atlantic and the line between Germany and France, but in the homes of non-combatants, if there are any non-combatants in dictator countries. The war may come to an end, not when ammunition gives out and there are no more ships and trenches to withstand the enemy, but on the day when there are no more potato leaves to clothe the folk at home and no more food for housewives to exchange.

Human Nature Changes

By MARSHALL MASLIN

The pessimists tell you, with a gleam of satisfaction in their eyes, that human nature never changes. They refer you to the harshness of a Pharaoh in Egypt 5,000 years ago. . . . They quote something that Plato wrote or Socrates said in Athens. . . . They speak of the madness of Caligula, the stuffiness of Cicero, the ambition of Caesar in ancient Rome. . . . They compare the skepticism of those who did not believe in the fifteenth century that the world was round with the skepticism of human beings today who doubt the solidity of the world. . . . They remind you of the horrible cruelty of the Aztecs less than 500 years ago, and show by examples from modern history that the cruelty of man has been only slightly refined through the ages.

Marshall Maslin

You will observe that the man who says that human nature never changes always has a very low opinion of it. He means that man has been cruel, greedy, vain, grandiose, lazy and small-brained and will always be. . . . And he makes no reference to man's courage, decency, unselfishness, kindness, loyalty, self-sacrifice, nobility, faith and idealism. . . . Also he measures man with a very short ruler. He takes but a small space of human history, forgetting or ignoring man's residence of millions of years on this changing globe. He does not compare men with his remote cave-dwelling ancestors; he compares him with his stumbling, striving brothers of only a few thousand years ago.

And that is unfair reasoning. . . . We say that human nature does not change, but how can we be so gloomily confident?

We cannot measure human beings as we do a tree or the flow of water from a reservoir, but we have seen enough of man to know that he is mysterious and incalculable. . . . A single man changes his habits, his desires, in the crucible of experience. Why should not all men change?

All breeders of flowers or of animals know of sudden and surprising changes that occur in the species with whom they work, not in single animals but in successive generations. They do not understand these variations, these "sports," these mutations, but they do know that they happen. The potato, the rose, the dog, the sheep—all these leap suddenly ahead (or fall behind, because all changes in nature are toward the better). . . . And if a plant or a beast has this great power within itself, why, O pessimist, deny this gift to man?

The Human Side Of the News

Edwin C. Hill

American editorial opinion seems inclined to view with a mixture of irritation and amusement a recent suggestion that a shotgun marriage Sam and our Lady of the Snows. They are quite aware that the gentlemen and the lady have been dwelling in the same continental house for a century and a quarter, though in different apartments, naturally, and they perceive no reason for forced and violent nuptuals.

Such thoughts come to mind as Canada celebrates this year her sixty-seventh birthday as a dominion and as an independent nation. With a population now of about eleven million and a larger territory than the United States, Canada has achieved a lot in those years. She ranks as the world's fifth trading nation and her natural resources of fields, forests, mines and fisheries hardly have been equalled.

Still Greater Place

As the senior member of the British commonwealth, Canada's fine democratic system of government and the quality of her people assure her of a still greater place in time to come. What an example for quarrelling Europe have been the peaceful, neighborly relations between Canada and the United States for 125 years. Not a shot fired in anger. No bristling guns across the border. Canadians and Americans free to come and go as they will.

Last May the United States and Canada shook hands again in celebration of the Rush-Bagot agreement, signed in 1817, which pledged both Canada and the United States to let their border forts fall into ruin, and that no armed government vessel larger than a revenue cutter should be kept on the Great Lakes.

Pledge Is Kept

Honestly and faithfully has that pledge been kept. But, as much editorial opinion emphasizes, if full and complete understanding and friendship is to be maintained between our country and its splendid young neighbor, if poisonous suspicion is to be avoided, certain prejudices and total misconceptions of the Canadian point of view will have to be extinguished. Except for one region, which remains racially unchanged since the days of Champlain and Montcalm, Canada is British—British by birth, largely, and predominantly by sentiment and culture.

Extremely Proud

Canada is extremely proud of her place as an independent nation in the British commonwealth of nations. Canada has never had the least desire to join the American Union. Nothing is more irritating to the average Canadian than that very suggestion. British he is and British he remains.

A little while ago the editor of the Vancouver Sun expressed the conviction that while Canada's political, economical and social philosophy must always be her own, it would be a middle road between American extremism and British compromise.

Enduring Friendship

At all events, most Americans, one feels sure, salute our neighbor to the north, on this anniversary of friendship which, no matter what the state of affairs in Europe may be, no matter what uninformed and inexperienced voices may be raised, will never be broken. Do you remember Mr. Kipling's verses on "Our Lady of the Snows"?

"Daughter am I in my mother's house, but mistress in my own."
A nation spoke to a nation, a throne sent word to a throne,
"Daughter am I in my mother's house, but mistress in my own."
"The gates are mine to open, as the gates are mine to close."
"And I abide by my mother's house," said Our Lady of the Snows.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FELLOW-TRAVELER

From the Johnstown, Pa., Democrat

"Tolerance to violence," wrote Samuel B. Pettingill in one of his recent daily letters, "is not kindness to labor. It delivers labor to unbalanced men who can point to official tolerance as warrant for continued leadership. This is labor's road to ruin."

Level-headed labor men do not advocate violence. The wisest leader labor ever had was old Sam Gompers. Shortly before he died, in his last message to the men to whose welfare he had devoted his life he said: "I want to urge devotion to the principles of voluntarism. No lasting gain has ever come from compulsion."

There are labor leaders who regard violence as legitimate. For example, Earl Browder says:

"Some form of violence is unavoidable. There is no possible choice between violence and non-violence. The only choice is between the two sides of the class struggle."

Browder and his kind preach a war of extermination. But in the course of every war leaders arise who impose their will upon their class. And thus it has always come about that class struggles have always defeated their own purposes because they have invariably terminated by evolving two classes, those who govern and those who are governed. There are the Stalins and the Hitlers—and those subject to them.

By MARK SULLIVAN

Washington, Dc. 7 — President Roosevelt, at his press conference, was asked a question: Would he sever diplomatic relations with Russia? To this Mr. Roosevelt gave a sound answer: Nothing at present; it is too early to decide.

Mark Sullivan

From that, Mr. Roosevelt went on with a remarkable comment. As reported in the next morning's newspapers, all versions substantially agree, with each other and with the present writer's understanding as he listened. The version here quoted is from the Washington Post. This did not bring out, as much as some other versions, all the touches of barbed sarcasm which Mr. Roosevelt put into both his words and manner:

Sarcastic At Critics

"He responded sarcastically to critics of the administration's foreign policies and said the stand maintained to date had the approval of most Americans. Criticisms have come largely, he said, from the Soviet press, a portion of the Nazi press, the publicity director for the Republican National Committee whose name he said he did not recall, and the Hearst papers, all of which, he said, are substantially in accord in the attacks. Criticism has come also from statesmen in Russia, some in Germany and a comparatively small number of politically minded people in the United States House and Senate. He concluded that the foreign policies that Secretary of State Hull is carrying out day to day must be pretty good."

The deliberateness of Mr. Roosevelt's utterance, and the form of it, suggested that he had thought it out in advance. As a comment on foreign policy, put out by the president of the United States, it is extraordinary. Factually, one would have to seek far for evidence. Is there any such "accord" in criticism as would justify Mr. Roosevelt's grouping, in a common odium, the seven contemned sources that Mr. Roosevelt listed — a grouping more emotionally angry, and politically effective, than factually sound:

The Soviet press
A portion of the Nazi press
The publicity director of the Republican National Committee
The Hearst papers
Statesmen in Russia
Some statesmen in Germany

Dubious Test

But let us assume Mr. Roosevelt is factually correct. Even so, is this an adequate test of the soundness of foreign policy? So far as one can wrench any logic out of it, it amounts to saying: If a policy is criticized by those you don't like, it is, because of that very fact, a good policy.

That is a poor ground for decision, on any question, national or individual. Yet just that method is practiced by many persons, in whom emotion prevails over reason. The method reduced to simplicity, is: find out what your critics would like you to do — then do the opposite. The result is, your decisions are determined, not by yourself but by your critics and opponents. Not a few persons go through life that way.

There is coming to Washington next month, and to the rest of the country, a motion-picture which is described, by persons who have seen previews of it, as strikingly excellent. It is called "Lincoln in Illinois." In it, or perhaps in Carl Sandburg's recent biography of Lincoln, Mr. Roosevelt might find, remuneratively to himself and to the country, a Lincoln story, which is here repeated from memory — doubtless many readers will recall it more exactly:

Lincoln Story

Lincoln had made McClellan general of his armies. McClellan, in private conversations and even publicly, criticized Lincoln bitterly, told unbecoming stories about him. This was reported to Lincoln by friends, who told Lincoln he ought, for this cause to dismiss McClellan. Lincoln replied: "I only expect General McClellan to win the war for me — if he will do that, I am willing to hold his horse's bridle."

A surmise about Mr. Roosevelt's irritation — and this is a surmise only — might say he is harassed by conflict within himself. It is safe to assume he feels about Russia's invasion of Finland as most Americans do; and that he would like to express his indignation by abrupt and conspicious action. But he may be deterred from severing diplomatic relations by several considerations. He may be deterred by considerations of principle or of justified expediency. Almost certainly the reasons, pro and con, are better known to Mr. Roosevelt and to Secretary of State Hull, than to their critics.

May Sense Distress

Or, Mr. Roosevelt may be conscious of the distress of spirit about Russia that has been brought upon some New Dealers. For several years some New Dealers courted Russia; in some cases took inspiration from Russia. Now, since Russia's pact with Nazi, they are obliged to contemn Russia. Their change of attitude, as expressed in their relations with the Russian Ambassador at Washington, is described by columnists Alsop and Kintner:

"In the old days, Ambassador Oumansky was decidedly popular among extreme New Deal left-wingers and their numerous friends and camp followers . . . The left-wing New Dealers, like liberals all over the world, clung to their faith in the Soviet Union until the last breathless moment. Now their bitterness is compounded by their disillusion."

On the Record

By United States Senator Millard E. Tydings, Democrat, of Maryland

We must begin now to approach the day when we spend no more than we take in. It is elementary that we cannot go on indefinitely spending more than we raise. And the longer we postpone it, the harder it is going to be for the people, particularly the poor, to bear the burdens that will be necessary.

Break with Russia Not Advisable

Hugh Johnson

Washington, Dec. 7.—What would we gain for Finland or ourselves by breaking off diplomatic relations with Russia? If it is a step toward breaking off trade relations it could be understood as an act of economic war, but merely withdrawing our agency for observation and communication is a sort of petulent gesture. It would mean little or nothing to the Bolos and it would handicap our own international relations, cutting off our national nose to spite our face.

It is true than an American ambassador in Moscow means a Bolo ambassador in Washington, but the latter is at least a barely tolerated institution. We haven't any secrets for him to discover that all the world doesn't know. In spite of strong and continued efforts to obtain commercial credits here and a record of payments on the dot, Soviet Russia has never been able to build up any considerable trade on usual terms. And all the Soviet ambassador has to transmit to his government is news of continuing and increasing detestation of this nation for everything Communistic.

No Great Shakes

It is equally true that as an outpost of information our embassy in Russia is no great shakes. Our military observers in almost every other country know a great deal about what is going on in their line—but not in Russia. That dictatorship has learned the art of impenetrable secrecy. On economic, military and political fronts, Russia remains a guess.

I realize that these remarks seem to weaken the principal suggestion against withdrawing our ambassador and to say: "Neither embassy amounts to much anyway, therefore let em both go." But it isn't as bad as that. So long as we are represented in Russia, we do have a ticket to the show even if it is way off in the left field bleachers. We can get some understanding of developments. We can intervene to protect our people. We can build up, at least on paper, our case for international decency. We might even be in a position, through good offices, to add something to a peace.

Real Danger in Crackpots

The Russian embassy here may have abused our hospitality to further Communist activities—but the actual output of the Communist party as such doesn't amount to much here. Especially recently it has tended to kill itself. Our danger is not enlisted Communist partisans. We can take care of them with a couple of Irish cops. Our danger is crackpots in high official positions who scorn any Soviet connections and are scorned by them, but harbor communistic purposes and call them "liberal." The Russian Embassy has less to do with that than the White House.

The cruel, lying, brutal conduct of the Communists in Finland is doing more to effect Communism here and elsewhere in the world than anything either embassy or our whole government could do. It is affecting it to its destruction. The bloodiest ravages and most savage treachery of our Apache and Commanche Indiants were ping-pong compared to these bloody orgies. Nevertheless, we kept our Indian agencies in those reservations as long as the agent could stay there and live. It avoided many troubles, softened thoes that came, helped keep our policy straight and eventually made for peace.

May Go on Relief

We have no ambassador to Germany. We are talking about ceasing trade relations with Japan and all relations with Russia. Because they have been absorbed, we have no diplomatic relations with Austria, Czechoslovakia, Abyssinia and Poland. Pretty soon, at this rate, between losing our representation in the absorbed countries and abandoning it with the absorbers, our diplomatic corps will have to go on relief. If that isn't isolationism, what is it? And what do these turtle tactics gain for us or any other nation?—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Morning Motto

A good jest in time of misfortune is food and drink. It is strength to the arm, digestion to the stomach, and courage to the heart. A prosperous man can afford to be melancholy, but if the miserable are so, they are worse than dead — it is sure to kill them.—WARE

Youth In The News

The Toothless Generation

SURVIVED: Born three months early, the Wylde twins—Janice (left) and James—of Buffalo, were given a 1000-to-1 chance to live. Here they are, very much alive, on their first anniversary.

SAVED: Judy Olsen, 11-months-old, of Chicago, fell into a severe bronchial spasm. Her parents snatched her up, breathed into her mouth, forced air into her lungs, saved her life.

EXHIBITED: In 1937, movie actress Mary Astor eloped with Manuel Del Campo. Recently, five-month-old Anthony Paul Del Campo was posed by his mother for his first picture.

INVESTIGATED: A St. Louis city official asserted the parents of the six-month-old Stillman triplets—LaVerne, Laura and LaVonne—were unable to care for them, and he asked that they be made public wards.

Times Are Tough For Map-Makers

Paris (AP) — French map makers find that the Frenchman no longer demands tourist road maps so much as detailed topographical maps showing the rivers, hills, forests and roads of the region where his troops are.

With these maps, which are displayed in the most conspicuous spaces in show windows of stationery and book stores, are sold little pin flags of the countries at war.

Like football games in America, the war is followed in France from newspaper and radio reports by dramatizing it with symbolic flags punched into a parlor table.

Shops also report heavy sales of maps of Europe which lately have been supplemented by maps of Eastern Europe showing the division of Poland by Germany and Russia.

When asked if the division will be marked on the larger maps of all Europe, an agent in one of France's leading map maknig houses replied, "No, we'll wait awhile for that. It's still too much of a gamble."

John Bull Story

With The British Expeditionary Forces in France (AP)—The best sign in France in view of the furious inaction of the war is one hung near an anti-aircraft gun along one of the roads. Two gunners in helmets are always on duty; the gun is ready for action. But just behind them hangs a sign "chasse interdite" hunting forbidden.

Spanish Refugees Live as 'Cave Men'

Algiers (AP)—Four former militiamen of the Spanish Republican army have been sent to a concentration camp near Algiers after forcing a Spanish lighthouse tender to carry them in his motorboat from their hiding place on the island of Minorca to Algeria.

The bearded quartet told French Algerian police officials that they had been hiding in caves since the surrender of the island to Franco and the subsequent end of the civil war.

When their food gave out, the former militiamen came out of hiding and forced the lighthouse tender at pistol point to ferry them to the little fishing port of Madrague, twelve miles from Algiers, where they were arrested by French police.

Keep Beauty Fresh

By HELEN FOLLETT

MISS LAZY BONES, who loves her soft cushions and won't walk a step if she can help it, will eventually get the shock of her life. The bathroom scales will report from week to week that she is taking on weight and she won't be able to pack herself into her frocks. She can ward off this sad state of affairs if she will use restraint when the good things of the table are set before her, and if she will do a little daily exercise.

Breathing exercises are easy enough; she can start with them—five minutes night and morning. Her complexion will be more colorful, she'll have ginger in her steps.

Diaphragmatic breathing tightens up tummy muscles, slims down the waist, does wonders to stimulate the activity of the intestinal tract. Stand tall, chest high, hips back. Pull in each breath, flattening the abdomen; expel the air forcibly.

By clavicular breathing is meant the lifting of the collar bones and the shoulders. Stretch your neck, string out your backbone, take a slow, deep breath, pulling the torso upward from the waistline.

Costal breathing is achieved by throwing out and expanding the lungs to the limit. When you do this, clasp your hands together behind your back at the waistline and press against your backbones.

Perspiration is a normal functioning of the sweat glands. It is the skin's cooling system. Excessive moisture is not normal unless one has exercised vigorously or been subjected to extreme heat.

Nervousness films the flesh with moisture. If a deterrent on perspiration remedy does not bring desired results, the chances are that the trouble is caused by the emotions. In that event the proper step is a visit to the family physician for a complete medical examination. Individuals who give way to their emotions are sometimes suffering from some form of glandular disturbance.

Let's Go Driving In Ethiopia

Rome (AP)—Italian highway engineesr say travel over roads in Ehiopia now is assured despite the great summer rains in that country.

Modernization of the highways has put an end to the conditions that made traffic impossible in the past.

All of the macadamized and asphalt roads have stood the test of torrential rains.

A study made of the family statistics of 200 airline pilots showed that the 146 married ones among them had an average of only .8 of a child each.

A Little Beaver Showed Him

AP Feature Service

Kemmerer, Wyo.—Rancher T. D. O'Neil of Big Piney was having trouble building dams, so he went to school in a beaver pond.

Studying beaver methods, he noted that the busy little animals entwined tree limbs and branches and "cememted" the whole with lots of mud.

In time, the tangle of brush becomes embedded in the creek bottom and the water deposits more silt that catches on and anchors the limbs more solidly.

Eventually the beaver colony has a dam that withstands the high water season and virtually is indestructible.

Now Rancher O'Neil builds his check dams in small creeks to store or divert water, after the beaver fashion and he reports much less washout trouble.

No Rolling Stone, This

Walla Walla, Wash. (AP)—Eugene Tausick, business man, lays claim to being Walla Walla's most permanent citizen. Or the Pacific Northwest's, for that matter. Tausick has lived and voted in the same precinct for 50 years. All that time he's been in the same business—operating a laundry.

Aquarius is the zodiacal sign of those born in January, and friendship, leadership and personal magnetism are qualities that sign bestows on its children. They are said to be greatly augmented if the Aquarius born wear the garnet, January birthstone.

To Have FASTER, WHITER WASHES with the SAFETY You've Always Wanted

SIMPLY DO THIS: Get a large-size package of New High-Test OXYDOL at your dealer's at the regular price. And for 1 penny more—accept this exquisite 4-purpose bowl. Your money back, if you don't agree New High-Test Oxydol is the fastest, whitest-washing, safe laundry soap you've ever tried!

WE REALIZE you can't judge a laundry soap in the pages of a newspaper or over the radio. The place where a laundry soap proves itself is in your home. Hence we offer you this radiantly beautiful glass bowl for a single penny—solely to induce you to try the amazing new High-Test OXYDOL in your home—at our risk!

You risk nothing. So get the bowl—and try High-Test Oxydol for your next washing. Use it in tub or machine. If you don't agree it's the fastest, whitest-washing, SAFE laundry soap you've ever tried, return the unused portion, get your money back!

High-Test Oxydol can offer astonishing results because it is a revolutionary "new-type" soap, containing a remarkable new ingredient. An ingredient that combines white-washing power with SAFETY in a way that scientists have sought for years.

Fortified by this new ingredient, High-Test Oxydol has been found to do these amazing things, compared to less efficient soaps tested:

First: It gets white clothes as much as 9 to 11 shades whiter than other bar and package soaps lacking its new ingredient. Actual Tintometer shades, as shown by our laboratory tests

Second: Cup for cup, it gives up to THREE TIMES THE SUDS—suds stand up 2 to 3 times longer.

Third: Yet is SAFE for washable colors, fabrics, and hands. So safe, that even cotton prints given the equivalent of a full year's washing, showed no perceptible sign of fading—came out looking bright and fresh as new.

In tub washing, new High-Test Oxydol soaks dirt loose in 10 minutes. No scrubbing, no boiling. Even "extra-dirty" spots come white with a few quick rubs. This saves time—and ends the back-breaking drudgery of washboard rubbing. And clothes last 2 to 3 times longer, from the standpoint of washday wear and tear.

In washing machines—High-Test Oxydol's efficiency is so remarkable that leading washing machine makers are switching to it—as the soap they recommend for whiter, brighter washes in washers old or new. It soaks out dirt while the washer runs—gives double-action wash.

High-Test Oxydol is economical, too. Each cup of it goes up to ¼ again as far as less efficient soaps tested.

Don't Delay—Offer Limited

So, no matter what soap you've been using, try new High-Test OXYDOL—and see for yourself. Either it gives you faster, whiter washes with the SAFETY you've always wanted—or you get your money back. But don't delay. Get a large-size package today—while you can get a radiantly colored 4-purpose Bowl for only 1¢ more. Procter & Gamble.

First: It gets white clothes as much as 9 to 11 shades whiter than other bar and package soaps lacking its new ingredient. Actual Tintometer shades, as shown by our laboratory tests

Second: Cup for cup, it gives up to THREE TIMES THE SUDS—suds stand up 2 to 3 times longer.

Third: Yet is SAFE for washable colors, fabrics, and hands. So safe, that even cotton prints given the equivalent of a full year's washing, showed no perceptible sign of fading—came out looking bright and fresh as new.

In tub washing, new High-Test Oxydol soaks dirt loose in 10 minutes. No scrubbing, no boiling. Even "extra-dirty" spots come white with a few quick rubs. This saves time—and ends the back-breaking drudgery of washboard rubbing. And clothes last 2 to 3 times longer, from the standpoint of washday wear and tear.

In washing machines—High-Test Oxydol's efficiency is so remarkable that leading washing machine makers are switching to it—as the soap they recommend for whiter, brighter washes in washers old or new. It soaks out dirt while the washer runs—gives double-action wash.

High-Test Oxydol is economical, too. Each cup of it goes up to ¼ again as far as less efficient soaps tested.

Don't Delay—Offer Limited

So, no matter what soap you've been using, try new High-Test OXYDOL—and see for yourself. Either it gives you faster, whiter washes with the SAFETY you've always wanted—or you get your money back. But don't delay. Get a large-size package today—while you can get a radiantly colored 4-purpose Bowl for only 1¢ more. Procter & Gamble.

940's Ski Clothes Mean Business

Fitted Jackets Are Worn 'With Instructor Trousers'

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

The new 1940 ski suits are cut for serious snow business. The practical narrow "instructor trousers" which first skimmed down European ski runs have been adapted to wide use this year. Most of them are topped by semi-fitted jackets to make suits that have a smart professional look. All nonsense has been shorn from their design.

Scores of them are made of wool gabardine—in such colors as navy blue, a new, medium, grayed "Norse blue," green or black. Occasionally an oak leaf is appliqued on collar or pocket, but more often trimming is confined to a bright streak of red piping. Burnished silver buttons make the fastenings and add a little shine.

Some suits are designed with reversible jackets, which are cotton poplin on one side, plain or plaid wool of contrasting color on the other, so that they give one suit the appearance of being two. (Experts say poplin jackets are much in favor with serious skiers because of their lightness of weight).

Poplin mittens—wool lined and leather palmed—are much in demand, too, since they afford a good grip. Favorite headgear is a visored ski cap or ear muffs connected by straps to hold flying curls in place.

Bright sweaters and crisply tailored wool shirts to wear under the jackets offer an opportunity to match accessories—the only fashion fanciwork the smart 1940 snow mode permits.

Skating clothes have a smartly professional air, too, but they generally are gayer in effect. Many of them—notably new allwhite ones—have been designed with an eye to holiday skating parties which the fashion world thinks will be a likely result of the increased interest in the sport.

Smartest suits combine a fitted jacked and full gored or circular skirt of velveteen, lightweight wool or flannel. Many skaters are chosing those with the least bulk, for figure skating. Bright reds, black, wine, dark green and blue are the colors most often shown. The more sober hues are often brightened with a touch of gay braid.

Next on the list of costumes which are going to cut a smart figure on the ice this winter are wool and velveteen princesse frocks with full gored skirts. Nearly all the skating costumes are worn with short panties made of the same material as the skirt.

As far as skirt length is concerned, experts advise a skirt which just covers the knee cap for beginners one which clears it for figure skaters and a thigh-length one for exhibition skaters.

White skating clothes are the year's outstanding novelties in ice fashions. They include white dresses and suits of velveteen, corduroy and wool to be worn with white or colored accessories. There are also white jackets and hoods of sheepskin or brushed wool to add warmth and accessory zip to dark costumes.

Accessories are generally gay. They offer a wide selection of peaked caps, mittens and scarfs of bright angora or knitted wool.

The French army's horizon blue inspired this ski suit's color—scheduled for a big run on ski slides this winter. Both the suit designed with a fitted jacket and "instructor trousers," and the cap are of wool gabardine.

Republican Morale At Higher Point

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Chairman John D. M. Hamilton of the Republican National Committee said last night that the "morale of Republican party is much higher than it was on the eve of either the 1932 or 1936 campaigns."

Members of the party's national executive committee arriving for a meeting tomorrow had impressed him with their enthusiasm and optimism, he said:

"They told me," he continued, "that the tide of sentiment which commenced to run strongly toward the Republican party in 1938 continues in that direction with greater firmness."

He interpreted the elections of last month as indicating that "the American people are looking to the Republican party to lead the country back to a secure and normal economic recovery and protect our peace."

The first subject of discussion scheduled for tomorrow's meeting was the problem of paying off the left-over Republican bills of 1936 before the new ones of 1940 accumulate.

Formally, that question and the receipt of routine reports is about all that is scheduled for the gathering. But, in casual conversations, and more elaborate conferences filling a long week-end, all the details of strategy, candidates and the choice of a convention city are expected to be discussed.

As an organization, the committee cannot go into the question of candidates. Each aspirant for the nomination is on his own at this time and no favoritism may be shown.

But, in the hotel rooms no such limitations are imposed. Each candidate's position is expected to come in for a general dissection, especially that of Thomas E. Dewey, New York city district attorney. The contents of his speech of tonight, his first on national issues, was inevitably scheduled for a close and curious scrutiny.

A Roman Buildup

Rome (AP)—This city spent $5,400,000 on public projects in 1939. A similar program, including buildings for government offices, construction of new streets, schools, and highways connecting suburban centers with Rome is planned for 1940.

Switzerland Recruits Young Auto Drivers

Berne (AP)—So many truck and automobile drivers have been called to the frontiers in Switzerland's mobilization that the government has lowered the age requirements for obtaining a Swiss driver's license from 18 to 17 years.

Several thousand youths already have passed their test for the license and are employed in temporary jobs as drivers substituting for truck drivers, chauffeurs and taxi drivers called to the army.

Panama has neither army nor navy, but the republic becomes automatically at war with any nation toward which the United States is a belligerent, because of the strategic importance of the canal.

Workers

opractors' Signs Not Deceive

more, Dec. 7 (AP)—Use of the "chiropractic physician" on opractor's sign can be banned term is designed to be misleading, the attorney general's office held today.

In an opinion asked by Dr. Lewis S. Tawney, Secretary of the State Board of Chiropractors, the office said accepted authorities define "physician" as one prescribing medicines.

If the use of such a term were designed to be "misleading or deceptive" the state board would be within its rights in revoking the license of the individual, the opinion held.

It also cited the regulations laid down by the board, specifying that chiropractors' signs shall carry only the name of the practioner and the initials "D. C." or "doctor of chiropractic."

Our Great Plants Are "Delivering the Goods"

The Chrysler Corporation's great plants are alive with activity . . . the workers are busy in the team-play of trained minds and skilled hands . . . building the finest, most popular automobiles the Corporation ever built . . . the 1940 Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler.

WHEN WE SAY that Chrysler Corporation's great plants are "Delivering the Goods" we mean everything the phrase means . . .

DELIVERING THE GOODS . . . in the sense that experienced workers are building the finest and most popular automobiles in Chrysler Corporation's history.

DELIVERING THE GOODS . . . in the sense that millions of dollars a day in raw materials are coming in across the receiving platforms as trainload after trainload of new automobiles move out to dealers and the public.

DELIVERING THE GOODS . . . in the sense that 1940 Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars represent today's most beautiful styling, the most advanced engineering and the finest workmanship.

The people of America have come to expect exceptional engineering and high quality in Chrysler Corporation automobiles.

The 1940 Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars not only live up to that high expectation—they exceed it!

It is an inspiring thing to see the quick responsiveness people show for outstanding value—the kind of value that is self-evident in car size, beauty, luxury, riding comfort, advanced engineering and fine workmanship.

Equally inspiring—urging us on to ever greater progress—is the unswerving confidence and loyalty of the merchants who sell and service our products.

Such staunch and widespread confidence and support strongly indorse our policies and principles of good manufacturing and sound merchandising.

We believe—and always have believed—that quality goes beyond good machinery and good materials. It lies in engineering genius, care and precision of manufacture, complete and thorough inspection.

Furthermore, millions of Americans choose to believe that of all manufacturers, Chrysler Corporation is particularly and notably successful in achieving the combined goal of low price and highest quality.

The 1940 Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars are by far the greatest values we have ever built—in smart styling, size, luxurious tailoring and appointments, riding quality and performance.

We know it—our dealers know it—the men who build the cars know it—and it is common knowledge and talk throughout the country.

May we suggest that you see your nearby Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer? He will gladly let the car you are interested in speak for itself, for him and for us.

940's Ski Clothes Mean Business

Fitted Jackets Are Worn 'With Instructor Trousers'

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

The new 1940 ski suits are cut for serious snow business. The practical narrow "instructor trousers" which first skimmed down European ski runs have been adapted to wide use this year. Most of them are topped by semi-fitted jackets to make suits that have a smart professional look. All nonsense has been shorn from their design.

Scores of them are made of wool gabardine—in such colors as navy blue, a new, medium, grayed "Norse blue," green or black. Occasionally an oak leaf is appliqued on collar or pocket, but more often trimming is confined to a bright streak of red piping. Burnished silver buttons make the fastenings and add a little shine.

Some suits are designed with reversible jackets, which are cotton poplin on one side, plain or plaid wool of contrasting color on the other, so that they give one suit the appearance of being two. (Experts say poplin jackets are much in favor with serious skiers because of their lightness of weight).

Poplin mittens—wool lined and leather palmed—are much in demand, too, since they afford a good grip. Favorite headgear is a visored ski cap or ear muffs connected by straps to hold flying curls in place.

Bright sweaters and crisply tailored wool shirts to wear under the jackets offer an opportunity to match accessories—the only fashion fanciwork the smart 1940 snow mode permits.

Skating clothes have a smartly professional air, too, but they generally are gayer in effect. Many of them—notably new allwhite ones—have been designed with an eye to holiday skating parties which the fashion world thinks will be a likely result of the increased interest in the sport.

Smartest suits combine a fitted jacked and full gored or circular skirt of velveteen, lightweight wool or flannel. Many skaters are chosing those with the least bulk, for figure skating. Bright reds, black, wine, dark green and blue are the colors most often shown. The more sober hues are often brightened with a touch of gay braid.

Next on the list of costumes which are going to cut a smart figure on the ice this winter are wool and velveteen princesse frocks with full gored skirts. Nearly all the skating costumes are worn with short panties made of the same material as the skirt.

As far as skirt length is concerned, experts advise a skirt which just covers the knee cap for beginners one which clears it for figure skaters and a thigh-length one for exhibition skaters.

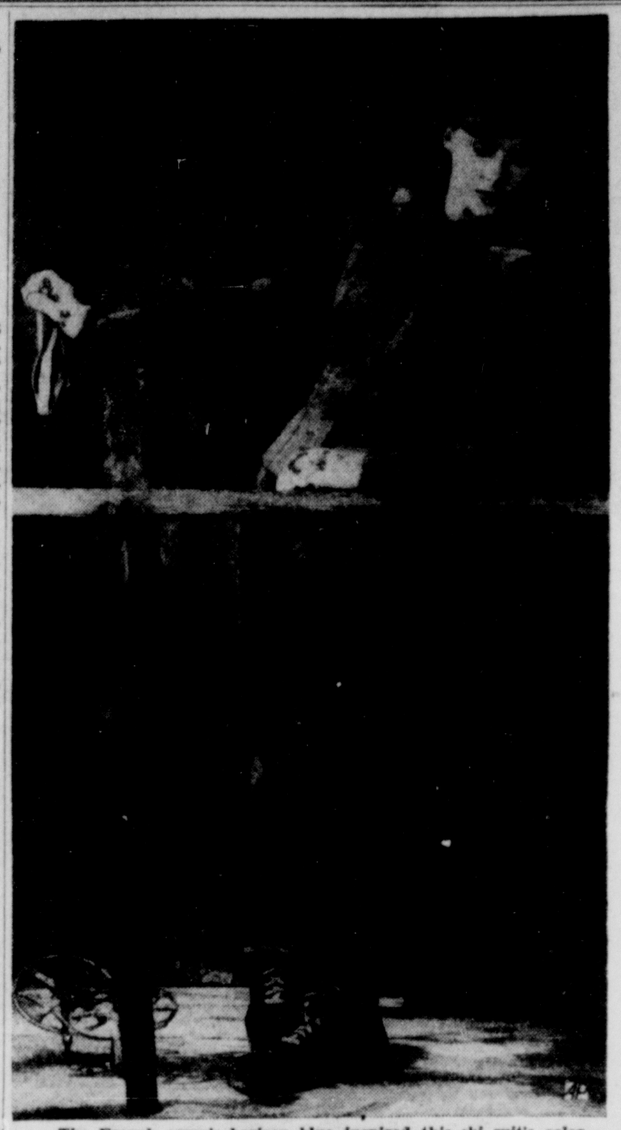
White skating clothes are the year's outstanding novelties in ice fashions. They include white dresses and suits of velveteen, corduroy and wool to be worn with white or colored accessories. There are also white jackets and hoods of sheepskin or brushed wool to add warmth and accessory zip to dark costumes.

Accessories are generally gay. They offer a wide selection of peaked caps, mittens and scarfs of bright angora or knitted wool.



The French army's horizon blue inspired this ski suit's color—scheduled for a big run on ski slides this winter. Both the suit designed with a fitted jacket and "instructor trousers," and the cap are of wool gabardine.

Republican Morale At Higher Point

Washington, Dec. 7(AP)—Chairman John D. M. Hamilton of the Republican National Committee said last night that the "morale of Republican party is much higher than it was on the eve of either the 1932 or 1936 campaigns."

Members of the party's national executive committee arriving for a meeting tomorrow had impressed him with their enthusiasm and optimism, he said:

"They told me," he continued, "that the tide of sentiment which commenced to run strongly toward the Republican party in 1938 continues in that direction with greater firmness."

He interpreted the elections of last month as indicating that "the American people are looking to the Republican party to lead the country back to a secure and normal economic recovery and protect our peace."

The first subject of discussion scheduled for tomorrow's meeting was the problem of paying off the left-over Republican bills of 1936 before the new ones of 1940 accumulate.

Formally, that question and the receipt of routine reports is about all that is scheduled for the gathering. But, in casual conversations, and more elaborate conferences filling a long week-end, all the details of strategy, candidates and the choice of a convention city are expected to be discussed.

As an organization, the committee cannot go into the question of candidates. Each aspirant for the nomination is on his own at this time and no favoritism may be shown.

But, in the hotel rooms no such limitations are imposed. Each candidate's position is expected to come in for a general dissection, especially that of Thomas E. Dewey, New York city district attorney. The contents of his speech of tonight, his first on national issues, was inevitably scheduled for a close and curious scrutiny.

A Roman Buildup

Rome (AP)—This city spent $5,400,000 on public projects in 1939. A similar program, including buildings for government offices, construction of new streets, schools, and highways connecting suburban centers with Rome is planned for 1940.

Switzerland Recruits Young Auto Drivers

Berne (AP)—So many truck and automobile drivers have been called to the frontiers in Switzerland's mobilization that the government has lowered the age requirements for obtaining a Swiss driver's license from 18 to 17 years.

Several thousand youths already have passed their test for the license and are employed in temporary jobs as drivers substituting for truck drivers, chauffeurs and taxi drivers called to the army.

Panama has neither army nor navy, but the republic becomes automatically at war with any nation toward which the United States is a belligerent, because of the strategic importance of the canal.

What does Russia get if Finland fails?

First, all the territorial objectives over which the two countries negotiated fruitlessly for weeks before Russia struck—the Aaland Islands, Hango Head, the rest of the Karelian Isthmus north of Leningrad, and the Petsamo area. That means just about absolute control of the Gulf of Finland and Arctic shipping lanes.

Second, she'll get a rugged, rocky land of 147,700 square miles (about as big as Montana) and 3,835,000 sturdy, healthy subjects.

Independent 20 Years

As an independent republic, Finland is only 20 years old. Her path in history has been stormy. After nearly a century of strife, Finland was Christianized and conquered by the Swedes in 1157; crushed by Peter the Great, of Russia, in 1710; divided between Russia and Sweden in 1721; overrun by Russians again in 1809, gaining the status of a semi-independent duchy.

In 1899, Nicholas II started an attempt at Russification. Oppressive measures imposed by Russia early in the World war got the Finns' dander up. They became pro-German and declared their independence in December, 1917. There followed bloody strife with the Reds. German troops helped Finland drive them out. In July, 1919, Finland became independent.

One of the Finnish girls who work along with men on the fishing grounds.

Nearly a tenth of the nation's area is lakes—60,000 of them. The land is rough, full of granite boulders, covered with forests of spruce and pine, which give Finland an abundance of material for wood products, notably paper.

Less than a tenth of Finland is arable, yet three-quarters of the population is rural. Farmers raise rye, oats, barley and potatoes and furage crops for the dairying industry. Other Finnish industries are iron and mechanical works, textiles, leather, rubber, fur and ceramics.

Finland long has been a leader in the co-operative movement. Today, 25 per cent of the retail and 60 percent of the wholesale trade is carried on by co-ops.

Finland's Glories

Finland is the only nation that has kept up payments on its war debt. It produced that marvel of human speed, Paavo Nurmi, the runner. It gave the world one of the great modern composers, Jan Sibelius. One of its authors, Frans Eemil Silanpaa, has just been awarded the Nobel prize.

Helsinki, Finland's capital, was notable to tourists because nowhere could they find any memorials to war heroes or to old battles.

Yet among the peaceloving Finns every citizen has his gun in his house, and all, from professor to peasant, have had to take at least one course in marksmanship.

innuendo of any sort in the story. From start to finish, the Zane Grey story is packed with action, romance and good, clean fun.

If you had wandered on to the "Charlie Chan at Treasure Island" set and picked up Directon Norman Foster's copy of the shooting script, you probably would have been puzzled by the trange maxims pencilled in the margins of the pages.

"Take it easy—it's only o picture, after all!" read one. "Don't work so hard—relax!" cautioned another. "Life is only a game," reminded a third, and so on.

Questioned, Foster explained:

"As I work over the script, my nerves tigten up like watch springs. Suddenly I realize I'm getting too tense—then I write myself these notes—and when I see them I remember to relax."

Sidney Toler again plays Chan in this newest of the 20th Century-Fox mystery thrillers, which is currently unreeling at the Garden Theater.

Dorothy Lamour Plays First Dramatic Role

Dorothy Lamour, Akim Tamiroff, and John Howard share top dramatic honors in "Disputed Passage," an exciting story about the problems of medical men, which is playing at the Strand Theater.

Based on Lloyd C. Douglas' best-selling novel, it asks the dramatic question: will marriage interfere with the career of a promising young surgeon? To which Lloyd Douglas answers that there is a power higher than anything which is learned in the laboratory! In her first genuinely dramatic role, Miss Lamour plays a young American girl brought up in China, who comes to America to make her home.

Her vital love for Howard, who portrays the brilliant young surgeon, runs afoul of Akim Tamiroff, a world - famous neurological surgeon, who believes in the stern dedication of a physician's life to science. This trenchant attitude provides the focal point upon which the story resolves when Tamiroff persuades Miss Lamour that her projected marriage to Howard will bring his career to defeat.

Other members of the supporting cast who contribute towards making "Disputed Passage" the new season's outstanding medical film are William Collier, Sr., Gordon Jones, Keye Luke and Paramount's budding starlet, Judith Barrett.

CHINA PERIL

With fierce bandits battering the gates of a remote American consulate, two Americans live a startling drama with death seemingly but an hour away. The film is 20th Century - Fox's "Barricade," starring Alice Faye and Warner Baxter, which opens Sunday at the Strand Theater. Alice is cast as an American entertainer on an international hotel circuit who gets in trouble in China as eye-witness to an assassination and flees from the danger only to land right in the midst of a savage battle.

Blondes Not Lonely, Joseph Fay Asserts

Baltimore, Dec. 7 (AP) — Pretty blondes rarely complain of loneliness, says Joseph L. Fay—and he should know.

Fay, assistant Federal Social Security administrator, is "Father Confessor" to 4,050 Social Security employes recruited from all parts of the nation.

Employes come to him and H. Norman Milburn, Jr., local chief of operations, when they are homesick, have domestic tifts, budgetry difficulties, or seek advice to the lovelorn.

"We won't go into the blonde matter," Fay said, "other than that they are seldom lonely, but another 'amazing thing' is how troubles increase at the start of each season.

"In spring they moan and groan about love. In fall or winter, it's a bill for a fur coat or some other extravagance. Summer vacations often turn out none too well."

Two Household Hints

An excellent cleaning "weapon" for kitchen utensils is found in a good-sized bottle cork. Moisten the bottom end, dip it in a powdered cleaner and rub the utensils.

A slice of lemon in the water in which clothes are boiled will make them whiter.

Shake the Box

To test packages of holiday confections and cookies for mailing, shake the box. If there is any noise, the box is not packed securely. Add more crushed wax or tissue paper. Goodies will not carry well unless they are packed and wrapped carefully.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:

FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.

ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.

DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

THE SENIOR partner of Hardy, Hardy and Hardy, Counsellors at Law, regarded his earliest visitor with grave interest and approving eyes. He hadn't seen Gertrude Willoughby's daughter since her debutante days, but his memory was clear and he saw a change, and that Fabienne was developing into a very different type of person from her frivolous mother.

He was therefore disappointed when she opened her conversation by saying, "Mr. Hardy, I want an advance of fifteen hundred dollars on my allowance. And I must have it at once."

"My dear child, you should go to Quentin or Nicolas." Quentin and Nicolas were the banker trustees of Elihu Willoughby's estate.

"I know," she told him. "But you are also one of the trustees and I hoped you would handle it for me. You see, I don't want to have to explain why I want the money at once."

Old eyes swept over the graceful length of her seated in the chair opposite, over the expensive gown and furs up to the string of fine pearls around her slim throat.

Andrew Hardy sighed. The girl was, after all, like her mother. "And you wish to—er—meet a pressing bill?" he queried. "Perhaps, in that case, I should explain that certain sacrifices—"

She smiled, reading his thoughts, and shook her blond head. "I know what you're going to say, sir. You're going to tell me that I must learn to live within my income because there isn't any more to be expected. Right?"

"Right," he agreed.

"I'm going to do that. Now, I'll tell you what I'm going to do with this money. I'm going to build a theater."

Hardy's hopes that had risen fell again. "A theater?" he asked, unbelievingly.

"Yes. It may cost more than fifteen hundred dollars. In which case," she shrugged her shoulders and added, "I'll need more."

"My dear child, I consider it the height of folly! You've always been able to afford whatever plaything you desired—"

"This is not a plaything, Mr. Hardy," she told him solemnly. "Do you think it can be arranged?"

He hesitated. "I—I might advance you the sum myself."

"That might be the right way, sir. If you would be so kind. "I'll arrange to give you my entire monthly check in that case. If you could let me have it at once, I should appreciate your giving me a check made out to Willoughby house, or rather sending it there."

The lawyer had opened a checkbook. With his finger ot a blank sheet, he paused and gave her a startled glance of inquiry. "Did I understand you to say Willoughby house?"

"You did. I—I'm very much interested in that enterprise, Mr. Hardy."

He sat back in his chair with thoughtfully furrowed brows, regarding her with new and approving interest. "What's the story, Fabienne?"

She told him, sparing herself nothing, of her motives for going to Willoughby house in the beginning; of the promised gift that was not forthcoming; of Rose Riccio and her own feeling of responsibility.

"Don't look at me that way, Mr. Hardy," she said when she had finished the story. "There's nothing noble about me. Some things are written in black and white and nothing in the world can change them. This is one of the things. I'd like to change it, but I can't. I love living in luxury, and all my comforts are mighty important to me. Let's call that the white of that black and white. The black is"—she made a funny little face at him meant to indicate that she didn't like the idea at all—" plain duty. Something's been put up to me and I can't escape it."

"Well, well," the old man was thinking, "so there's someone in the family, after all, with something of old Elihu's stuff in her. He'd be pleased and proud."

Aloud he said, "Congratulations. Meanwhile, what are you going to live on? I understand that you live at an expensive hotel?"

"Did," she corrected. "I'm moving out. I've got a little money to live on for the next three months." She didn't explain the five hundred she'd got from Ned and which she intended to repay into the fund.

Hardy picked up a pen and began to write. He paused a moment and said, "Suppose I make a little gift of this money on my own?"

She shook her head, protesting. "This has to be on me, Mr. Hardy. Thank you just the same. If we need more, perhaps I'll call on you."

"Has to—er—be on you?"

"Yes. I don't think I can explain it, but I'll try. You see, I've got a new slant on—on life these days. It seems that sacrifices pay dividends that I've never experienced. I told you I was selfish. I am. I'm still trying to get new thrills for myself. I think this may be a way. And, incidentally, if there are any questions about where this check came from, will you please say that it came from a client who wishes to remain anonymous?"

"I will, my dear," Andrew Hardy said. "Also, I will see that the check is delivered by messenger at once."

After she had gone, he suddenly remembered that he had forgotten to ask her new address. He wanted to see more of her. Elihu Willoughby had been one of his best friends.

Fabienne couldn't have given him an address. Her rent was paid at the hotel for another six days. After that, she hadn't the slightest idea where she was going to live.

Where did one live, and how did one live for four months on five hundred dollars?

Somewhere she'd read that one should pay a quarter of one's income for rent. A quarter of five hundred dollars spread over four months came to the sum of thirty-one dollars and twenty-five cents per month. What sort of a place could she find for that money? She shivered with distaste at the prospect.

And then she remembered with what high-handed dismissal she had received Ellen's proposal long ago that she come to live at some place Ellen said she could find for her.

With some girls, Fabienne would not have swallowed her pride and gone back for that very help. But Ellen was not like other girls. Asking a favor of Ellen would not mean swallowing her pride.

She went to Ellen after an afternoon's struggle with budgeting for the first time in her life.

"Ellen, I—I've got to economize for the next few months and I need some suggestions. I'm moving out of the Plaza—to where I do not know. Some place really inexpensive. I can't afford more than thirty-one dollars a month rent."

Ellen was immediately understanding and sympathetic. "You haven't lost—I mean—"

Fabienne smiled. "No, I haven't lost my income. I've made—made sort of an investment that keeps me stripped."

Quite unexpectedly, Ellen picked up a check and held it before Fabienne's gaze. "Would this be it?" she said. Fabienne had once told her that Andrew Hardy was the family lawyer.

Swift color painted Fabienne's face with embarrassment, giving her away completely. "Nonsense" she said. "Do you think I'd do anything like that? What about the housing problem, Ellen?"

"Come and live with me, Fabienne. My place is cheaply rented, but it's quite big. I have a whole floor, you know. I'd like to have the kind of person you are living with me."

Fabienne experienced a series of reactions. Her first was delight; her second was a feeling of warning—if she lived with Ellen, she would have to see a lot of Bill, who was Ellen's Bill. Then she remembered that she had to have some place to live.

She said, "Thanks, Ellen. I'd like to, but I'd have to be sure of absolute privacy. Could I have a tucked-away room somewhere?" Some place where she would not have to see Bill and Ellen together!

Edward Lasker, head of the radio department of the great advertising agency of Lord & Thomas, is a bridge player of keen perception. He was criticized adversely for one very daring bid he made on this deal. He had called 1-Diamond in the South, West 1-Spade, North 2-Hearts, Mr. Lasker 3-Clubs, North 3-Diamonds, Mr. Lasker, the Blackwood 4-No Trumps, North 5-Hearts to show two aces, and then he 7-Diamonds, which East doubled.

Although the contract was made right on the head, Mr. Lasker was censured for going to 7-Diamonds as soon as he had the information about North's two aces, on the ground that he could not know about the two queens. He countered trebly, pointing out that the club queen was not needed, that four little diamonds by North would have counteracted the necessity for the queen, and that anyway, North was a most conservative bidder who probably had something extra.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

THE CHARACTERS:

FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.

ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.

DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

THE SENIOR partner of Hardy, Hardy and Hardy, Counsellors at Law, regarded his earliest visitor with grave interest and approving eyes. He hadn't seen Gertrude Willoughby's daughter since her debutante days, but his memory was clear and he saw a change, and that Fabienne was developing into a very different type of person from her frivolous mother.

He was therefore disappointed when she opened her conversation by saying, "Mr. Hardy, I want an advance of fifteen hundred dollars on my allowance. And I must have it at once."

"My dear child, you should go to Quentin or Nicolas." Quentin and Nicolas were the banker trustees of Elihu Willoughby's estate.

"I know," she told him. "But you are also one of the trustees and I hoped you would handle it for me. You see, I don't want to have to explain why I want the money at once."

Old eyes swept over the graceful length of her seated in the chair opposite, over the expensive gown and furs up to the string of fine pearls around her slim throat.

Andrew Hardy sighed. The g'r' was, after all, like her mother. "And you wish to—er—meet a pressing bill?" he queried. "Perhaps, in that case, I should explain that certain sacrifices—"

She smiled, reading his thoughts, and shook her biond head. "I know what you're going to say, sir. You're going to tell me that I must learn to live within my income because there isn't any more to be expected. Right?"

"Right," he agreed.

"I'm going to do that. Now, I'll tell you what I'm going to do with this money. I'm going to build a theater."

Hardy's hopes that had risen fell again. "A theater?" he asked, unbelievingly.

"Yes. It may cost more than fifteen hundred dollars. In which case," she shrugged her shoulders and added, "I'll need more."

"My dear child, I consider it the height of folly! You've always been able to afford whatever plaything you desired—"

"This is not a plaything, Mr. Hardy," she told him solemnly. "Do you think it can be arranged?"

He hesitated. "I—I might advance you the sum myself."

"That might be the right way, sir. If you would be so kind. "I'll arrange to give you my entire monthly check in that case. If you could let me have it at once, I should appreciate your giving me a check made out to Willoughby house, or rather sending it there."

The lawyer had opened a checkbook. With his finger ot a blank sheet, he paused and gave her a startled glance of inquiry. "Did I understand you to say Willoughby house?"

"You did. I—I'm very much interested in that enterprise, Mr. Hardy."

He sat back in his chair with thoughtfully furrowed brows, regarding her with new and approving interest. "What's the story, Fabienne?"

She told him, sparing herself nothing, of her motives for going to Willoughby house in the beginning; of the promised gift that was not forthcoming; of Rose Riccio and her own feeling of responsibility.

"Don't look at me that way, Mr. Hardy," she said when she had finished the story. "There's nothing noble about me. Some things are written in black and white and nothing in the world can change them. This is one of the things. I'd like to change it, but I can't. I love living in luxury, and all my comforts are mighty important to me. Let's call that the white of that black and white. She shook her head, protesting. "This has to be on me, Mr. Hardy. Thank you just the same. If we need more, perhaps I'll call on you."

"Has to—er—be on you?"

"Yes. I don't think I ca explain it, but I'll try. You see, I've got a new slant on—on life these days. It seems that sacrifices pay dividends that I've never experienced. I told you I was selfish. I am, I'n still trying to get new thrills for myself. I think this may be a way. And, incidentally, if there are any questions about where this check came from, will you please say that it came from a client who wishes to remain anonymous?"

Ellen was immediately understanding and sympathetic. "You haven't lost—I mean—"

Fabienne smiled. "No, I haven't lost my income. I've made—made sort of an investment that keeps me stripped."

Quite unexpectedly, Ellen picked up a check and held it before Fabienne's gaze. "Would this be it?" she said. Fabienne had once told her that Andrew Hardy was the family lawyer.

She said, "Thanks, Ellen. I'd like to, but I'd have to be sure of absolute privacy. Could I have a tucked-away room somewhere?" Some place where she would not have to see Bill and Ellen together!

Paris (AP)—Loss of one eye was not enough to keep Robert Lassalle, French Deputy and former Minister of Pensions, from fighting through the last war—nor to prevent his reenlistmeent in this one.

Although exempted by age, wounds, loss of an eye and parliamentary privilege, Lassalle has enlisted for the duration of the war and is now in a front-line infantry regiment.

Even a quarter century ago he was fully exempt from duty because of his infirmity. Yet in 1914 Lassalle fought in the trenches as an infantry private and was wounded three times in the World war.

Italians Leave Home

Rome (AP)—Italian provinces sent 12,372 colonists to Libya in the first nine months of 1939. An additional 11,000 Italians left Italian ports on October 28.

Youth Stands Up For Its Aggies

Tulsa, Okla.—Eight 10-year-old marble shooters were playing for keeps in the middle of the Central Park horseshoe pitching rink. Six elderly men, one 80 years old, arrived for their regular sunny afternoon game of shoe tossing.

The boys declined to budge and argued for almost an hour. Finally the oldsters called police.

"We got here first and they can't bust up our game," said the boys. "Parks is public property. My old man says so."

"Yeah, you can't bust this game with me ten marbles loser," said another.

Itch into Gold-- A Fishy Story

Split, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslavia's favorable trade balance is partly due to itchy fish, say fishermen of the Dalmatian coast.

The Adriatic is rich in tuna fish, but the bulk of them are caught on the Italian side. This, according to the fishermen, is because a marine parasite attaches itself to the gills of the tuna. The tormented tuna goes to the Dalmatian coast, with its jagged rocks, to scratch itself, they declare.

The Italian shore, being sandy and almost rockless, affords the fish no such convenience. Consequently, Yugoslavia's tuna exports to Italy are considerable.

Hull To Protest British Order To Halt Nazi Goods

Says Stopping of Exports Is Against International Law

By ANDRUE BERDING

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull, it was learned reliably tonight, has drafted a note telling Great Britain in effect that her order in council stopping German exports to overseas countries is contrary to international law in that it interferes with trade between neutrals.

The British blockade program calls for stoppage of German-made goods even though they are shipped, not directly from Germany, but through a neutral country to another neutral.

The United States government belives that some of the imports this country used to receive from Germany are essential, such as precision instruments that are difficult, if not impossible, to buy elsewhere.

The note, which will go forward tomorrow, was described as more in the nature of a reservation of rights than of a protest. The reservation gives the United States the right to advance claims at some future date if damage is proved as a result of Britain's halting of German exports.

The tenor of the note was said to be reasonably conciliatory and to have avoided the sharp language which characterized a similar note addresser ta the British government when it invoked a similar order in March, 1915, during the World War.

The British order which went into effect Monday is almost identical with the World War order.

Dewey Gets Facts On Farm Problems

Minneapolis, Dec. 7 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey carried a lot of firsthand information about the northwest's farm problems with him tonight as he headed toward Washington after keynoting his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

He carried also, his aides said, about 300 telegrams of congratulation on his speech last night, when he assailed New Deal "defeatism" and predicted Republicans would have to fulfill the promises of the Democratic administration.

A dozen leaders of Minnesota farm cooperatives and farm organizations poured facts about the farmer's troubles at the New York district attorney for two and a half hours today in answer to his questions.

At the end of the conference, Dewey declared it had been "exceedingly interesting and productive," but reserved any statement about his ideas for solving the problems discussed. That, he said, will have to wait until he has gone fully into the material he gathered today.

Steel Executives To Be 'Staughtered'

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—A carload of steel executives will arrive here from Pittsburgh December fifteenth for "slaughter" by the New York Financial Writers Associations.

In a special car will come such men as Henry A. Roemer, president of Pittsburgh Steel Co. and Sharon Steel Corp., William W. Holloway, president of Wheeling Steel Corp., H. G. Batcheller, president of Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Corp., and Clyde C. Taylor, vice president of the First National Bank of Pittsburgh. There will be other victims with them.

They will be among the 1,000 business, financial and governmental leaders to be entertained—and lampooned—in the annual "Financial Follies."

Included in the guests from Washington will be Postmaster General James A. Farley; Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury; Jerome Frank, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission; Leon Henderson, Sec. Commissioner; Leo C. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and Joseph B. Easton, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Hull To Protest British Order To Halt Nazi Goods

By ANDRUE BERDING

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull, it was learned reliably tonight, has drafted a note telling Great Britain in effect that her order in council stopping German exports to overseas countries is contrary to international law in that it interferes with trade between neutrals.

The British blockade program calls for stoppage of German-made goods even though they are shipped, not directly from Germany, but through a neutral country to another neutral.

The United States government believes that some of the imports this country used to receive from Germany are essential, such as precision instruments that are difficult, if not impossible, to buy elsewhere.

The note, which will go forward tomorrow, was described as more in the nature of a reservation of rights than of a protest. The reservation gives the United States the right to advance claims at some future date if damage is proved as a result of Britain's halting of German exports.

The tenor of the note was said to be reasonably conciliatory and to have avoided the sharp language which characterized a similar note addresser ta the British government when it invoked a similar order in March, 1915, during the World War.

The British order which went into effect Monday is almost identical with the World War order.

Dewey Gets Facts On Farm Problems

Minneapolis, Dec. 7 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey carried a lot of firsthand information about the northwest's farm problems with him tonight as he headed toward Washington after keynoting his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

He carried also, his aides said, about 300 telegrams of congratulation on his speech last night, when he assailed New Deal "defeatism" and predicted Republicans would have to fulfill the promises of the Democratic administration.

A dozen leaders of Minnesota farm cooperatives and farm organizations poured facts about the farmer's troubles at the New York district attorney for two and a half hours today in answer to his questions.

At the end of the conference, Dewey declared it had been "exceedingly interesting and productive," but reserved any statement about his ideas for solving the problems discussed. That, he said, will have to wait until he has gone fully into the material he gathered today.

Steel Executives To Be 'Slaughtered'

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—A carload of steel executives will arrive here from Pittsburgh December fifteenth for "slaughter" by the New York Financial Writers Associations.

In a special car will come such men as Henry A. Roemer, president of Pittsburgh Steel Co. and Sharon Steel Corp., William W. Holloway, president of Wheeling Steel Corp., H. G. Batcheller, president of Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Corp., and Clyde C. Taylor, vice president of the First National Bank of Pittsburgh. There will be other victims with them.

They will be among the 1,000 business, financial and governmental leaders to be entertained—and lampooned—in the annual "Financial Follies."

Included in the guests from Washington will be Postmaster General James A. Farley; Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury; Jerome Frank, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission; Leon Henderson, Sec. Commissioner; Leo C. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and Joseph B. Easton, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Iron Ore Goes Back to Germany

Zurich, Switzerland (AP) — The Swiss have resumed shipping iron ore to Germany from the Valley of Frick, although the movement was interrupted at the beginning of the war.

The output of the Swiss mines is so small that it does not pay to build blast furnaces and the ore is sent to Germany for smelting.

White Plague Is On the Run and Must Be Routed

Success Hinges on the Solution of Special Problems

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

We are in the season when the Christmas seals o the National Tuberculosis Association are distributed, and this column heartily recommends that everyone, who can possibly afford it, buy a page of them and use them. The money so accumulated by this association is well spent, and the advertising which you give to the movement by placing a seal on the back of your Christmas mail will spread interest in the great campaign.

We have tuberculosis on the run. That is the reason why this campaign must be encouraged. There has been a consistent decline in the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States from nearly 200 per 100,000 population in 1900 to about 50 for 1938. While this is gratifying, the statement does not picture the true situation. The round numbers tell us nothing about the special problems yet to be solved before the fight against tuberculosis can be declared won.

Your seals pay only for certain work done by your local tuberculosis society. Besides this work, the national government and state and county governments are spending a great deal of time and thought on tuberculosis control.

A national health program was presented at the National Health Conference in Washington, July, 1938. The section on tuberculosis recommended case finding, especially by x-ray examination of contacts of known cases, isolation and treatment of persons with active disease, and periodic examination of those with latent or quiescent disease.

This summarizes the objectives of the present campaign against tuberculosis. In plain language it means that we now believe that most cases of tuberculosis in humans are acquired by contact with other humans. We also believe that the quickest and surest way of making a diagnosis in an adult is by an x-ray plate of the chest. Therefore, when a known case is found, it is logical to examine all the members of the family and other contacts by x-ray in order to spot others.

Following this, the logical step is to segregate in hospitals or sanatoria those who have open or contagious tuberculosis.

It is estimated that about 40,000 more beds for tuberculosis patients are needed in the United States.

Case finding in school children has been in operation since 1924. The school program suffers from failure to secure parental consent for the investigation of more than 50 to 60 percent of the children. The advantages of the findings of tuberculosis in school children are twofold—to the affected child and to the community. Yet, these advantages are fully realized only when the investigation includes both children and family contacts.

Questions and Answers

M. E. A.: "Is it definitely known what causes people to grit their teeth in their sleep? I have a friend who has done this annoying thing since childhood. Recently I read that gritting of teeth is in some cases one form of epilepsy which replaces the more usual falling-down procedure of the epileptic."

Answer—Gritting teeth is usually due to a habit and probably due to malocclusion or particular prominence of one tooth. It cannot be said that gritting the teeth is a nocturnal form of epilepsy.

C. C.: "My mother, who is 75 years of age, is suffering from gallstones. She does not want an operation. I have been told that sodium phosphate will ease her pains and help her a little. Kindly let me know."

Answer—I think your mother is very wise not to want an operation at the age of 75. It is very likely that with the use of sodium phosphate she will be able to live a long time in comfort. It should be taken in solution in the morning, before breakfast.

C. H. J.: "Would you please publish whether or not hay fever is contagious?"

Answer—No.

The majority of foreign countries will not permit American travelers to bring, duty free, over one carton of cigarets, and when they run out they must buy more at exorbitant prices.

C. H. J.: "Would you please publish whether or not hay fever is contagious?"

Answer—No.

The majority of foreign countries will not permit American travelers to bring, duty free, over one carton of cigarets, and when they run out they must buy more at exorbitant prices.

Landis To Be Czar on Major Farm Systems

Yanks Restricted From Trading in American League

Clark Griffith Gets Over Move To Limit New York Power

MacPhail's Idea of 16 Club World Series Is Discussed

By JUDSON BAILEY

Cincinnati, Dec. 7 (AP)—The National and American League disagreed today on proposals to force Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis to relax his restrictions on farm systems, virtually leaving the matter in his hands.

The American League accepted a proposal by Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators that would prohibit the New York Yankees from trading inside the American League except by the waiver route for as long as they remain champions.

The latter was the only one of several suggestions by Griffith to limit the Yankees power that came to a vote in the meeting of the junior circuit.

The same rule will be submitted to a joint meeting of the two major leagues tomorrow, but President Will Harridge said it was effective immediately in the American League and ended any chance of the Bronx Bombers negotiating a trade here.

Vote Unanimous

The rule as adopted read: "The championship club in either major league shall not be permitted to acquire a player contract within its own league except through waiver channels until it no longer is champion."

Harridge said the vote was unanimous.

Both leagues agreed in overriding a minor league proposal for payment of "reasonable compensation" instead of the present arbitrary amount of $5,000 to a minor league whose territory is drafted by a major.

In addition the National League referred the suggestion of Brooklyn's Larry MacPhail for an interleague world series of all sixteen clubs to a committee composed of P. K. Wrigley of Chicago, Sam Breadon of St. Louis and Robert Quinn of Boston and requested the American League to do the same.

New Farm Relations

Amendments concerning the farm relations of the majors and minors, about which baseball men here had been embattled ever since the meetings opened, Monday, would do three things.

First, they propose to free an entire chain from being bound by rules on player transfers which limit the actions of one club in the chain.

Second, they proposed to allow scouts for one club to sign players for an affiliated club.

Third, they proposed to restrict the commissioner and President William G. Bramham of the National Association from making interpretations that extended beyond the written rules.

There was, of course, the possibility that Judge Landis might feel there was sufficient sentiment evidenced in favor of the amendments to cast his deciding vote tomorrow alongside the National and Minor leagues, who have approved the proposal.

But a sweeping rejection of the proposals by the American League was an unquestioned vote of confidence in the authority of baseball's "czar" and left him in control of the game as fully as ever.

The executives continued into a night session as they sought to clear the way for moving the joint meeting from Saturday to Friday and lop off a day from the schedule. The managers and coaches, lolling unmolested in a practically deserted lobby during the day, were guests of Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds at a dinner tonight.

Rumored Deals Discounted

In view of all this activity there was little prospect of any important trades being consummated before the meetings break up and most of the rumored deals have been more or less discounted by now.

The only development outside the league meetings was the signing of Cincinnati contracts by pitchers Bucky Walters and Johnny Vander Meer. Walters, who won 27 and lost 11 games in helping bring the Reds their 1939 pennant, was put under a two-year contract in an action unprecedented since Warren Giles took charge of the Reds.

In addition the National League pensioned Umpire Charley Moran on a lifetime salary of $2,200 a year and increased the intra-league waiver price from $6,000 to 7,500.

6,891 All-American Teams Are Now Laid End To End

By JOHN LARDNER
(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

New York, Dec. 7 — Having already published our All-America football team, a nicely balanced outfit composed of one woman, two horses, and eight gents, which is the ratio you will find around any polite dinner table in the suburbs, we will now turn our attention to what the other boys are doing in this line.

The boys have been busy. A street-to-street poll reveals that there are now 6,891 All - America teams in circulation, save February, which alone has but eight and a score till leap year gives it one day more.

Sigmund, the lad whom we employ to sweep the earwigs off our typewriter, has just completed his own All - America team, and the earwig-Sweepers Union, Local 234, has declared it official. Madame Eugenie, the ace beauty parlor operator and masseuse in our block, will have her team ready by Sunday. It is awaited with gaping jaws by Bon Ton rubbers from coast to coast, beginning at either coast you prefer.

Not One Picks Booth

Naturally, the full count of 6,891 teams includes All - Western teams, All - Eastern teams, All-Southern teams, All - English - speaking teams, and All - Northwest-A-Quarter-West teams. The only thing these teams have in common is that none of them mentions Albie Booth. The boys know that Albie is through.

Time was, around 1900, when Walter Camp's All - America was the one and only official team. It had a single drawback; namely, that Mr. Camp believed the country west of the Mississippi to be inhabited exclusively by Utes, Piutes, and Comanches. In 1909, he discovered Minnesota, lying slightly to starboard of the Father of Waters, and the rest is history.

After Camp came the deluge. So many All - America teams were picked that the boys began to embarrass each other. One guy (A) knew full well that B knew that A had not seen all the players he selected. Scratching his chest sheepishly, A proceeded to beat this rap by laying in a board of experts. The upkeep of these experts was terrific, since they consumed two beefsteaks and a quarter of a peck of potatoes daily, per capita, and became a nuisance around the house, but A knew at least that he was protected from the skepticism of B and C, who were now stocking their own cellars with experts.

This condition prevailed until the dawn of what I have nicknamed the Dutch Clark - Cliff Battles-Clark Hinkle era. Ignored in college, Clark and Battles and Hinkle took up professional football and promptly proved themselves to be great players. This made the All - America pickers look pretty silly, and paved the way for the modern system of Jumbo All - America teams.

One Team Picked By 2,050 Experts

Under the Jumbo system, everybody votes. A good speciment of the Jumbo All - America team is the one published this week in the magazine Newsweek, which was compiled by no fewer than 2,050 authorities — roughly the population of the town of Mebane, N. C. The only thing left is for the population of Mebane, N. C., to pick its own team — after which, Newsweek's 2,050 authorities can settle down in Mebane themselves and try to lead clean lives in the future.

Because of the overwhelming number of voters, the Newsweek Jumbo team gives you a pretty good idea of what the boys around the country believe to constitute an All - America in this year of grace The team is as follows:

Ends — Kavanaugh, L. S. U., and Sarkkinen, Ohio State.

Guards—Smith, U. S. C., and Suffridge, Tennessee.

Center — Haman, North western.

Backs — Cafego, Tennessee; Kimbrough, Texas A. and M.; Harmon, Michigan; and Kinnick, Iowa.

If all that sounds familiar to you, you heard right. It is the arch-typical All - America team, and I cling firmly to my belief that most of the voters saw almost none of the players they mention. Your correspondent failed to see Cafego, Kimbrough, Harmon, and Kinnick. He did see his own All - America halfbacks, Challedon and Kayak II, and still insists that these stout operatives could run the pants off Kinnick, Harmon, Kimbrough, and Cafego.

It will not surprise me if Underslung, of Catfish Normal, turns out to have been the best back of this year when all the boys have had a chance to play a couple of years of pro football. Yet none of the All-America pickers ever heard of Underslung, of Catfish Normal.

I wish to go on record at this time as predicting that Underslung, of Catfish Normal, will turn out to be a great back. That will protect me on all sides.

Four Records of 1938 Grid Teams Go into Discard

Tennessee, Texas A. & M. and Texas Christian Set Up New Marks

Seattle, Dec. 7 (AP) — Four 1938 team records have been surpassed by 1939 performers, the American Football Statistical Bureau said today.

Tennessee's powerful Vols, with one regularly scheduled game to go, are ahead of Fordham's 1938 total offensive mark of 341.6, the Vols having averaged 346.4 yards a game to date.

Texas A. and M., Sugar Bowl choice, is the nation's leading defensive team against both passes and rushes, and the Aggies' record of holding the opposition to only 76.0 a game betters Alabama's 1938 mark of 77.9.

Texas Christian is the nation's greatest passing team for the second consecutive year. The Christians this year completed more passes than they did in 1938, with Little Davie O'Brien doing the pitching. However, T. C. U. didn't gain as many yards a game by passing as they did with O'Brien hurling. This year they completed 122 passes for an average of 149.1 a game, while last year they completed 108 for an average of 164 yards a game.

The Leaders

UNPOPULAR!

William Halloran

This man's very unpopular in Washington these days. He is William Halloran, who refereed the championship Washington-New York pro grid game in New York, won by the Giants, 9-7, when Halloran ruled a Washington field goal in the last few seconds was wide. The ruling cost each Washington player about $1,000 in cash and the chance to meet the Green Bay Packers for the loop title.

Local Pro Fight Promoters Take Time by Forelock

Will Start Show Dec. 15 at 8:45 and Juggle Program

Caught between the cross-fire of the late closing of downtown stores because of Christmas shopping hours and the cat-eye shift of the Celanese plant, Boxing Promoters Tommy Maus and Lew Yankelevitz have come up with a time - schedule for their Friday, December 15, show they feel certain will prove satisfactory to all concerned.

"We won't put on the first preliminary at the Armory until 8:45 and the main event will not start until 9:45," Co-Promoter Maus, said.

"In the event of knockouts," Maus figured, "it will be necessary to advance the starting time of the second and third preliminaries and the main event, but customers arriving as late as 9:15 or finding it necessary to leave about 10:30 are certain to see the full main event and at least two other bouts of the five on our program."

The Maus - Yankelevitz time - schedule calls for Bill Niland to start throwing leather at Al Hillegas, Central City, Pa., junior welterweight, at 8:45.

If the four-round opening number between Niland and Hillegas goes the limit the second preliminary, involving Homer "Stony" Jackson, middleweight pride of Frostburg, and Thomas "Bucky" Walbert, local scrapper, will get under way at 9:05.

The third of the program's three four - rounders, between "Hank" Lindsay, former LaSalle and Virginia Poly football and basketball star, and Clarence "Kayo" Shrout, a pair of local heavyweights, is listed for 9:25 with the ten-round main event, between Cleo McNeal, Canton (Ohio) negro, and Bill Bullock, Washington middleweight, to follow at 9:45.

After McNeal and Bullock finish their chores the eight-round semi-final featuring Charley Brant, southpaw knockout specialist of Somerset, Pa., and Earl Kidd, Akron (Ohio) light-heavyweight, will be staged.

The Cumberland clouters on the December 15 bill, Niland, Lindsay, Walbert and Shrout, are all reported to be taking their training work seriously because they know winning efforts will result in later bouts at increased fees.

Pan-American to Report Today on Sub for Olympics

May Have Regular Games in "Between-Years" of Olympics

By BILL BONI

Hollywood, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—The report of a special Pan-American games committee will be awaited with great interest tomorrow when the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States opens its fifty-first annual convention.

The five-man group headed by Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney of New York, former A. A. U. president, is expected to offer at least two proposals as the result of a search for a substitute for the 1940 Olympic games. These will be:

1.—Establishment of Pan-American games on a permanent basis, the games to be held in the "between-Olympic" years (in other words, at four-year intervals starting in 1942).

2.—Some sort of games for next summer to reward those athletes who, since 1936, have been working with a berth on the 1940 U. S. Olympic team in view.

Offers From Abroad

The A. A. U. and the American Olympic committee have received two invitations to send teams abroad. Cuba, in February or March, plans to stage a program involving only five sports, track and field and swimming among them. Argentina, in November, would put on a full Olympic program.

From the A. A. U. standpoint, there are objections to both — the Cuba proposal because the program is too limited, to Argentina's because it comes too late in the year, when most American eligibles are back in school.

Other important meetings tomorrow are those of the records committee, which among other things will weigh a claim that the Dartmouth board track, where three U. S. indoor records were set last winter, is illegal, and of the track and field committee, which is expected to approve an amendment to switch the indoor championships from the metric to the yardage system of measurement.

PLOTTING TROUBLE FOR PACKERS!

Mel Hein and Steve Owen

Professional football's world series is scheduled for Milwaukee, Sunday, December 9, when the New York Giants, eastern rulers, tangle with the Green Bay Packers, western titlists. The Giants' captain, Mel Hein, erstwhile Washington luminary, and coach, Steve Owen, are shown in New York as they plotted plenty of trouble for the Packers.

Press All-American to Be Announced Saturday

The 1939 Associated Press All-American football eleven will be released Saturday morning, December 9, with pictures and full details of the players appearing in The Cumberland News.

For the most authentic All-American team of the year, read Saturday's NEWS.

Howard High Cagers Open Season Tonight

Piedmont, W. Va., Dec. 7 — Howard High cagers of Piedmont will pry the lid off their 1939-40 basketball campaign Friday night when they meet the Lucy V. Simms High five of Harrisonburg, Va., on the locals' floor. Simms High won the Shenandoah Valley negro championship last year.

The Panthers, despite the loss of such stars as Coleman, Johnson and Fisher, hope to open with a victory. Coach Brooks has built his current aggregation around Bartlett, Robert Stewart and Sam Washington, holdover lettermen.

Billy Mason, Eddie Redman, Clive Johnson, Arnold Campbell and Wilman and Howard Coleman have shown plenty of skill and speed in early workouts.

Howard plans to play at least 20 games. The schedule will be completed at the meeting of the State Athletic Association in Charleston Saturday.

Scalpers Out To Reap Harvest Off Pro Grid Clash

Blocks of Bogus Tickets Also on Sale for Play-Off Game

Milwaukee, Dec. 7 (AP)—There much ado in this temporary capital of pro football, for scalpers have cornered scattered blocks of choice seats and there are reports of counterfeiting of tickets to Sunday's New York Giants-Green Bay Packers championship game.

Lee Joannes, president of the Packers, took official notice of the counterfeiting reports by announcing that his club would pay a $250 reward for evidence leading to conviction of anyone selling bogus tickets.

The club's attorney told Mayor Daniel W. Hoan he had heard 1,500 fake tickets had been printed here and were being sold for $10 each.

The management of State Fair Park, site of the game, announced that persons able to identify bona-fide tickets would be on hand at the gates to protect holders of legitimate pateboards.

The park seating facilities have been enlarged to accommodate 32,000 and a sellout is evident, assuring an $80,000 gate. Nothing but the lowest priced seats, far removed from the gridiron, were available today.

Under these conditions, scalpers hoped for a golden harvest. Top-price seats, which sold for $4.40, were offered at two for $30.

Otto La Budde, internal revenue collector, has sent out spotters in an attempt to make sure Uncle Sam is remembered by the scalpers both in the matter of income and amusement taxes.

New York, Dec. 7 — Having already published our All-America football team, a nicely balanced outfit composed of one woman, two horses, and eight gents, which is the ratio you will find around any polite dinner table in the suburbs, we will now turn our attention to what the other boys are doing in this line.

The boys have been busy. A street-to-street poll reveals that there are now 6,891 All - America teams in circulation, save February, which alone has but eight and a score till leap year gives it one day more.

Sigmund, the lad whom we employ to sweep the earwigs off our typewriter, has just completed his own All - America team, and the earwig-Sweepers Union, Local 234, has declared it official. Madame Eugenie, the ace beauty parlor operator and masseuse in our block, will have her team ready by Sunday. It is awaited with gaping jaws by Bon Ton rubbers from coast to coast, beginning at either coast you prefer.

Not One Picks Booth

Naturally, the full count of 6,891 teams includes All - Western teams, All - Eastern teams, All-Southern teams, All - English - speaking teams, and All - Northwest-A-Quarter-West teams. The only thing these teams have in common is that none of them mentions Albie Booth. The boys know that Albie is through.

Time was, around 1900, when Walter Camp's All - America was the one and only official team. It had a single drawback; namely, that Mr. Camp believed the country west of the Mississippi to be inhabited exclusively by Utes, Piutes, and Comanches. In 1909, he discovered Minnesota, lying slightly to starboard of the Father of Waters, and the rest is history.

After Camp came the deluge. So many All - America teams were picked that the boys began to embarrass each other. One guy (A) knew full well that B knew that A had not seen all the players he selected. Scratching his chest sheepishly, A proceeded to beat this rap by laying in a board of experts. The upkeep of these experts was terrific, since they consumed two beefsteaks and a quarter of a peck of potatoes daily, per capita, and became a nuisance around the house, but A knew at least that he was protected from the skepticism of B and C, who were now stocking their own cellars with experts.

This condition prevailed until the dawn of what I have nicknamed the Dutch Clark - Cliff Battles-Clark Hinkle era. Ignored in college, Clark and Battles and Hinkle took up professional football and promptly proved themselves to be great players. This made the All - America pickers look pretty silly, and paved the way for the modern system of Jumbo All - America teams.

One Team Picked By 2,050 Experts

Under the Jumbo system, everybody votes. A good speciment of the Jumbo All - America team is the one published this week in the magazine Newsweek, which was compiled by no fewer than 2,050 authorities — roughly the population of the town of Mebane, N. C. The only thing left is for the population of Mebane, N. C., to pick its own team — after which, Newsweek's 2,050 authorities can settle down in Mebane themselves and try to lead clean lives in the future.

Because of the overwhelming number of voters, the Newsweek Jumbo team gives you a pretty good idea of what the boys around the country believe to constitute an All - America in this year of grace The team is as follows:

Ends — Kavanaugh, L. S. U., and Sarkkinen, Ohio State.

Guards—Smith, U. S. C., and Suffridge, Tennessee.

Center — Haman, North western.

Backs — Cafego, Tennessee; Kimbrough, Texas A. and M.; Harmon, Michigan; and Kinnick, Iowa.

If all that sounds familiar to you, you heard right. It is the arch-typical All - America team, and I cling firmly to my belief that most of the voters saw almost none of the players they mention. Your correspondent failed to see Cafego, Kimbrough, Harmon, and Kinnick. He did see his own All - America halfbacks, Challedon and Kayak II, and still insists that these stout operatives could run the pants off Kinnick, Harmon, Kimbrough, and Cafego.

It will not surprise me if Underslung, of Catfish Normal, turns out to have been the best back of this year when all the boys have had a chance to play a couple of years of pro football. Yet none of the All-America pickers ever heard of Underslung, of Catfish Normal.

I wish to go on record at this time as predicting that Underslung, of Catfish Normal, will turn out to be a great back. That will protect me on all sides.

Four Records of 1938 Grid Teams Go into Discard

Tennessee, Texas A. & M. and Texas Christian Set Up New Marks

Seattle, Dec. 7 (AP) — Four 1938 team records have been surpassed by 1939 performers, the American Football Statistical Bureau said today.

Tennessee's powerful Vols, with one regularly scheduled game to go, are ahead of Fordham's 1938 total offensive mark of 341.6, the Vols having averaged 346.4 yards a game to date.

Texas A. and M., Sugar Bowl choice, is the nation's leading defensive team against both passes and rushes, and the Aggies' record of holding the opposition to only 76.0 a game betters Alabama's 1938 mark of 77.9.

Texas Christian is the nation's greatest passing team for the second consecutive year. The Christians this year completed more passes than they did in 1938, with Little Davie O'Brien doing the pitching. However, T. C. U. didn't gain as many yards a game by passing as they did with O'Brien hurling. This year they completed 122 passes for an average of 149.1 a game, while last year they completed 108 for an average of 164 yards a game.

UNPOPULAR!

William Halloran

This man's very unpopular in Washington these days. He is William Halloran, who refereed the championship Washington-New York pro grid game in New York, won by the Giants, 9-7, when Halloran ruled a Washington field goal in the last few seconds was wide. The ruling cost each Washington player about $1,000 in cash and the chance to meet the Green Bay Packers for the loop title.

Local Pro Fight Promoters Take Time by Forelock

Will Start Show Dec. 15 at 8:45 and Juggle Program

Caught between the cross-fire of the late closing of downtown stores because of Christmas shopping hours and the cat-eye shift of the Celanese plant, Boxing Promoters Tommy Maus and Lew Yankelevitz have come up with a time - schedule for their Friday, December 15, show they feel certain will prove satisfactory to all concerned.

"We won't put on the first preliminary at the Armory until 8:45 and the main event will not start until 9:45," Co-Promoter Maus, said.

"In the event of knockouts," Maus figured, "it will be necessary to advance the starting time of the second and third preliminaries and the main event, but customers arriving as late as 9:15 or finding it necessary to leave about 10:30 are certain to see the full main event and at least two other bouts of the five on our program."

The Maus - Yankelevitz time - schedule calls for Bill Niland to start throwing leather at Al Hillegas, Central City, Pa., junior welterweight, at 8:45.

If the four-round opening number between Niland and Hillegas goes the limit the second preliminary, involving Homer "Stony" Jackson, middleweight pride of Frostburg, and Thomas "Bucky" Walbert, local scrapper, will get under way at 9:05.

The third of the program's three four - rounders, between "Hank" Lindsay, former LaSalle and Virginia Poly football and basketball star, and Clarence "Kayo" Shrout, a pair of local heavyweights, is listed for 9:25 with the ten-round main event, between Cleo McNeal, Canton (Ohio) negro, and Bill Bullock, Washington middleweight, to follow at 9:45.

After McNeal and Bullock finish their chores the eight-round semi-final featuring Charley Brant, southpaw knockout specialist of Somerset, Pa., and Earl Kidd, Akron (Ohio) light-heavyweight, will be staged.

The Cumberland clouters on the December 15 bill, Niland, Lindsay, Walbert and Shrout, are all reported to be taking their training work seriously because they know winning efforts will result in later bouts at increased fees.

Pan-American to Report Today on Sub for Olympics

May Have Regular Games in "Between-Years" of Olympics

By BILL BONI

Hollywood, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—The report of a special Pan-American games committee will be awaited with great interest tomorrow when the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States opens its fifty-first annual convention.

The five-man group headed by Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney of New York, former A. A. U. president, is expected to offer at least two proposals as the result of a search for a substitute for the 1940 Olympic games. These will be:

1.—Establishment of Pan-American games on a permanent basis, the games to be held in the "between-Olympic" years (in other words, at four-year intervals starting in 1942).

2.—Some sort of games for next summer to reward those athletes who, since 1936, have been working with a berth on the 1940 U. S. Olympic team in view.

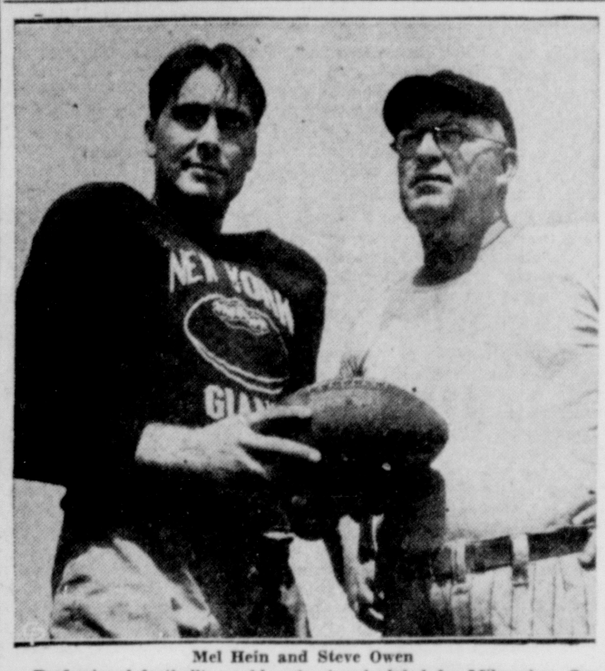
Offers From Abroad

The A. A. U. and the American Olympic committee have received two invitations to send teams abroad. Cuba, in February or March, plans to stage a program involving only five sports, track and field and swimming among them. Argentina, in November, would put on a full Olympic program.

From the A. A. U. standpoint, there are objections to both — the Cuba proposal because the program is too limited, to Argentina's because it comes too late in the year, when most American eligibles are back in school.

Other important meetings tomorrow are those of the records committee, which among other things will weigh a claim that the Dartmouth board track, where three U. S. indoor records were set last winter, is illegal, and of the track and field committee, which is expected to approve an amendment to switch the indoor championships from the metric to the yardage system of measurement.

PLOTTING TROUBLE FOR PACKERS!



Mel Hein and Steve Owen

Professional football's world series is scheduled for Milwaukee, Sunday, December 9, when the New York Giants, eastern rulers, tangle with the Green Bay Packers, western titlists. The Giants' captain, Mel Hein, erstwhile Washington luminary, and coach, Steve Owen, are shown in New York as they plotted plenty of trouble for the Packers.

Howard High Cagers Open Season Tonight

Piedmont, W. Va., Dec. 7 — Howard High cagers of Piedmont will pry the lid off their 1939-40 basketball campaign Friday night when they meet the Lucy V. Simms High five of Harrisonburg, Va., on the locals' floor. Simms High won the Shenandoah Valley negro championship last year.

The Panthers, despite the loss of such stars as Coleman, Johnson and Fisher, hope to open with a victory. Coach Brooks has built his current aggregation around Bartlett, Robert Stewart and Sam Washington, holdover lettermen.

Billy Mason, Eddie Redman, Clive Johnson, Arnold Campbell and Wilman and Howard Coleman have shown plenty of skill and speed in early workouts.

Howard plans to play at least 20 games. The schedule will be completed at the meeting of the State Athletic Association in Charleston Saturday.

Scalpers Out To Reap Harvest Off Pro Grid Clash

Blocks of Bogus Tickets Also on Sale for Play-Off Game

Milwaukee, Dec. 7 (AP)—There much ado in this temporary capital of pro football, for scalpers have cornered scattered blocks of choice seats and there are reports of counterfeiting of tickets to Sunday's New York Giants-Green Bay Packers championship game.

Lee Joannes, president of the Packers, took official notice of the counterfeiting reports by announcing that his club would pay a $250 reward for evidence leading to conviction of anyone selling bogus tickets.

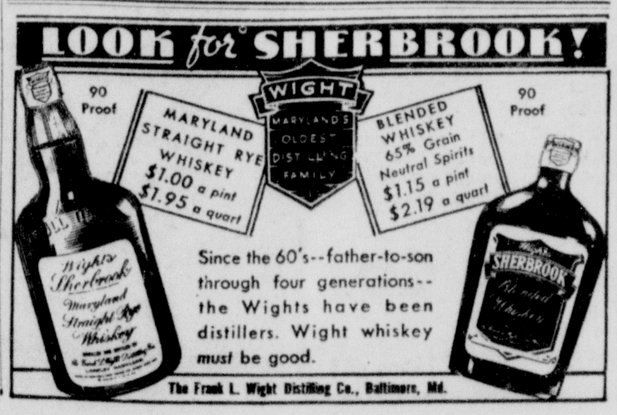
The club's attorney told Mayor Daniel W. Hoan he had heard 1,500 fake tickets had been printed here and were being sold for $10 each.

The management of State Fair Park, site of the game, announced that persons able to identify bonafide tickets would be on hand at the gates to protect holders of legitimate pateboards.

The park seating facilities have been enlarged to accommodate 32,000 and a sellout is evident, assuring an $80,000 gate. Nothing but the lowest priced seats, far removed from the gridiron, were available today.

Under these conditions, scalpers hoped for a golden harvest. Top-price seats, which sold for $4.40, were offered at two for $30.

Otto La Budde, internal revenue collector, has sent out spotters in an attempt to make sure Uncle Sam is remembered by the scalpers both in the matter of income and amusement taxes.



Little All-America Named by A-P Scribes

Far West Draws Three Players in Nation-wide Poll

La Salle of Philadelphia Only Eastern Team Honored

Middle-West and South Are Favored by Selectors

New York, Dec. 7 (AP) — Powered by a couple of backs who scored 227 points between them and pushed the ball forward nearly two miles, the Associated Press' 1939 Little All-America football team emerged from the small colleges today as an outfit that could get along in any league.

Led by the Far West, where the flourishing number of strong small college teams resulted in that area winning three places on the first-team eleven, the Little All-America boasts a backfield averaging 184 pounds operating behind a 191-pound line.

The East, South and Midwest each gained two positions on the "varsity," and the Rocky Mountain and Southwest split the other two.

Highest Scores

Heading the backfield quartet are two high-geared offensive ball carriers, Lloyd Madden of Colorado Mines and Sam Hammerstrom of Union (N. Y.) College. Madden, one of the fastest in the country, was the nation's high scorer with 141 points. Hammerstrom led the East in point-making with 86.

With Hammerstrom, Madden and Canadeo in the backfield is San Jose State's powerhouse fullback, Leroy Zimmerman, a 190-pound triple threat performer. He was a standout defensively as well as offensively in San Jose's all-winning string of thirteen straight games.

Two of the linemen, Sherrill Bushby, big, rangy end of Troy (Ala.) Teachers, and Mike Kostiuk, 195-pound tackle from Detroit Tech, each blocked nine enemy punts during the season. Bushby's wingmate is Jack Mulkey, another of the Pacific Coast selections, from Fresno State. Running mate for Kostiuk at tackle is Jack Gregory of Chattanooga. At the guards are Marion Rogers of Maryville (Mo.) Teachers and Frank Loughney of LaSalle of Philadelphia. Clyde Turner, rugged pivot man of Hardin-Simmons, is the center.

BATTLE COUNTRY

O, East is East and West is West
And South is South, I hear.
Where the call is in for the Trojan test
And ditto the Volunteer.
Where the Green Bay Packers make their stand
As the storming Giants move in,
From the golden sun to the snow banks spun
In the roar of the closing din.

Three Battle Fronts

Los Angeles—The smoke of football war is drifting today in the direction of three widely scattered cities—Los Angeles, Knoxville and Milwaukee where the impending action will write three decisive stories.

On the Far Western front Southern California's Trojans tangle up with U. C. L. A., which, translated for the nation at large means University of California, Las Angeles branch. The winner here moves into the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

In the South, Tennessee faces Auburn in defense of an untied, unbeaten and unscored-on record of football perfection up to this point.

On Sunday in Milwaukee the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants decide the professional championship of football's world—a world series packed into one collision of might, muscle and skill.

This is the triple setting that engages the attention of an entire country before the bowl rash breaks out some three weeks away.

The Clash at Los Angeles

On the college side, the contest at Los Angeles carries the major interest since these two home—town teams look to be more evenly matched than Tennessee and Auburn are. The winner here will be the Rose Bowl pick for the Pacific Coast. In case of a tie Southern California will get the call, since U. C. L. A. has been tied twice in her Conference against a single draw for the Trojans.

Howard Jones and his Southern Californians were given a distinct edge until their close call against Jimmy Phelan's Washington outfit last week, when they barely escaped with their quivering scalps.

U. C. L. A. carries plenty of poison with her Kenny Washington, a brilliant back, Robinson, Strode and others who are always dangerous.

But Southern California has the stronger line, the stouter reserves, and a pretty fair backfield of her own Peoples, Hoffman, Landsell and others who can also move around.

The big municipal stadium here is facing a sell-out of around 100,000 with so much at stake. Those supporting U. C. L. A. figure that Southern California may be on the stale side after a long, hard schedule and the pressure placed on her by Notre Dame and Washington down the stretch. But there is enough man power and experience on this Trojan squad to handle any schedule.

It will be a hard game. Southern California is in a dangerous spot. But I believe the S. C. Trojans have too much reserve strength and should just about get by.

At Knoxville

Any unbeaten untied team is always a shining target in its final game. Death and football like a shining mark. Tennessee has slipped through at least fourteen consecutive games without being scored on. This is a remarkable record in modern football.

In my opinion, Tenneseee has one of the greatest defensive teams I've ever seen—anywhere or at any time. And it is no part of a thistledown on attack, especially when Cafego is on the job. A great back—in good shape.

Auburn is a long shot here, but these final football games can be peculiar affairs—since there are, after all, no supermen in this cock-eyed universe.

Tennessee reminds me of the New York Yankees. So many speak of the skill of a defense that has remained unpunctured in about fourteen hours of actual play over a period of nearly two years.

You'll seldom see a greater line than the Volunteer forward wall, with Molinski, Suffridge, Shires and all the others tackling the ball carrier or rushing the passer in groups of three and four. They have the old General Nathan Bedford Forrest angle—to "get thar fustest with the mostest men."

Quite a team, this Tennessee outfit—the best I've seen in many years when the squad has Cafego and Suffridge ready.

The Pro Championship

Milwaukee is a lucky city. On Sunday it will see two of the greatest football teams ever thrown into a pit.

The record of Steve Owen's New York Giants for the last two years has been one of the star features of sport. Oklahoma Steve also has turned in one of the finest coaching jobs that football has ever known, a coaching job featured by soundness in every important fundamental. He lacks the brilliancy carried by a few other rival teams. But the answer is—try to beat his bunch.

The Green Bay Packers may turn the trick. No one can overlook this collection of antelopic mammoths. They are just as tough as the Giants—just as hard to take.

I think Green Bay has the edge in all-around playing strength, but the Giants have the winning habit and they have the berserk quality when the blue chips are down. They are the pressure team of football. They are always the bunch to beat. They never beat themselves.

Playing at Milwaukee, I'd say the Packers have the edge, in a game in which the weather may play a leading role. For this isn't springtime in either the Rockies or Milwoukee.

Football this season has carried a keen appeal to well over 40,000,000 Americans. The next two days will be full of high spots, loaded wit hthrills. If you were in Los Angeles with me today where the big game of the Far West is set for Saturday, you'd get a clearer picture of what football means.

But don't forget, from all this chatter, that Texas A. and M. and Tulane especially, are just as good as any two teams you can name from any section. And don't forget that Missouri, with Paul Christian, is right on the heels of the top pick.

Scholastic Giant Credits Football For Healthy Body

Connellsville (Pa.) Athlete Stands Six Feet, Eight Inches, Weighs 230

Connellsville, Pa., Dec. 7 (AP)—Once puny from a protracted illness, William Percy today is scholastic Sampson—the biggest high school gridman Fayette county ever produced.

He gives football credit for converting him from a sickly kid to a strapping young giant at 19. Percy stands six feet, eight inches tall, weighs 230 pounds—and is still growing.

He excells also in basketball and ils practically a one-man track team.

At 13, "Bill" was stricken with scarlet fever. He couldn't seem to shake off the effects of the disease and a physician told his family the boy would be fortunate to live three years.

But a change of luck came when a friend suggested the youth take up football to regain his health and strength. That plus fresh air and good food turned the trick.

Bill went back to the classes he had missed during the two-year illness and at Connellsville High he became a line-shattering fullback on the offense and an outstanding tackle on the defense. In fifteen games at fullback he fumbled only twice.

He kept a diary to show his progress back to health. It records in two years of football he was never thrown for a loss; that he rarely failed to gain four to five yards each time he carried the ball, and that this season, in his last scholastic game, he ran seventy-nine yards for a touchdown and gained 205 yards from scrimmage against Vandergrift High.

In 1938 Bill sparked Connellsville to its first victory in ten years over Uniontown, an old rival.

The same year he set a new county discus record with a toss of 139 feet. He came into his own as a track star in 1939, winning fourteen first places of a possible sixteen and breaking the county javelin mark with a heave of 169 feet, nine inches. In another meet he threw the spear 180 feet, ten inches.

Bill had decided to aim at the shot put record next spring.

He set an individual scoring high of thirty-three field goals and one foul, a total of sixty-seven points, while playing basketball in the Connellsville Y.M.C.A. League in 1937.

Wears Size 17½ Shoes

But Bill's athletic prowess didn't end his hard luck. He broke a shoulder and a rib on the gridiron and was accidentally shot in the chest.

Funny things, too, are always happening to a fellow of his stature. He was at a C.M.T.M. camp two weeks in 1938 before a pair of shoes could be found to fit his size 17½ EEE feet. Meantime, rather than wear out his own shoes, he went barefoot. This year at camp, shoes big enough never were found.

These other measurements are in proportion to Bill's firm foundation: Arm reach, eighty-nine inches; chest, forty-eight inches; waist, thirty inches; stride 8½ feet; hands, 9½ inches long and 4½ inches across.

Picture a youth like that with a ventriloquest's dummy on his knee. That's Bill's hobby. He also has a pet rat, claims to be the "world's largest" Eagle Boy Scout, and is a National Guardsman.

FEATHERS SIGN FOR BATTLE

Mike Jacobs, Pete Scalzo and Simon Chavez

Recognized as the featherweight champ in Venezuela, Simon Chavez, right, looks on as Pete Scalzo of New York signs for a ten-round bout with him in New York for December 22. The winner of the bout will meet Joey Archibald, United States champ, for the title. Mike Jacobs, promoter, is at the left.

Vanderbilt Was 'Bookie'

New York, Dec. 7 — Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, new president of Belmont Park, probably was one of the youngest "book makers" racing has known. Ten years ago, when only 17 and a student at St. Paul's School in Concord, N. H., Vanderbilt covered every Kentucky Derby bet available on the campus. Most wagers taken were on Blue Larkspur. . . . and Vanderbilt cleaned up when Clyde Van Dusen won.

Little All-America Named by A-P Scribes

La Salle of Philadelphia Only Eastern Team Honored

Middle-West and South Are Favored by Selectors

New York, Dec. 7 (AP) — Powered by a couple of backs who scored 227 points between them and pushed the ball forward nearly two miles, the Associated Press' 1939 Little All-America football team emerged from the small colleges today as an outfit that could get along in any league.

Led by the Far West, where the flourishing number of strong small college teams resulted in that area winning three places on the first-team eleven, the Little All-America boasts a backfield averaging 184 pounds operating behind a 191-pound line.

The East, South and Midwest each gained two positions on the "varsity," and the Rocky Mountain and Southwest split the other two.

Highest Scores

Heading the backfield quartet are two high-geared offensive ball carriers, Lloyd Madden of Colorado Mines and Sam Hammerstrom of Union (N. Y.) College. Madden, one of the fastest in the country, was the nation's high scorer with 141 points. Hammerstrom led the East in point-making with 86.

With Hammerstrom, Madden and Canadeo in the backfield is San Jose State's powerhouse fullback, Leroy Zimmerman, a 190-pound triple threat performer. He was a standout defensively as well as offensively in San Jose's all-winning string of thirteen straight games.

Two of the linemen, Sherrill Bushby, big, rangy end of Troy (Ala.) Teachers, and Mike Kostiuk, 195-pound tackle from Detroit Tech, each blocked nine enemy punts during the season. Bushby's wingmate is Jack Mulkey, another of the Pacific Coast selections, from Fresno State. Running mate for Kostiuk at tackle is Jack Gregory of Chattanooga. At the guards are Marion Rogers of Maryville (Mo.) Teachers and Frank Loughney of LaSalle of Philadelphia. Clyde Turner, rugged pivot man of Hardin-Simmons, is the center.

BATTLE COUNTRY

O, East is East and West is West
And South is South, I hear.
Where the call is in for the Trojan test
And ditto the Volunteer.
Where the Green Bay Packers make their stand
As the storming Giants move in,
From the golden sun to the snow banks spun
In the roar of the closing din.

Three Battle Fronts

Los Angeles—The smoke of football war is drifting today in the direction of three widely scattered cities—Los Angeles, Knoxville and Milwaukee where the impending action will write three decisive stories.

On the Far Western front Southern California's Trojans tangle up with U. C. L. A., which, translated for the nation at large means University of California, Las Angeles branch. The winner here moves into the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

In the South, Tennessee faces Auburn in defense of an untied, unbeaten and unscored-on record of football perfection up to this point.

On Sunday in Milwaukee the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants decide the professional championship of football's world—a world series packed into one collision of might, muscle and skill.

This is the triple setting that engages the attention of an entire country before the bowl rash breaks out some three weeks away.

The Clash at Los Angeles

On the college side, the contest at Los Angeles carries the major interest since these two home—town teams look to be more evenly matched than Tennessee and Auburn are. The winner here will be the Rose Bowl pick for the Pacific Coast. In case of a tie Southern California will get the call, since U. C. L. A. has been tied twice in her Conference against a single draw for the Trojans.

Howard Jones and his Southern Californians were given a distinct edge until their close call against Jimmy Phelan's Washington outfit last week, when they barely escaped with their quivering scalps.

U. C. L. A. carries plenty of poison with her Kenny Washington, a brilliant back, Robinson, Strode and others who are always dangerous.

But Southern California has the stronger line, the stouter reserves, and a pretty fair backfield of her own Peoples, Hoffman, Landsell and others who can also move around.

The big municipal stadium here is facing a sell-out of around 100,000 with so much at stake. Those supporting U. C. L. A. figure that Southern California may be on the stale side after a long, hard schedule and the pressure placed on her by Notre Dame and Washington down the stretch. But there is enough man power and experience on this Trojan squad to handle any schedule.

It will be a hard game. Southern California is in a dangerous spot. But I believe the S. C. Trojans have too much reserve strength and should just about get by.

At Knoxville

Any unbeaten untied team is always a shining target in its final game. Death and football like a shining mark. Tennessee has slipped through at least fourteen consecutive games without being scored on. This is a remarkable record in modern football.

In my opinion, Tenneseee has one of the greatest defensive teams I've ever seen—anywhere or at any time. And it is no part of a thistledown on attack, especially when Cafego is on the job. A great back—in good shape.

Auburn is a long shot here, but these final football games can be peculiar affairs—since there are, after all, no supermen in this cock-eyed universe.

Tennessee reminds me of the New York Yankees. So many speak of the skill of a defense that has remained unpunctured in about fourteen hours of actual play over a period of nearly two years.

You'll seldom see a greater line than the Volunteer forward wall, with Molinski, Suffridge, Shires and all the others tackling the ball carrier or rushing the passer in groups of three and four. They have the old General Nathan Bedford Forrest angle—to "get thar fustest with the mostest men."

Quite a team, this Tennessee outfit—the best I've seen in many years when the squad has Cafego and Suffridge ready.

The Pro Championship

Milwaukee is a lucky city. On Sunday it will see two of the greatest football teams ever thrown into a pit.

The record of Steve Owen's New York Giants for the last two years has been one of the star features of sport. Oklahoma Steve also has turned in one of the finest coaching jobs that football has ever known, a coaching job featured by soundness in every important fundamental. He lacks the brilliancy carried by a few other rival teams. But the answer is—try to beat his bunch.

The Green Bay Packers may turn the trick. No one can overlook this collection of antelopic mammoths. They are just as tough as the Giants—just as hard to take.

I think Green Bay has the edge in all-around playing strength, but the Giants have the winning habit and they have the berserk quality when the blue chips are down. They are the pressure team of football. They are always the bunch to beat. They never beat themselves.

Playing at Milwaukee, I'd say the Packers have the edge, in a game in which the weather may play a leading role. For this isn't springtime in either the Rockies or Milwoukee.

Football this season has carried a keen appeal to well over 40,000,000 Americans. The next two days will be full of high spots, loaded wit hthrills. If you were in Los Angeles with me today where the big game of the Far West is set for Saturday, you'd get a clearer picture of what football means.

But don't forget, from all this chatter, that Texas A. and M. and Tulane especially, are just as good as any two teams you can name from any section. And don't forget that Missouri, with Paul Christian, is right on the heels of the top pick.

Scholastic Giant Credits Football For Healthy Body

Connellsville (Pa.) Athlete Stands Six Feet, Eight Inches, Weighs 230

Connellsville, Pa., Dec. 7 (AP)—Once puny from a protracted illness, William Percy today is scholastic Sampson—the biggest high school gridman Fayette county ever produced.

He gives football credit for converting him from a sickly kid to a strapping young giant at 19. Percy stands six feet, eight inches tall, weighs 230 pounds—and is still growing.

He excells also in basketball and ils practically a one-man track team.

At 13, "Bill" was stricken with scarlet fever. He couldn't seem to shake off the effects of the disease and a physician told his family the boy would be fortunate to live three years.

But a change of luck came when a friend suggested the youth take up football to regain his health and strength. That plus fresh air and good food turned the trick.

Bill went back to the classes he had missed during the two-year illness and at Connellsville High he became a line-shattering fullback on the offense and an outstanding tackle on the defense. In fifteen games at fullback he fumbled only twice.

He kept a diary to show his progress back to health. It records in two years of football he was never thrown for a loss; that he rarely failed to gain four to five yards each time he carried the ball, and that this season, in his last scholastic game, he ran seventy-nine yards for a touchdown and gained 205 yards from scrimmage against Vandergrift High.

In 1938 Bill sparked Connellsville to its first victory in ten years over Uniontown, an old rival.

The same year he set a new county discus record with a toss of 139 feet. He came into his own as a track star in 1939, winning fourteen first places of a possible sixteen and breaking the county javelin mark with a heave of 169 feet, nine inches. In another meet he threw the spear 180 feet, ten inches.

Bill had decided to aim at the shot put record next spring.

He set an individual scoring high of thirty-three field goals and one foul, a total of sixty-seven points, while playing basketball in the Connellsville Y.M.C.A. League in 1937.

Wears Size 17½ Shoes

But Bill's athletic prowess didn't end his hard luck. He broke a shoulder and a rib on the gridiron and was accidentally shot in the chest.

Funny things, too, are always happening to a fellow of his stature. He was at a C.M.T.M. camp two weeks in 1938 before a pair of shoes could be found to fit his size 17½ EEE feet. Meantime, rather than wear out his own shoes, he went barefoot. This year at camp, shoes big enough never were found.

These other measurements are in proportion to Bill's firm foundation: Arm reach, eighty-nine inches; chest, forty-eight inches; waist, thirty inches; stride 8½ feet; hands, 9½ inches long and 4½ inches across.

Picture a youth like that with a ventriloquest's dummy on his knee. That's Bill's hobby. He also has a pet rat, claims to be the "world's largest" Eagle Boy Scout, and is a National Guardsman.

City Scholastic Court Season To Open Up

ort Hill Meets rostburg State -V's Here Tonight

obby Cavanaugh's Sentinels Entirely Rebuilt Aggregation

entral of Lonaconing Teams Play Oakland at Oakland

The 1939-40 Cumberland scholastic basketball campaign will get underway tonight when the Fort Hill Sentinels, winners of four championships last season will go against the Frostburg State College Jayvees on the locals' floor at 8 o'clock following a preliminary at 6 o'clock between two intra-squad quintets.

Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh said yesterday that most of the boys on his squad are small and that the team as a whole will not come up to last year's quint in the matter of height.

Lineup Undecided

However, the entirely-rebuilt Sentinel outfit has been coming along and numbers approximately 14 players from among whom Cavanaugh looks for a first rate team. Coach Cavanaugh has not fully decided on his starting lineup, but the forward posts rest among Billy Villetts, Howard Nesbitt, Wallace Fillery and Eddie Spear. At center will be John Blades, Wilbur Bell or Jack Beck.

Holding down guard positions will be Jack Cook, Junior Rice, Billy Dean or Jack Carnell. "Chick" James will referee the main game while Jim Roby will handle the preliminary.

Last year, the Sentinels opened their most successful campaign by tumbling the Jayvees 52-28 and later in the season walloped the Frostburg crew 44-25 on the losers' court. Before winding up their mind, the Hilltoppers captured the city, Western Maryland Interscholastic League, Cumberland Valley Athletic League and state titles.

Fort Hill won 31 games while losing but one last season. The Sentinels' only loss was a 29-19 upset at the hands of LaSalle after the North Enders had bowed 37-25 earlier in the campaign. The Scarlet and White piled up 1,365 points while yielding 802 for an average of 40 markers per contest.

In other games tonight, Central High's boys and girls of Lonaconing will invade Oakland for a twin bill. Beall High's cagers of Frostburg will open at Grantsville and Bayard (W. Va.) High, a member of the Potomac Valley Conference, but which competes only in the basketball loop, will entertain Aurora (W. Va.) High.

Central Teams Unbeaten

Both Central teams are unbeaten in two games, the Orange and Black boys having humbled Berlin (Pa.) High and Alumni while the Coney Girls turned back two Alumnae combinations. Oakland has gained an even break in four games against West Virginia foes to date, defeating Fellowsville and Arthurdale and losing to Kingwood and Terra Alta Saturday, Coach George Carrington's Frostburg State varsity will journey to Pittsburgh for a contest with the Westinghouse Trade School outfit. These two teams did not meet last year but for several seasons, Westinghouse has been playing Potomac State of Keyser.

Coach Carrington wasn't discouraged following Frostburg's 45-35 defeat at the hands of Loyola College of Baltimore Tuesday night in the Statesmen's opening test and believes Frostburg will be hard to beat when it gets a few more games out of the way.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Dec. 7—The kid from the corn country took it in stride, and when he'd finished his classic little speech and the band blared a trifle sour "on Iowa" and the 700 men and women rose and cheered and whistled, you tried to gulp down a lump in your throat.

You realized the ovation wasn't alone for Nile Kinnick, the outstanding college football player of the year. It was also for Nile Kinnick, typifying everything admirable in American youth.

It was a tough spot for any youngster. Tossed among a sea of strange faces, pawed, back-slapped, swamped by autograph seekers, it was something to test the good-nature and stamina of a hard-cased politician. Yet the kid took it.

He took it with a wide grin splitting his nice-looking, determined face with the deep cleft in the chin. Occasionally he appeared to sag slightly, and once he murmured something about "this being worse than a football game, and it isn't over in sixty minutes," but he'd snap right back.

He's not big as football players go, sort of a size 16 instead of the big, bulky size 20 usually imaged as a great star. Just a size above Davey O'Brien, who won the Heisman award last year. His shoulders are broad and solid, his hands square and capable.

Across the table sat large Ossie Solem, gazing with pride and just a trace of wistfulness at the boy.

"I got him to enroll at Iowa," said Ossie. "A real regret at leaving was the fact I couldn't see him through. I only had him as a freshman. He's not only a football player, he's a great basketball guard. He played in his sophomore year, but gave it up last year because it interfered with his studies. He also could pitch on the baseball team. But he's primarily a student. He's on his way to Phi Beta Kappa and a Rhodes scholarship. He's tops."

From scattered sources it is learned that Kinnick's grandpa, George W. Clark, was governor of Iowa just before the World War; that Nile played his last year of prep football under Ernie Adams at Benson High in Omaha, where he now lives, and that his only bad habit seems to be studying.

"I'm not going to play pro football. I'm not very big for the game, and besides, I've decided my football is behind me. What? I'll get lots of offers? Well, I'm not so sure about that," he said.

Which is a pretty good indication of the modesty of this lad from Iowa City, by way of Omaha and Adel, Ia.

And it was this modesty, combined with a trim, clean-cut appearance and a smooth, friendly manner which brought 700 citizens, mostly New Yorkers, who usually keep their sentiment hidden in an inside pocket, to their feet in that spine-tingling ovation. The boy has it, both on and off the gridiron.

Central High Girls Off To Good Start

Lonaconing, Dec. 7. — Central High School's girls' basketball squad, off to a good start with two straight victories, is expected to again make a strong bid for the Western Maryland Interscholastic League championship.

Heading the 19 aspirants are Hetta Anderson, Eileen Clarke and Mary Joe Muster, holdover regulars from last year. Clarke and Muster have held down the forward berths in the two games this year and accounted for the bulk of the points in a 63-26 victory over the Lonaconing All-Stars and a 47-18 decision over an Alumnae sextet.

Other veterans are Virginia Ternent, Lillian Ferrens, Elaine Ort, Helen Marx, Lola Richardson, Mary Izat, Margaret Ar Frizzell and June Merrbach.

Newcomers are Anna Davlin, Nova Steele, Ruth Morton, Eileen Scott, Hannah Wilson, Wilda Wilhelm, Marvel Warnick and Betty Rowan With only a few changes, the local girls will follow the same schedule as Coach Mel Henry's boys' outfit.

Oakland High's teams will be Central's foes this Friday night at Oakland.

Bill Kern at W. Va. U. and Rumors Revive He Will Be Mountaineers' Coach

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—Reports started anew today that Bill Kern of Carnegie Tech would succeed Dr. Marshall Glenn as West Virginia University's football coach after Kern paid a visit to university officials.

Roy M. Hawley, athletic director, said Kern stopped in on his way to Wheeling, where he is scheduled to speak tonight.

Glenn formally resigned Sunday, a move which had been freely predicted since early in the season. He will practice medicine at Charles Town.

Kern was among several coaches mentioned as "sure" to succeed Glenn.

Some announcement concerning the coaching post might be forthcoming when the university's board of governors meet December 16, Hawley has said.

Nile Kinnick Honored At U. S. Naval Academy

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 7 (AP)—Nile Clarke Kinnick, winner of the Heisman trophy as the season's outstanding football player, reviewed the twelfth midshipmen company today on a visit to the U. S. Naval Academy.

Kinnick, 175-pound Iowa back from Omaha, Neb., flew to the Academy—scarcely yet at an even keel after its thumping 10-0 victory over Army Saturday — from New York in a Navy airplane.

With him were midshipman Allan Bergner, Middies' captain, and Navy coach major Emory E. Larson, who were at yesterday's trophy ceremonies.

The navy junior football team, composed of sons of academy officers, swarmed about Kinnick and Bergner, not content until they autographed a football. Kinnick autographed another for the Navy first team players. He goes to Washington tomorrow.

City Scholastic Court Season To Open Up

Fort Hill Meets Frostburg State J.-V's Here Tonight

Bobby Cavanaugh's Sentinels Entirely Rebuilt Aggregation

Central of Lonaconing Teams Play Oakland at Oakland

The 1939-40 Cumberland scholastic basketball campaign will get underway tonight when the Fort Hill Sentinels, winners of four championships last season will go against the Frostburg State College Jayvees on the locals' floor at 8 o'clock following a preliminary at 6 o'clock between two intra-squad quintets.

Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh said yesterday that most of the boys on his squad are small and that the team as a whole will not come up to last year's quint in the matter of height.

Lineup Undecided

However, the entirely-rebuilt Sentinel outfit has been coming along and numbers approximately 15 players from among whom Cavanaugh looks for a first rate team. Coach Cavanaugh has not fully decided on his starting lineup, but the forward posts rest among Billy Willetts, Howard Nesbitt, Wallace Mallery and Eddie Spear. At center will be John Blades, Wilbur Bell or Jack Beck.

Holding down guard positions will be Jack Cook, Junior Rice, Billy Dean or Jack Carnell. "Chick" Games will referee the main game while Jim Roby will handle the preliminary.

Last year, the Sentinels opened their most successful campaign by tumbling the Jayvees 52-28 and later in the season walloped the Frostburg crew 44-25 on the losers' court. Before winding up their second, the Hilltoppers captured the city, Western Maryland Interscholastic League, Cumberland Valley Athletic League and state titles.

Fort Hill won 31 games while losing but one last season. The Sentinels' only loss was a 29-19 upset at the hands of LaSalle after the North Enders had bowed 37-25 earlier in the campaign. The Scarlet and White piled up 1,365 points while yielding 802 for an average of 39 markers per contest.

In other games tonight, Central High's boys and girls of Lonaconing will invade Oakland for a twin bill. Beall High's cagers of Frostburg will open at Grantsville and Bayard (W. Va.) High, a member of the Potomac Valley Conference, but which competes only in the basketball loop, will entertain Aurora (W. Va.) High.

Central Teams Unbeaten

Both Central teams are unbeaten in two games, the Orange and Black boys having humbled Berlin (Pa.) High and Alumni while the Coney girls turned back two Alumnae combinations. Oakland has gained an even break in four games against West Virginia foes to date, defeating Fellowsville and Arthurdale and losing to Kingwood and Terra Alta Saturday, Coach George Carrington's Frostburg State varsity will journey to Pittsburgh for a contest with the Westinghouse Trade School outfit. These two teams did not meet last year but for several seasons, Westinghouse has been playing Potomac State of Keyser.

Coach Carrington wasn't discouraged following Frostburg's 45-35 defeat at the hands of Loyola College of Baltimore Tuesday night in the Statesmen's opening test and believes Frostburg will be hard to beat when it gets a few more games out of the way.

He also could pitch on the baseball team. But he's primarily a student. He's on his way to Phi Beta Kappa and a Rhodes scholarship. He's tops."

From scattered sources it is learned that Kinnick's grandpa, George W. Clark, was governor of Iowa just before the World War; that Nile played his last year of prep football under Ernie Adams at Benson High in Omaha, where he now lives, and that his only bad habit seems to be studying.

"I'm not going to play pro football. I'm not very big for the game, and besides, I've decided my football is behind me. What? I'll get lots of offers? Well, I'm not so sure about that," he said.

Which is a pretty good indication of the modesty of this lad from Iowa City, by way of Omaha and Adel, Ia.

And it was this modesty, combined with a trim, clean-cut appearance and a smooth, friendly manner which brought 700 citizens, mostly New Yorkers, who usually keep their sentiment hidden in an inside pocket, to their feet in that spine-tingling ovation. The boy has it, both on and off the gridiron.

Central High Girls Off To Good Start

Lonaconing, Dec. 7. — Central High School's girls' basketball squad, off to a good start with two straight victories, is expected to again make a strong bid for the Western Maryland Interscholastic League championship.

Heading the 19 aspirants are Hetta Anderson, Eileen Clarke and Mary Joe Muster, holdover regulars from last year. Clarke and Muster have held down the forward berths in the two games this year and accounted for the bulk of the points in a 63-26 victory over the Lonaconing All-Stars and a 47-18 decision over an Alumnae sextet.

Other veterans are Virginia Ternent, Lillian Ferrens, Elaine Ort, Helen Marx, Lola Richardson, Mary Izat, Margaret Ar Frizzell and June Merrbach.

Newcomers are Anna Davlin, Nova Steele, Ruth Morton, Eileen Scott, Hannah Wilson, Wilda Wilhelm, Marvel Warnick and Betty Rowan With only a few changes, the local girls will follow the same schedule as Coach Mel Henry's boys' outfit.

Oakland High's teams will be Central's foes this Friday night at Oakland.

Bill Kern at W. Va. U. and Rumors Revive He Will Be Mountaineers' Coach

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—Reports started anew today that Bill Kern of Carnegie Tech would succeed Dr. Marshall Glenn as West Virginia University's football coach after Kern paid a visit to university officials.

Roy M. Hawley, athletic director, said Kern stopped in on his way to Wheeling, where he is scheduled to speak tonight.

Glenn formally resigned Sunday, a move which had been freely predicted since early in the season. He will practice medicine at Charles Town.

Kern was among several coaches mentioned as "sure" to succeed Glenn.

Some announcement concerning the coaching post might be forthcoming when the university's board of governors meet December 16, Hawley has said.

Nile Kinnick Honored At U. S. Naval Academy

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 7 (AP)—Nile Clarke Kinnick, winner of the Heisman trophy as the season's outstanding football player, reviewed the twelfth midshipmen company today on a visit to the U. S. Naval Academy.

Kinnick, 175-pound Iowa back from Omaha, Neb., flew to the Academy—scarcely yet at an even keel after its thumping 10-0 victory over Army Saturday — from New York in a Navy airplane.

With him were midshipman Allan Bergner, Middies' captain, and Navy coach major Emory E. Larson, who were at yesterday's trophy ceremonies.

Longest Pa. Grid Run Turned in by Gettysburg Back

AP Survey Shows Al Bender Raced 101 Yards Against Dickinson

By TED MEIER

Philadelphia, Dec. 7 (AP) — Al Bender, Gettysburg halfback, turned in the longest run made on a Pennsylvania gridiron during the 1939 season, a survey of the Associated Press showed today.

Playing against the Bullet's traditional rival, Dickinson, at Hershey on Thanksgiving Bender intercepted a Dickinson aerial in his own end zone and sped 101 yards for a touchdown.

It was three yards longer than the 98-yard sprint of Don Kreps, Washington - Jefferson end, who intercepted a pass against this same Dickinson eleven, for runnerup honors.

A year ago Steve Smoke, of Lehigh, and Jimmy Powers, of Temple, shared first place honors with runs of 102 yards. Smoke picked up a Penn State fumble while Powers returned a Florida kickoff.

Sophomore Jim Breen, of Albright College, turned in the longest run from scrimmage, getting loose for ninety-one yards, also against Dickinson. Ed Schillo, of Lebanon Valley, returned the kickoff the fartherest, ninety yards against Albright, while Al Juralewicz and Andy Tomasic, of Temple, worked the longest forward pass and run.

Against Villanova, Juralewicz heaved a thirty-yard aerial to Tocasic who scampered an additional sixty yards to complete a ninety-yard gain for Temple's only touchdown against their traditional rival.

The season's long runs included:

"Hurry Up" Yost Steps Down Today From Big Ten Pos

Grand Old Man Automatically Moves Out of Helm of Conference

By EARL HILLIGAN

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—Michigan's grand old man of football, Fielding H. Yost, will "call signals" for the western conference tomorrow—for the last time.

The Wolverine athletic director will preside as chairman at the annual Big Ten winter meeting, the chairmanship being an honor which rotates among the conference directors and which "Hurry Up" last held a decade ago.

He does not plan to retire until he is 70—April 30, 1941—but when he does he will be able to look back on a glory-filled coaching career, studded with great teams such as his "point a minute" eleven and with all-time All-America stars such as Willie Heston and "Germany" Schulz. But Yost right now is looking ahead—not backward.

"This season I saw the best football played in the Big Ten in many years," he said enthusiastically. "Blocking and tackling were sharper. Long passing plays worked better.

"Boys are learning to punt better—and punting is the hardest part of the game in which to acquire real skill. This boy at Illinois, Ralph Ehni, was one of the finest kickers I've seen in years."

Starting in 1897, he coached football at Ohio Wesleyan, Nebraska, Kansas, Stanford and Michigan. In 1900 he coached a high school team at 10 a. m., the Stanford freshmen at 2 p. m., the varsity at 4 p. m. and the San Jose Teachers' team after supper.

Royal Cross Wins Charles Town Feature

Defeats Berwyn And Clapair in Near Record Time

Call It and Man at Arm Score In Daily-Double of $87.40

Race Officials on Hand To Arrange Dates for 1940

Charles Town, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—D. N. Gilpin's Royal Cross came within one-fifth of a second of the Charles Town course record today when he stepped the distance in 1:15 1-5 to win the fifth and feature race. The Charles Town course is 120 feet further than six furlongs.

Before a crowd of 6,000, Jockey Mike Sarno kept Royal Cross atop the fast early pace set by John Bosley's Berwyn, then brought him away in the stretch to win. H. P. Leet's Clapair outgamed C. M. Feltner's Dulie and five others for the show award. Royal Cross paid $10 for $2.

P. H. Faulconer's Call It won the second race and S. E. Veitch's Man at Arm took the third to make a Daily Double combination worth $87.40 for $2.

Longest Pa. Grid Run Turned in by Gettysburg Back

AP Survey Shows Al Bender Raced 101 Yards Against Dickinson

By TED MEIER

Philadelphia, Dec. 7 (AP) — Al Bender, Gettysburg halfback, turned in the longest run made on a Pennsylvania gridiron during the 1939 season, a survey of the Associated Press showed today.

Playing against the Bullet's traditional rival, Dickinson, at Hershey on Thanksgiving Bender intercepted a Dickinson aerial in his own end zone and sped 101 yards for a touchdown.

It was three yards longer than the 98-yard sprint of Don Kreps, Washington - Jefferson end, who intercepted a pass against this same Dickinson eleven, for runnerup honors.

A year ago Steve Smoke, of Lehigh, and Jimmy Powers, of Temple, shared first place honors with runs of 102 yards. Smoke picked up a Penn State fumble while Powers returned a Florida kickoff.

Sophomore Jim Breen, of Albright College, turned in the longest run from scrimmage, getting loose for ninety-one yards, also against Dickinson. Ed Schillo, of Lebanon Valley, returned the kickoff the farthest, ninety yards against Albright, while Al Juralewicz and Andy Tomasic, of Temple, worked the longest forward pass and run.

Against Villanova, Juralewicz heaved a thirty-yard aerial to Tocasic who scampered an additional sixty yards to complete a ninety-yard gain for Temple's only touchdown against their traditional rival.

The season's long runs included:

101—Al Bender, Gettysvburg, intercepted pass and ran for touchdown against Dickinson, Nov. 23.

Robins	9	12	.429
Flickers	6	15	.287

The Woodpeckers increased their lead in the LaVale Mixed League race by winning twice from the last-place Flickers while their closest rvials—the Catbirds—dropped all three games to the Robins. The Robins, by virtue of their triple win, moved into a fourth-place tie with the Canaries who dropped a pair to the Eagles. The matches were rolled on the SS. Peter & Paul drives.

"Hurry Up" Yost Steps Down Today From Big Ten Pos

Grand Old Man Auto matically Moves Out of Helm of Conference

By EARL HILLIGAN

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—Michigan's grand old man of football, Fielding H. Yost, will "call signals" for the western conference tomorrow—for the last time.

The Wolverine athletic director will preside as chairman at the annual Big Ten winter meeting, the chairmanship being an honor which rotates among the conference directors and which "Hurry Up" last held a decade ago.

He does not plan to retire until he is 70—April 30, 1941—but when he does he will be able to look back on a glory-filled coaching career, studded with great teams such as his "point a minute" eleven and with all-time All-America stars such as Willie Heston and "Germany" Schulz. But Yost right now is looking ahead—not backward.

"This season I saw the best football played in the Big Ten in many years," he said enthusiastically. "Blocking and tackling were sharper. Long passing plays worked better.

"Boys are learning to punt better—and punting is the hardest part of the game in which to acquire real skill. This boy at Illinois, Ralph Ehni, was one of the finest kickers I've seen in years."

Starting in 1897, he coached football at Ohio Wesleyan, Nebraska, Kansas, Stanford and Michigan. In 1900 he coached a high school team at 10 a. m., the Stanford freshmen at 2 p. m., the varsity at 4 p. m. and the San Jose Teachers team after supper.

surviving sailors were unable whether their ship had struck a mine or been torpedoed.

(The air ministry reported yesterday the interception of German warplanes over the Thames, and said it was presumed they were attempting to lay mines in the waters approaching London's port. The ministry said the planes were driven off, and one forced down by bad weather.)

Tolstoi, Electrician

Paris (AP) — Count Ivan Tolstoi, grandson of the late Leon Tolstoi, the Russian author, has applied for entry in the French navy as an electrical expert.

Machines Are Not Replacing Many Men in Mines

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP) — Many believe machines are slowly replacing man-power in the coal pits, but State Mines Department officials said today that "up to now we haven't been able to prove it conclusively."

Chief N. P. Rhinehart declared there is "reason to believe mechanization has affected employment unfavorably to a mild degree in West Virginia."

"There are many factors which must be considered," he added, noting that employment figures are being revised downward in heavily mechanized counties.

"Business and market conditions are involved wherever trends are concerned. It also is true that mechanization reflects strong influences on employment at certain points, while the reverse may be true elsewhere."

He quoted these figures:

Monongalia county, mechanical production 87.5 per cent; average of 4,333 miners employed in 1937, 3,874 in 1938 and 3,330 the first nine months of 1939.

Logan county, mechanical production 42.2 per cent; employed average of 12,713 men in 1937; 11,147 in 1938 and 10,783 the first nine months of 1939.

H. G. Houtz, commenting on the figures, said the production levels were almost at a peak in the beginning of 1937, whereas the production boom did not start this year before September.

In 1934, the mechanical production was only one and one-quarter per cent of the state's total output. Today, 27.90 per cent is loaded by machines.

Paris Becomes Itself, Again

Paris (AP) — After being cut off since mobilizing day, Parisians may now telephone to the bar on the corner to order a bottle of wine or to the restaurant downstairs for a couple of sandwiches.

The minister of posts, telegraph and telephones has ordered the re-establishment of public telephone service in cafes, restaurants and bars cut off since the first day of mobilization. Long distance calls from public phones, however, are still refused.

Safety First--an Armoured Purse

Paris (AP)—In these days of gas macks and bomb shelters a French firm suggests its clients stake their chances on "armoured pocket wallets" to deflect bullets.

The ad reads:

"During the last war miraculous escapes from death occurred by bullets and splinters being deflected and stopped by medals, watches, etc.

"There is on sale at present an armoured pocket wallet which, when worn on the left side, assures the protection of a region where wounds often prove fatal.

"Practical in form and reasonable in weight the specially-prepared steel armour in no way impedes its utilization."

Justice Butler a Good Model for Every Poor Boy

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The late Justice Pierce Butler, who died a couple of weeks ago, stands as a model to every American boy determined to succeed against all odds. He was the real Horatio Alger type who takes the handicaps in his strides, not knowing the meaning of the word failure.

He once said there should be no legislation which would hamper any poor boy who was making his way to the top. So whether you disagreed with some of his Supreme Court decisions as being too conservative, back of them was his respect for the rugged individualist, the boy who makes his way.

His social and economic philosophy did not prevent recognition of his sincerity and his indomitable character. Pierce Butler was actually born in a log cabin, and was one of the few leaders, still active in American life, able to boast of that distinction.

Started by Lincoln

Abraham Lincoln started the log-cabin tradition among statesmen. To have been born in one of these frontier rough-and-ready shelters has been reckoned about one-fourth the battle for a presidential candidate.

Not so long ago a very astute politician with considerable inherited wealth hoped to become president of these United States. He started his campaign by assembling a log cabin in the backwoods, and handed it out with accompanying pictures as his birthplace. But along came a couple of those prying newspaper men who discovered that the canny politician was actually born in the residential district of a thriving city, in a corner house erupting all over with cupolas, balconies, porches and other gadgets representing the prosperity of that era. It actually boasted a bathtub when bathtubs were rare indeed.

There's no saying if the horrid truth concerning the log cabin was the cause of the gentleman's defeat. But he didn't make the White House and everyone had a good laugh over the pictures of his fake and actual birthplace.

Wage Hindrance

So many young men write to this column that they have absolutely no chance in life, that the fates have turned thumbs down on them from the beginning. They want better jobs, they want to earn more money and they'd like to marry the one and only girl, if they could only make a home for her. But what can be done on wages that barely keep body and soul together?

I would advise such discouraged young men to study the story of Pierce Butler. It's mighty encouraging to any boy with the ambition to secure an education and forge ahead. After doing the chores on his father's farm, he entered Carlton College, Minnesota, at fifteen years of age, and he rustled the milk cans for a local dairy to pay his college expenses.

And of course he married the one and only girl, Annie Cronin of St. Paul. They had eight children. Justice Butler realized that the greatest insurance for happiness is in the home. The glamour of Washington never side-tracked him. One felt that the Butler home was a haven, an anchorage in a cockeyed world.

So the Minnesota farm boy, after attaining the nation's highest judicial post, enjoyed a little venture of slipping back to the soil and renewing his farm contacts. He bought a 538-acre farm in Maryland, forty miles from Washington, and specialized in raising pure-bred Hereford cattle. Doubtless, it recalled those old days when he got up along before light, rode horseback to the nearest town to get his grade school education, and did his farm chores before and after going to school.

Roosevelt Seeks Way To Aid Finns On a Large Scale

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP) — The administration marshalled economic forces today for indirect support of Finland in her fight against Russian invasion, while President Roosevelt expressed a hope that the Baltic nation would be able to preserve her "free political and social institutions."

The president conferred with Jesse Jones, head of the federal loan administration, and Norman Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, on a program for aiding the beleaguered nation.

Mr. Roosevelt also took the occasion of Finland's 21st independence day anniversary to address a telegram to President Kallio of Finland, saying:

"This anniversary on which the Finnish people recall with pride the achievement of their independence gives me yet another welcome occasion to voice the wholehearted esteem felt for them and for their government by the people and government of the United States.

"It is my earnest hope that these tragic days may not be long in giving way to a happier era to permit the Finnish people to continue, untroubled, the steady development of their free political and social institutions which have aroused the admiration of the American people."

With Jones, Mr. Roosevelt sought to determine what might be done for the Finnish people through the government's lending agencies. Jones said later there might be a move to send the Finns things to eat and wear, such as cotton, corn and wheat, surplus products in the United States

Davis and the president discussed relief for Finland. Davis told reporters the American Red Cross had telegraphed $10,000 to the British Red Cross for medical supplies to be flown from Britain to Finland. In addition, $15,000 has been set aside for further supplies which will be sent from here. Moreover, the Red Cross chapters throughout the United States will collect funds for relief distribution in Finland.

Another development was an assertion by Rep. Hook (D-Mich) that he would draft legislation to turn over to Finland the payments she has made on her war-debt. President Roosevelt said yesterday he had instructed Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to hold the Dec. 15 payment of $234,693 in a special account until he could get congress' permission to return it to Finland. Hook said he believed Congress could implement a further suggestion by the president that payments in the last five years, totalling approximately $2,000,000, be turned back to the Nordic republic.

Officials interpreted the president's message to President Kallio as an unveiled hope that Finland would emerge successfully from her war with Russia.

The president customarily addresses messages of felicitation to some heads of states on national anniversaries, but officials acknowledged his message to President Kallio went far beyond the usual message.

Fayetteville Has No Cops, Mayor Expects No Trouble

Fayetteville, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—Things are going pretty well here, regardless of the lack of a city policeman.

When Chief of Police Carl Ballard, the only policeman, resigned, the council met and decided the town can't name a successor because it can't go further into debt.

But it doesn't worry T. A. Myles, the forty-eight-year-old mayor.

"I don't anticipate any trouble," said Myles.

One reason is there are "seven or eight" deputy sheriffs stationed in the town and a detachment of State Police.

Roosevelt Seeks Way To Aid Finns On a Large Scale

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP) — The administration marshalled economic forces today for indirect support of Finland in her fight against Russian invasion, while President Roosevelt expressed a hope that the Baltic nation would be able to preserve her "free political and social institutions."

The president conferred with Jesse Jones, head of the federal loan administration, and Norman Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, on a program for aiding the beleaguered nation.

Mr. Roosevelt also took the occasion of Finland's 21st independence day anniversary to address a telegram to President Kallio of Finland, saying:

"This anniversary on which the Finnish people recall with pride the achievement of their independence gives me yet another welcome occasion to voice the wholehearted esteem felt for them and for their government by the people and government of the United States.

"It is my earnest hope that these tragic days may not be long in giving way to a happier era to permit the Finnish people to continue, untroubled, the steady development of their free political and social institutions which have aroused the admiration of the American people."

With Jones, Mr. Roosevelt sought to determine what might be done for the Finnish people through the government's lending agencies. Jones said later there might be a move to send the Finns things to eat and wear, such as cotton, corn and wheat, surplus products in the United States

Davis and the president discussed relief for Finland. Davis told reporters the American Red Cross had telegraphed $10,000 to the British Red Cross for medical supplies to be flown from Britain to Finland. In addition, $15,000 has been set aside for further supplies which will be sent from here. Moreover, the Red Cross chapters throughout the United States will collect funds for relief distribution in Finland.

Another development was an assertion by Rep. Hook (D-Mich) that he would draft legislation to turn over to Finland the payments she has made on her war-debt. President Roosevelt said yesterday he had instructed Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to hold the Dec. 15 payment of $234,693 in a special account until he could get congress' permission to return it to Finland. Hook said he believed Congress could implement a further suggestion by the president that payments in the last five years, totalling approximately $2,000,000, be turned back to the Nordic republic.

Officials interpreted the president's message to President Kallio as an unveiled hope that Finland would emerge successfully from her war with Russia.

The president customarily addresses messages of felicitation to some heads of states on national anniversaries, but officials acknowledged his message to Bresident Kallio went far beyond the usual message.

B. C. Frankland Dies At Westernport Home

Westernport, Md., Dec. 7—Benjamin C. Frankland, husband of Marie Frankland died early this morning at his home, 403 Vine street, following an illness of five months. He was 64 last Saturday.

A son of the late Henry and Mary J. (Morrison) Frankland he spent his entire life in this community where he was born. He was employed for twenty-seven years with the Western Maryland Railway company as a rigger master and repair work and twelve years of repair work with the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad Company being retired in 1937.

He was a member of Lafayette Lodge No. 3 Knights of Pythias, Piedmont Council No. 19 Junior Order United American Mechanics and the Assembly of God church.

Besides his wife he is survived by three brothers, Thomas Frankland, Everson, Pa.; Charles Frankland, Baltimore, Md. and Lee Frankland of this place.

Fayetteville Has No Cops, Mayor Expects No Trouble

Fayetteville, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—Things are going pretty well here, regardless of the lack of a city policeman.

Leon Trotsky May Be Questioned by Dies Committee

Diego Rivera also Likely To Be Quizzed by Probers

Orange, Tex., Dec. 7 (AP)—Exiled Leon Trosky and Diego Rivera, leftist Mexican muralist, may come to Texas in a few days to testify on Communist inroads in Latin-America, Chairman Martin Dies (D-Tex) of the House unAmericanism committee disclosed here.

If permission can be obtained from the state department for Trotsky to enter the United States, a committee hearing will be held before Jan. 3, probably on the Mexican border.

Dies' Secretary Robert E. Stripling said the hearing would be aimed at authenticating documents obtained by committee investigators who have conferred with the exiled Russian and Rivera. One document purportedly discloses Soviet instructions to its agents in Mexico aimed at giving all belligerent nations access to Mexico's oil resources.

The purpose of this policy, Stripling suggested, would be to insure the ultimate destruction of western nations through warfare, after which the Stalin government could extend its power. Trotsky and Stalin have been bitter foes for years. The present Soviet dictator exiled his enemy after the death of Lenin.

"We have come into possession of information strongly indicating evidence of Soviet activity in Mexico and other Latin-American countries," Stripling added.

"The committee has no intention of becoming a sounding-board for Trotsky and his theories, but we know he has access to accurate information.

"The Communists, our information indicates, are making a concerted effort in Mexico and their plans to spread from there to other countries seems to constitute a threat to our peace and security."

Rivera, portly Mexican whose murals have been received with acclaim and controversy, formerly was on intimate terms with Trotsky. Recent reports have told of a break between them. In Mexico City today, both said they had not received invitations to testify before the Dies Committee.

A Little Thick

Carlsbad, N. M. (AP)—O. C. Sharp didn't mind the theft of his tools. What he objected to was this: "It was in the middle of the night. My car was parked about fifteen feet from the house. ' Prowlers broke into it and took the tools and then, adding insult to injury, they honked the horn and woke me up."

Swiss Check Up On Tourist Situation

Berne (AP) — Swiss officials are checking up on the number of Swiss tourists to foreign countries with an eye to squeezing out more tourist business for Switzerland itself during the lean war years.

They're particularly interested in the number of Swiss who visit Italy, for while Italy has considerable income from Swiss tourists and holiday makers, Italian regulations make it difficult for Italians to spend their holidays and vacations in Switzerland.

Switzerland and Italy are both tourist countries in peacetime, but now that tourists from other countries are few due to the war, the Swiss would like to get at least as much tourist revenue from Italy as they send to Italy.

Gliding Along

The Wages of Death --Beforehand

Norman, Okla. (AP)—Folks hard pressed for cash frequently write to the University of Oklahoma and offer to sell their bodies to the medical school, but they never get a reply.

Dr. Charles F. LeGarts, professor of anatomy, says he is "amazed by the number of these offers that come through the mails."

Often, he says, there are special delivery letters that suggest the university send $100 or so "immediately," and the remainder of the purchase price later.

The letted writers say the university shall have their bodies for dissection after death.

Leon Trotsky May Be Questioned by Dies Committee

Diego Rivera also Likely To Be Quizzed by Probers

Orange, Tex., Dec. 7 (AP)—Exiled Leon Trosky and Diego Rivera, leftist Mexican muralist, may come to Texas in a few days to testify on Communist inroads in Latin-America, Chairman Martin Dies (D-Tex) of the House unAmericanism committee disclosed here.

If permission can be obtained from the state department for Trotsky to enter the United States, a committee hearing will be held before Jan. 3, probably on the Mexican border.

Dies' Secretary Robert E. Stripling said the hearing would be aimed at authenticating documents obtained by committee investigators who have conferred with the exiled Russian and Rivera. One document purportedly discloses Soviet instructions to its agents in Mexico aimed at giving all belligerent nations access to Mexico's oil resources.

The purpose of this policy, Stripling suggested, would be to insure the ultimate destruction of western nations through warfare, after which the Stalin government could extend its power. Trotsky and Stalin have been bitter foes for years. The present Soviet dictator exiled his enemy after the death of Lenin.

"We have come into possession of information strongly indicating evidence of Soviet activity in Mexico and other Latin-American countries," Stripling added.

"The committee has no intention of becoming a sounding-board for Trotsky and his theories, but we know he has access to accurate information.

"The Communists, our information indicates, are making a concerted effort in Mexico and their plans to spread from there to other countries seems to constitute a threat to our peace and security."

Rivera, portly Mexican whose murals have been received with acclaim and controversy, formerly was on intimate terms with Trotsky. Recent reports have told of a break between them. In Mexico City today, both said they had not received invitations to testify before the Dies Committee.

A Little Thick

Carlsbad, N. M. (AP)—O. C. Sharp didn't mind the theft of his tools. What he objected to was this: "It was in the middle of the night. My car was parked about fifteen feet from the house. Prowlers broke into it and took the tools and then, adding insult to injury, they honked the horn and woke me up."

Housedress with Novel Yoke

Marian Martin
PATTERN 9248

Daily tasks seem lighter in a house frock that's full of novelty and gay spirits! Marian Martin's Pattern 9248 abounds in newsy, becoming details. A neatly patterned, bright cotton fabric would be perfect. You'll like the shape of the button-trimmed yoke—a shape repeated effectively in the pockets. You might make both yoke and pockets in lively contrast. Darts give a smooth fit to the front waistline and softly blouse the bodice. Isn't that squared neck youthful? As for the sleeves, make them straight or with smart notches. And use ric-rac here, there and everywhere!

Pattern 9248 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards 35 inch fabric and 2 yards ric-rac.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Fashion is at your finger-tips . . . with a Marian Martin winter pattern book in your hands! For your ten nimble fingers plus page after page of her easy patterns add up to sure style success. This book offers a fine selection of suits, dresses and coats, whether you're a career woman, socialite, housewife or co-ed. There are tailoreds, day and evening frocks, cheery home styles, youngster togs and gift ideas for everyone. Book fifteen cents. Pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Send your order to Cumberland News, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Swiss Check Up On Tourist Situation

Berne (AP) — Swiss officials are checking up on the number of Swiss tourists to foreign countries with an eye to squeezing out more tourist business for Switzerland itself during the lean war years.

They're particularly interested in the number of Swiss who visit Italy, for while Italy has considerable income from Swiss tourists and holiday makers, Italian regulations make it difficult for Italians to spend their holidays and vacations in Switzerland.

Switzerland and Italy are both tourist countries in peacetime, but now that tourists from other countries are few due to the war, the Swiss would like to get at least as much tourist revenue from Italy as they send to Italy.

Selected Stocks Slightly Higher, But List Average Ends Unchanged

Advancing Trend at Opening Gives Way to Profit-Taking

By FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Dec. 7 (AP) — Selected stocks pushed up fractions to more than a point in today's market despite frequent selling furries.

An advancing trend at the opening soon turned into irregularity as some traders cashed in on the bulge of the previous session.

From then on it was a see-saw performance until the start of the final hour when an assortment of industrial specialties, including sugars and aircrafts, touched best levels of the day.

Despite the predominance of plus signs, the Associated Press average of sixty stocks emerged unchanged at 51.1. There were occasional slowdowns during the day, but transfers of 1,005,470 shares were the largest in nearly a month, and compared with 990,620 yesterday.

Business news was still on the cheerful side and those who have been fearing a recession in the first part of 1940 found some comfort in the statement of Chairman Weir of National Steel that there were no indications hard metal inventories were approaching dangerous heights.

Up fractions to more than a point in the curb were Fisk rubber, Lockheed, American Cyanamid "B" and E. L. Bruce. Nehi Corp., jumped 3½ on a few sales. Turnover of 187,000 shares compared with 188,000 Wednesday.

Muni Doffs Make-Up, Beards, for Hilton Story

A "home-grown" mustache and the customary grease paint comprise Paul Muni's sole makeup for his characterization of the Little Doctor of Warner Bros.' film version of the James Hilton novel, "We Are Not Alone," opening tomorrow at the Liberty.

After portraying Zola, Pasteur and Juarez, Muni found the absence of character makeup both a relief and a challenge.

"I have always attempted to 'sell' characters, not my own personality," explained the star who won the Academy award for his portrayal of Louis Pasteur. "The closer I can come to making audiences forget Muni in the belief they are seeing and hearing the character I'm playing, the more successful I feel I am.

"Naturally, it is easier to accomplish that when one is wearing definite character makeup. That's why the role of the doctor in "We Are Not Alone" offers a severe test and challenge. I'll be pretty much the Muni of real life in appearance, but I certainly don't wont to be Muni in the role. I want to be the small town doctor James Hilton created in his novel."

Muni hasn't always worn makeup for the characterizations that have lifted him into a class by himself as a screen actor. In "I'm A Fugitive from a Chain Gang," one of his most successful pictures, he appeared "au naturel," and he has done other outstanding characterizations without so much as the benefit of the rather wide, close cropped mustache he'll wear in "We Are Not Alone." It appears, therefore, that he has little to fear from his new venture.

"Straight Shooter" and "Mickey the Kid"

Opening today at the Embassy Theater will be the double feature attraction consisting of the western action drama "Straight Shooter" starring Tim McCoy and a great western supporting cast. The second feature is "Mickey the Kid."

It is Ralph Byrd's opinion that seeing other actors perform and noticing how they handle each type of scene, serve as a yardstick by which he can measure and better his own acting. Originally a stage artist himself, he formerly attended many plays for this purpose, but now thinks that working before a camera requires a different technique from footlight performing.

Byrd, Tommy Ryan and Bruce Cabot have the leading roles in "Mickey the Kid," which was directed by Arthur Lubin under the supervision of associate producer Herman Schlom. June Storey, Jessie Ralph, and Zasu Pitts head the strong supporting cast.

GRADUATE

"At the Circus," Current Maryland Attraction

A mirthquake such as only those Marx Bros. can bring about opened yesterday at the Maryland Theater in "Marx Bros. at the Circus." From start to finish it proved one of the most successful comedies out of Hollywood since the last Marxian epic.

Having overrun many other fields for comedy concoctions, the Merry Marxians now run amuck beneath the Big Top of a streamlined circus to bombard their audiences with their new gags and comedy sequences. Intermingled with the Marxes and their streamlined circus are all the thrilling acts, acrobats, equestriennes, clowns and animals typical of the circus world.

They share the camera with scores of circus animals, a gorilla, a seal, an orang-utan, an Upside-Down-Girl, a midget villain, the World's Strongest Man and a symphony orchestra cast adrift on a raft. Portraying the outstanding roles are Kenny Baker, Florence Rice, Eve Arden, Margaret Dumont and Nat Pendleton.

The picture is the story of Kenny Baker, circus owner, who escapes losing his circus through the cooperation of Groucho, Harpo and Chico, which is accomplished through a chain of hilarious episodes. Beautiful musical numbers, with Harpo and Chico contributing

Producer Tells Why Westerns Stay Popular

Westerns are always popular because they are clean, according to Harry Sherman, who should know because he produces the Hopalong Cassidy series for Paramount. Mr. Sherman has recently completed shooting on a different type of western, "Heritage of the Desert," which opens today at the Garden Theatre.

According to producer Sherman, other reasons why westerns are perennial favorites are: profanity is absolutely forbidden; the hero doesn't drink and doesn't smoke; the little fellow ultimately whips the bully; and the hero never beats up someone smaller or weaker than himself. His fans would forsake him on the spot if he ever broke this code.

Take "Heritage of the Desert" for example. There isn't the slightest

Chicago Grain Prices

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—Heavy buying, renewed with increasing vigor for a time in the grain pits today, pushed wheat prices upward 2 to 3 cents a bushel to the highest level since autumn, 1937, before profit takers rushed to sell.

Corn closed ⅝ lower to ½ higher, December 54⅝, May 55¾-⅞; oats unchanged to ¼ higher; soy beans ¼-1 cent up; rye ⅝-1⅛ higher and lard 7-15 higher.

Muni Doffs Make-Up, Beards, for Hilton Story

A "home-grown" mustache and the customary grease paint comprise Paul Muni's sole makeup for his characterization of the Little Doctor of Warner Bros.' film version of the James Hilton novel, "We Are Not Alone," opening tomorrow at the Liberty.

After portraying Zola, Pasteur and Juarez, Muni found the absence of character makeup both a relief and a challenge.

"I have always attempted to 'sell' characters, not my own personality," explained the star who won the Academy award for his portrayal of Louis Pasteur. "The closer I can come to making audiences forget Muni in the belief they are seeing and hearing the character I'm playing, the more successful I feel I am.

"Naturally, it is easier to accomplish that when one is wearing definite character makeup. That's why the role of the doctor in "We Are Not Alone" offers a severe test and challenge. I'll be pretty much the Muni of real life in appearance, but I certainly don't wont to be Muni in the role. I want to be the small town doctor James Hilton created in his novel."

Muni hasn't always worn makeup for the characterizations that have lifted him into a class by himself as a screen actor. In "I'm A Fugitive from a Chain Gang," one of his most successful pictures, he appeared "au naturel," and he has done other outstanding characterizations without so much as the benefit of the rather wide, close cropped mustache he'll wear in "We Are Not Alone." It appears, therefore, that he has little to fear from his new venture.

"Straight Shooter" and "Mickey the Kid"

Opening today at the Embassy Theater will be the double feature attraction consisting of the western action drama "Straight Shooter" starring Tim McCoy and a great western supporting cast. The second feature is "Mickey the Kid."

It is Ralph Byrd's opinion that seeing other actors perform and noticing how they handle each type of scene, serve as a yardstick by which he can measure and better his own acting. Originally a stage artist himself, he formerly attended many plays for this purpose, but now thinks that working before a camera requires a different technique from footlight performing.

Byrd, Tommy Ryan and Bruce Cabot have the leading roles in "Mickey the Kid," which was directed by Arthur Lubin under the supervision of associate producer Herman Schlom. June Storey, Jessie Ralph, and Zasu Pitts head the strong supporting cast.

GRADUATE

"At the Circus," Current Maryland Attraction

A mirthquake such as only those Marx Bros. can bring about opened yesterday at the Maryland Theater in "Marx Bros. at the Circus." From start to finish it proved one of the most successful comedies out of Hollywood since the last Marxian epic.

Having overrun many other fields for comedy concoctions, the Merry Marxians now run amuck beneath the Big Top of a streamlined circus to bombard their audiences with their new gags and comedy sequences. Interminglied with the Marxes and their streamlined circus are all the thrilling acts, acrobats, equestriennes, clowns and animals typical of the circus world.

They share the camera with scores of circus animals, a gorilla, a seal, an orang-utan, an Upside-Down-Girl, a midget villain, the World's Strongest Man and a symphony orchestra cast adrift on a raft. Portraying the outstanding roles are Kenny Baker, Florence Rice, Eve Arden, Margaret Dumont and Nat Pendleton.

"DANCING CO-ED" OPENS AT MARYLAND MONDAY

Producer Tells Why Westerns Stay Popular

Westerns are always popular because they are clean, according to Harry Sherman, who should know because he produces the Hopalong Cassidy series for Paramount. Mr. Sherman has recently completed shooting on a different type of western, "Heritage of the Desert," which opens today at the Garden Theatre.

According to producer Sherman, other reasons why westerns are perennial favorites are: profanity is absolutely forbidden; the hero doesn't drink and doesn't smoke; the little fellow ultimately whips the bully; and the hero never beats up someone smaller or weaker than himself. His fans would forsake him on the spot if he ever broke this code.

Take "Heritage of the Desert" for example. There isn't the slightest

Good Teacher Is Close to the Family Circle

Home Is First Important Consideration of Instructor

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Often in this column we have considered ways whereby we parents might co-operate with the school and contribute to our child's successes there. Today we shall observe the teacher's opportunity to do most for her pupils by taking into account their family relationships and family lives.

Regardless of the pupil's family background, the first important consideration of the teacher is the home where lie the sources of the child's emotional life and learning interests.

No teacher can approach her best efficiency if she overlooks the pupil's family ties, and if she does not prove to him that she has a very genuine human interest in them. That teacher is loved most, and for her the pupils work hardest and learn best, who makes them feel she cares about those things which means most to them. Everything she says and does proves to her learners that she considers each of them a sacred personality, that she wants to know about the joys and sorrows of each one, and that she is always ready to listen to their most intimate accounts.

Confidences Desired

If his baby brother is ill, if his father has lost his job, if his grandmother lies at the point of death, the teacher is the one the pupil wants to tell about it, provided she is a great teacher. She will also be among the first to know if his father has enjoyed a promotion, if the family has acquired a new car or girl twins.

Perhaps the average teacher who does really care gives the impression that she doesn't. She has so many things to do. She feels the press of times and betrays a fear that she will not complete all she is supposed to do. She may be distracted by the modern mania for speed in the school system.

But the skilful, sympathetic teacher manages to organize her work so as not to neglect its human side. She doesn't penalize those pupils who arrive early in the morning for the opportunity to talk to her, by assigning them some extra work to keep them quiet. She takes time to talk to them, knowing it is a rare opportunity for her to do so. She finds time for things of more importance than spelling, history and algebra.

Future Training

Teacher training in the future will consider ways and means of welcoming and meeting parents, and in cultivating in them wholesome interests and attitudes toward the school.

The best teacher reads books on home and family relationships, child care, training and guidance. She is an active member of the P. T. A. She attends its meetings, goes to get as well as to give and to learn about her pupils' homes and loved ones. She doesn't merely teach readin', writin' and 'rithmetic. She teaches children, children who are human beings, with individual personalities.

Teachers or parents who wish to receive a selected list of books on understanding and guiding children of various ages should write me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it, and let me send such a list.

Make Way for Beauty!

By HELEN FOLLETT

WITH certain skin blemishes no woman should bear because they are curable or removable. She has but to know what wise course to take to be free of these annoyances.

Moles, once regarded as beauty spots, are bothersome since irritation may cause them to develop into malignant growths; but that, of course, is the exception rather than the rule. They can be removed by means of the electric needle or the x-ray, and there are other safe treatments. If the work is done properly, no scar will result. Warts also can be removed with slight discomfort. The charges for these treatments are not excessive.

Red, thread-like marks are ruptured capillaries. They appear usually on the nose or cheeks. The electric needle can be used to blot out these blemishes.

Seed acne is caused by the closing of the pore and the banking up of sebaceous oil into a bead-like mass. This substance cannot be pressed out. The raised point must be slit with a sterilized needle; the deposit picked out with the needle point; the wound touched with alcohol. Daily friction to stimulate the blood streams is recommended to ward off a new crop of whiteheads.

If you like to play with the eyebrow crayon, watch your lines. Don't let the far ends of the hirsute lamberquins droop too far; that pattern gives the face a dragged down appearance. A slight upward tilt is preferred, although that must not be exaggerated; it will make one think of Satan's eyebrows.

If the forehead is broad, do not have the arch high; be sure to extend the ends a fair distance beyond the far corners of the eyes. That design provides a definite crossline, makes for facial improvement.

Make-up artists have plenty of tricks up their sleeves and the beauty clientele might as well take advantage of them.

They Can't Lock Themselves in

Paris (AP)—The chance of desperately knocking at the locked door of a shelter during an air raid has been removed in France by a decree forbidding proprietors from locking buildings during alarms.

The decree has been passed to enable passive defense men to circulate freely among the abris in search of fire. The law also permits them to look through rooms after the alarm has been sounded ending the raid.

The Man Has a Case

Aberdeen, Wash. (AP) — A. A. Mackie, state representative and former city councilman, is positively certain 13 is his unlucky number.

Mackie was the 13th man to file for office on Friday, October 13. He was defeated by Forrest B. Richardson. The margin of defeat was 13 votes.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Get a Small Break

Paris (AP)—Since an army travels on its stomach, no less today than in Napoleon's time, the French government has decided to give some of its soldier-farmers additional time off.

A recent cabinet decree orders leaves of from 10 days to two months for certain classes of mobilized men, during which time they are supposed to go home and care for their crops.

Good Teacher Is Close to the Family Circle

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Often in this column we have considered ways whereby we parents might co-operate with the school and contribute to our child's successes there. Today we shall observe the teacher's opportunity to do most for her pupils by taking into account their family relationships and family lives.

Regardless of the pupil's family background, the first important consideration of the teacher is the home where lie the sources of the child's emotional life and learning interests.

No teacher can approach her best efficiency if she overlooks the pupil's family ties, and if she does not prove to him that she has a very genuine human interest in them. That teacher is loved most, and for her the pupils work hardest and learn best, who makes them feel she cares about those things which means most to them. Everything she says and does proves to her learners that she considers each of them a sacred personality, that she wants to know about the joys and sorrows of each one, and that she is always ready to listen to their most intimate accounts.

Confidences Desired

If his baby brother is ill, if his father has lost his job, if his grandmother lies at the point of death, the teacher is the one the pupil wants to tell about it, provided she is a great teacher. She will also be among the first to know if his father has enjoyed a promotion, if the family has acquired a new car or girl twins.

Perhaps the average teacher who does really care gives the impression that she doesn't. She has so many things to do. She feels the press of times and betrays a fear that she will not complete all she is supposed to do. She may be distracted by the modern mania for speed in the school system.

But the skilful; sympathetic teacher manages to organize her work so as not to neglect its human side. She doesn't penalize those pupils who arrive early in the morning for the opportunity to talk to her, by assigning them some extra work to keep them quiet. She takes time to talk to them, knowing it is a rare opportunity for her to do so. She finds time for things of more importance than spelling, history and algebra.

Future Training

Teacher training in the future will consider ways and means of welcoming and meeting parents, and in cultivating in them wholesome interests and attitudes toward the school.

The best teacher reads books on home and family relationships, child care, training and guidance. She is an active member of the P. T. A. She attends its meetings, goes to get as well as to give and to learn about her pupils' homes and loved ones. She doesn't merely teach readin', writin' and 'rithmetic. She teaches children, children who are human beings, with individual personalities.

Teachers or parents who wish to receive a selected list of books on understanding and guiding children of various ages should write me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it, and let me send such a list.

Make Way for Beauty!

By HELEN FOLLETT

WITH certain skin blemishes no woman should bear because they are curable or removable. She has but to know what wise course to take to be free of these annoyances.

Moles, once regarded as beauty spots, are bothersome since irritation may cause them to develop into malignant growths; but that, of course, is the exception rather than the rule. They can be removed by means of the electric needle or the x-ray, and there are other safe treatments. If the work is done properly, no scar will result. Warts also can be removed with slight discomfort. The charges for these treatments are not excessive.

Red, thread-like marks are ruptured capillaries. They appear usually on the nose or cheeks. The electric needle can be used to blot out these blemishes.

Seed acne is caused by the closing of the pore and the banking up of sebaceous oil into a bead-like mass. This substance cannot be pressed out. The raised point must be slit with a sterilized needle; the deposit picked out with the needle point; the wound touched with alcohol. Daily friction to stimulate the blood streams is recommended to ward off a new crop of whiteheads.

If you like to play with the eyebrow crayon, watch your lines. Don't let the far ends of the hirsute lamberquins droop too far; that pattern gives the face a dragged down appearance. A slight upward tilt is preferred, although that must not be exaggerated; it will make one think of Satan's eyebrows.

If the forehead is broad, do not have the arch high; be sure to extend the ends a fair distance beyond the far corners of the eyes. That design provides a definite crossline, makes for facial improvement.

Make-up artists have plenty of tricks up their sleeves and the beauty clientele might as well take advantage of them.

HAVE YOU any beauty problems? Let the Beauty Box Editor help you solve them. Address all inquiries regarding beauty to the Editor of the Beauty Box, care of this newspaper. Be sure to enclose an addressed, stamped (three cents) envelope for reply.

They Can't Lock Themselves in

Paris (AP)—The chance of desperately knocking at the locked door of a shelter during an air raid has been removed in France by a decree forbidding proprietors from locking buildings during alarms.

The decree has been passed to enable passive defense men to circulate freely among the abris in search of fire. The law also permits them to look through rooms after the alarm has been sounded ending the raid.

The Man Has a Case

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Get a Small Break

Paris (AP)—Since an army travels on its stomach, no less today than in Napoleon's time, the French government has decided to give some of its soldier-farmers additional time off.

A recent cabinet decree orders leaves of from 10 days to two months for certain classes of mobilized men, during which time they are supposed to go home and care for their crops.

One Killed, Five Injured When Ohio River Tugboat Explodes

Pt. Pleasant Man Killed in Explosion At Huntington

After-Section of J. C. Rawn Gutted While Moored at Wharf

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—A boiler on the Steamer J. C. Rawn exploded at its North Huntington wharf on the Ohio river today, killing at least one man, and injuring five other persons, including a woman. Two men were missing.

The known casualty was identified as Jess Plants, fireman of Point Pleasant, W. Va.

Among the injured was Captain W. M. Wright, 54, of Huntington, who suffered leg and back burns. His condition was critical.

Robert Smith, 27, pilot of Gallipolis Ferry, Ohio, also suffered severe burns.

The others injured:

Mrs. Miriam Kirkpatrick, chambermaid, of Chesapeake, W. Va., shock.

J. E. Beaver, deckhand, of Grimms Landing, W. Va., head lacerations and severe burns.

Thomas Ash, deckhand, of Roosersburg, W. Va., lacerations and burns.

E. V. Rawn, an official of the Ohio River Dredging Company, of Huntington, operator of the Rawn, identified the missing as F. G. Gebhardt, of Huntington, and Lloyd Mayes, second engineer, of Point Pleasant.

Rescue workers, including firemen and policemen, searched the ruins tonight for other possible casualties.

Rawn said the vessel, a tugboat engaged in towing coal from Kanawha River points to Ashland Ky., and Ironton, Ohio, had tied up at the wharf early today for repairs and to have the boilers cleaned.

The firemen were getting up steam to continue the trip with six barges of coal downstream, when the blast occurred.

The blast wrecked the after-section of the boat, hurling debris for more than 200 feet.

Rawn, who valued the boat at $65,000, said a preliminary survey indicated damage of "at least $25,000."

Charles McConnell, 35, of Huntington, attributed his escape from the explosion to "nothing but luck."

McConnell, still dazed but apparently uninjured, said he had gone to the wharf this afternoon to seek a job and was sitting in the pilot house at the time of the explosion. He jumped to safety.

The 141-year old steamer, formerly operated on the Tennessee River under the name of the H. S. Chamberlain, entered the Ohio River towing business several years ago.

Inspectors from the labor department at Charleston and from the United States Marine Bureau at Pittsburgh came here tonight to conduct an investigation.

Rown said the loss was covered by insurance.

Plan Xmas Decorations

The city will take on a holiday attire Saturday when Christmas decorations will be put up across the streets and on the business places. The decorating is being sponsored by the Parsons Kiwanis club and business men. Long strands of laurel, with colored electric lights, will be placed across the various street crossings. Cash prizes will be given to the best-decorated business places and to the best-decorated home. Stores will start next week to observe late closing hours.

Postoffice Busy

Employes at the local postoffice state they can already tell a vast difference in the mail coming in and going out of this city as the holiday season approaches.

It was hoped that Parsons would have a government postoffice for this Christmas instead of the small store room on First street, but nothing further has been heard from officials at Washington, although Parsons is eligible for a government building.

Last Christmas, Parsons residents had to do much of their mailing in nearby towns because the little postoffice here was too crowded all day long to permit mail to be properly dispatched on the various trains. Stamps were bought at Hambleton and Hendricks, and much mail was also sent through those offices.

Wiring Students For Sound Helps Them Talk Better

By The AP Feature Service

Clinton, N. Y.—Hamilton College students are learning to talk better by talking back to themselves.

When a student starts the experiment he looks like a conduit for telephone cables in a big city. Attached to mouth, larynx, chest and other parts of his anatomy are tubes and wires. They seem formidable, but they're just gadgets to pick up sounds and muscle movements and transmit them, pneumatically or electrically, to

This happens in the college's new phonetics laboratory, under Wentworth D. Fling's direction. Fling also had each of this year's freshman make a recording of a 250-word passage; after six months or a year, a similar recording will follow. Listening to his own record, each student can measure his progress in pronunciation, breathing, articulation and speed.

This progress is measured for him, too, on his charts. The greater the mouth pressure or speech organ activity, the bigger the chart waves. From these waves, it is possible to show just which organs are not functioning properly if the subject stutters, stammers, gets tongue-twisted or articulates poorly.

The recording apparatus fulfills another function, too. A French instructor makes records of each day's lessons from the textbook. His records can be drawn from the college library like books. Phonographs with headphones are available, so that students can plug in, open their texts and read and hear the day's lesson simultaneously.

Fling says that, as a result, this year's French classes pronounce the language better after five weeks than last year's could after eight months.

Reliefers Benefit As U. S. Ups Grant For Children's Aid

'Slight Liberalization' in All Types of Aid in West Virginia

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP) — The Department of Public Assistance announced today an increase in the federal grant for dependent children will mean additional money for all classified aid.

On Jan. 1, the federal allocation will be boosted from one-third of the state's appropriation for children to a dollar-for-dollar basis.

J. R. Blackburn, department administrative assistant, said the new setup will mean "a slight liberalization" of grants to all types of classified assistance—old age, blind, etc.

The increased federal grant in the child group will enable the state to free a portion of its present appropriation for the other services, he said.

Blackburn reported a November decrease of 181 from the October general relief load (receiving cash grants) of 10,965.

During the month, 798 persons were dropped, with 106 of them obtaining private employment.

Of the total leaving the rolls, 201 went to the WPA and 150 were transferred to classified aid groups. Another 341 dropped off for various reasons, including increases in family revenue and death.

2nd Death in 5 Days Mars 11-Month Safety Record

Buckhannon, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—The second traffic death in five days was recorded today for Upshur county, which had no fatalities during the first eleven months of the year.

Clifford Holden, 30-year-old Tennerton miner, was fatally injured when his automobile plunged out of control over a small embankment.

State Police Corporal Troy Alkire said Holden apparently swerved his car to avoid hitting a truck and lost control.

Judge Dennis Considers Trade Practice Case

Baltimore, Dec. 7 (AP)—An injunction suit in which the defendants attacked the validity of the loss-leader and unfair trade practice sections of Maryland's Fair Trade Act was taken under consideration by Judge Samuel K. Dennis in Circuit Court today.

The case was instituted by several wholesale tobacco dealers seeking an injunction against a group of competitors who, they alleged, were selling cigarettes wholesale at a price less than the wholesale cost as established by the act.

In a demurrer, George V. Parkhurst, attorney for the defendants, contended the loss-leader legislation was unconstitutional, exceeded the police powers of the legislature, interferes with trade and commerce and created criminal penalties.

$400,000 Blaze Razes City Hall At Wellsburg

Sparks Threaten Business District; Cause of Fire Undetermined

Wellsburg, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—The three-story brick city hall was destroyed by fire today with an estimated loss of $400,000.

Sparks from the conflagration for a time threatened other portions of the business district.

Fire Chief Sam S. Nelzin, who estimated the loss, said the fire apparently started in the clock tower about 2 p. m.

Twenty minutes later, the blaze had spread to the lower floors.

Several shops in the ground floor were damaged. One radio dealer reported he lost his entire Christmas stock.

Wheeling, Steubenville, O., and nearby cities sent their fire departments to aid Wellesburg fighters.

Nelzin said the cause of the blaze was undetermined.

The city hall, built in 1893 at a cost of $225,000, stood almost in the center of the business district.

Nearby buildings were endangered by sparks from the blaze. The roof of a restaurant a block away caught fire, but was quickly extinguished.

In the ground floor of the building were a shoe store, radio shop and clothing store. All were destroyed.

Greenbrier County Survey Published

West Virginia Topographic and Geologic Surveys Completed

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP) — The completion of a topographic and geologis survey of Greenbrier county by the state geologist and publication of the results gave West Virginia today a complete series dealing with every county, a "record which no other state can boast."

State Geologist Paul Price, announcing publication of the report, said:

"Structure contours on the Sewell coal are shown, also dip and strike of rocks east of the coal area of the county. There are 254 pages on commercial coal, including much information on Southeastern Nicholas and eastern Fayette counties not previously published.

"A major producer of low-ash, low-to-medium volatile coal since 1922, the area is of vital interest to every coal operator competing for interstate markets. Over eighty coal analyses are included."

One chapter on petroleum and natural gas covers 'favorable structures" in western Greenbreir, complete with estimated depths to the various horizons.

Price noted:

"The exposed Oriskany-Helderberg rocks are quite similar to those found in deep wells in Kanawha county (a major gas field) and their description is of interest to all contemplating deep drilling."

Other chapters deal with the limestone, iron ore and manganese ore deposits.

One Killed, Five Injured When Ohio River Tugboat Explodes

Pt. Pleasant Man Killed in Explosion At Huntington

After-Section of J. C. Rawn Gutted While Moored at Wharf

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—A boiler on the Steamer J. C. Rawn exploded at its North Huntington wharf on the Ohio river today, killing at least one man, and injuring five other persons, including a woman. Two men were missing.

The known casualty was identified as Jess Plants, fireman of Point Pleasant, W. Va.

Among the injured was Captain W. M. Wright, 54, of Huntington, who suffered leg and back burns. His condition was critical.

Robert Smith, 27, pilot of Gallipolis Ferry, Ohio, also suffered severe burns.

The others injured:

Mrs. Miriam Kirkpatrick, chambermaid, of Chesapeake, W. Va., shock.

J. E. Beaver, deckhand, of Grimms Landing, W. Va., head lacerations and severe burns.

Thomas Ash, deckhand, of Robersburg, W. Va., lacerations and burns.

E. V. Rawn, an official of the Ohio River Dredging Company, of Huntington, operator of the Rawn, identified the missing as F. G. Gebhardt, of Huntington, and Lloyd Mayes, second engineer, of Point Pleasant.

Rescue workers, including firemen and policemen, searched the ruins tonight for other possible casualties.

Rawn said the vessel, a tugboat engaged in towing coal from Kanawha River points to Ashland Ky., and Ironton, Ohio, had tied up at the wharf early today for repairs and to have the boilers cleaned.

The firemen were getting up steam to continue the trip with six barges of coal downstream, when the blast occurred.

The blast wrecked the after-section of the boat, hurling debris for more than 200 feet.

Rawn, who valued the boat at $65,000, said a preliminary survey indicated damage of "at least $25,000."

Charles McConnell, 35, of Huntington, attributed his escape from the explosion to "nothing but luck."

McConnell, still dazed but apparently uninjured, said he had gone to the wharf this afternoon to seek a job and was sitting in the pilot house at the time of the explosion. He jumped to safety.

The 141-year old steamer, formerly operated on the Tennessee River under the name of the H. S. Chamberlain, entered the Ohio River towing business several years ago.

Inspectors from the labor department at Charleston and from the United States Marine Bureau at Pittsburgh came here tonight to conduct an investigation.

Rown said the loss was covered by insurance.

Wiring Students For Sound Helps Them Talk Better

By The AP Feature Service

Clinton, N. Y.—Hamilton College students are learning to talk better by talking back to themselves.

When a student starts the experiment he looks like a conduit for telephone cables in a big city. Attached to mouth, larynx, chest and other parts of his anatomy are tubes and wires. They seem formidable, but they're just gadgets to pick up sounds and muscle movements and transmit them, pneumatically or electrically, to

This happens in the college's new phonetics laboratory, under Wentworth D. Fling's direction. Fling also had each of this year's freshman make a recording of a 250-word passage; after six months or a year, a similar recording will follow. Listening to his own record, each student can measure his progress in pronunciation, breathing, articulation and speed.

This progress is measured for him, too, on his charts. The greater the mouth pressure or speech organ activity, the bigger the chart waves. From these waves, it is possible to show just which organs are not functioning properly if the subject stutters, stammers, gets tongue-twisted or articulates poorly.

The recording apparatus fulfills another function, too. A French instructor makes records of each day's lessons from the textbook. His records can be drawn from the college library like books. Phonographs with headphones are available, so that students can plug in, open their texts and read and hear the day's lesson simultaneously.

Fling says that, as a result, this year's French classes pronounce the language better after five weeks than last year's could after eight months.

Reliefers Benefit As U. S. Ups Grant For Children's Aid

'Slight Liberalization' in All Types of Aid in West Virginia

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP) — The Department of Public Assistance announced today an increase in the federal grant for dependent children will mean additional money for all classified aid.

On Jan. 1, the federal allocation will be boosted from one-third of the state's appropriation for children to a dollar-for-dollar basis.

J. R. Blackburn, department administrative assistant, said the new setup will mean "a slight liberalization" of grants to all types of classified assistance—old age, blind, etc.

The increased federal grant in the child group will enable the state to free a portion of its present appropriation for the other services, he said.

Blackburn reported a November decrease of 181 from the October general relief load (receiving cash grants) of 10,965.

During the month, 798 persons were dropped, with 106 of them obtaining private employment.

Of the total leaving the rolls, 201 went to the WPA and 150 were transferred to classified aid groups. Another 341 dropped off for various reasons, including increases in family revenue and death.

$400,000 Blaze Razes City Hall At Wellsburg

Sparks Threaten Business District; Cause of Fire Undetermined

Wellsburg, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—The three-story brick city hall was destroyed by fire today with an estimated loss of $400,000.

Sparks from the conflagration for a time threatened other portions of the business district.

Fire Chief Sam S. Nelzin, who estimated the loss, said the fire apparently started in the clock tower about 2 p. m.

Twenty minutes later, the blaze had spread to the lower floors.

Wheeling, Steubenville, O., and nearby cities sent their fire departments to aid Wellesburg fighters.

Nelzin said the cause of the blaze was undetermined.

The city hall, built in 1893 at a cost of $225,000, stood almost in the center of the business district.

Nearby buildings were endangered by sparks from the blaze. The roof of a restaurant a block away caught fire, but was quickly extinguished.

In the ground floor of the building were a shoe store, radio shop and clothing store. All were destroyed.

Greenbrier County Survey Published

West Virginia Topographic and Geologic Surveys Completed

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP) — The completion of a topographic and geologis survey of Greenbrier county by the state geologist and publication of the results gave West Virginia today a complete series dealing with every county, a "record which no other state can boast."

State Geologist Paul Price, announcing publication of the report, said:

"Structure contours on the Sewell coal are shown, also dip and strike of rocks east of the coal area of the county. There are 254 pages on commercial coal, including much information on Southeastern Nicholas and eastern Fayette counties not previously published.

"A major producer of low-ash, low-to-medium volatile coal since 1922, the area is of vital interest to every coal operator competing for interstate markets. Over eighty coal analyses are included."

Price noted:

"The exposed Oriskany-Helderberg rocks are quite similar to those found in deep wells in Kanawha county (a major gas field) and their description is of interest to all contemplating deep drilling."

Other chapters deal with the limestone, iron ore and manganese ore deposits.

G. E. Deatherage Plaintiff in Suit

Breach of Contract Charged by Ex-Leader of Camellian Knights

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—George E. Deatherage of St. Albans, engineer - contractor and former commander of the Knights of the White Camellia, brought suit against the American Rolling Mill Company today in Federal court, charging breach of contract.

Deatherage said in the bill of complaint the company proposed in 1932 that he submit his ideas on the manufacture and use of light-weight corrugated steel sheet metal piling and that if they were accepted for production, he was to receive reasonable compensation.

The company returned his plans and drawings in April, 1932, the St. Albans man claimed, saying they could not be used, but that it recently learned the firm has patented his ideas at Washington and was manufacturing the piling. He asked for an accounting based on the company's profit from the product.

Court Order Permits George To Wed Eileen

Riverhead, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—Socialite George Lowther, 3rd, fortified by a letter he said his lady fair had smuggled to him to profess her undying love, obtained a new court order tonight granting beauteous Eileen Herrick her opportunity to marry him.

Nassau County Judge L. Barron Hill gave the 21-year-old "Juliet," also a social registerite, freedom to leave her parents' home where, Lowther contended, the Herricks continued to keep her imprisoned in an effort to nip the full-blossomed romance.

"Eileen Herrick is free to leave the home of her parents, but as long as she lives with her parents and is supported by them, she is under their control."

This opinion will produce results, opined Lowther's attorney, Eli Johnson. He said the couple would meet at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow and probably would be married within a few days, over the objections of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Herrick, the parents.

High Winds Blow Steamer Aground

At the mercy of a forty-mile gale since early morning after a tow line broke, the 538-foot decommissioned vessel had been blown shoreward from her anchorage three miles out in Lake Michigan.

An eight-inche hawser snapped while the tugs Montana and Wisconsin were towing the Sensibar from South Chicago to Grand Haven, and Sailors feared to attempt putting another line to her because of the gale.

Coast guards said they believed the crew was in no immediate danger.

Lou Gehrig Noted Place Among Famous

Cincinnati, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Baseball Writers' Association of America moved tonight to place Lou Gehrig in the sport's Hall of Fame immediately "to commemorate the year in which he achieved his record."

By a unanimous vote at the annual winter meeting, the writers agreed to suspend the rules and present Gehrig to the Hall of Fame committee as the association's nominee without an election.

After running his string of consecutive games with the New York Yankees to 2,130, Gehrig retired from baseball because of illness.

Family Argument Over Buried Gold To End in Court

Los Angeles, Dec. 7. (AP)—A family argument over division of $6,040 in gold which lay buried twenty-three years probably will go into a civil court.

Edwin Myers, a deputy district attorney, advised sixty-three-year-old Mrs. Frances Glass and her two widowed daughters-in-law today to take such action after attempting to arbitrate their dispute.

Mrs. Glass, who walks with the aid of a cane, told Myers she was forced to reveal the hiding place of the treasure by the daughters-in-law and other relatives Sunday. The money, she said, was buried by her late husband.

"He said for me to keep it for my old age," Mrs. Glass declared. "I kept the secret of the hiding place all these years, although the family knew the money had been buried."

Early Sunday morning, she charged, she was awakened by Mrs. Rachel Glass, 26, and Mrs. Martha Glass, 36, and a group of their relatives and forced to reveal the hiding place underneath a cowshed.

The daughters-in-law contradicted her assertions.

"Mother agreed to split the gold with us," they declared. "She showed us where it was and we had a picnic Sunday digging it up. Once she came out and said, 'you are digging in the wrong place, and showed us where to dig."

Three Nations To Work for Peace

Olso, Norway, Dec. 7 (AP)—The foreign ministers of Denmark, Norway and Sweden decided today to make all possible efforts through the league of nations for peace negotiations between Finland and Soviet Russia.

Conferring on issues raised by Finnish-Russian conflict, the Scandinavians also discussed possible general consequences of the fighting, but they announced no decisions.

Since Denmark already has proclaimed neutrality, the ministers were not expected to advocate any joint Scandinavian action beyond conciliatory action through the league.

There were unconfirmed reports the conferees considered the advisability of appealing for general European peace but a communique issued at the end of the meeting lent no support to these reports.

However, the Scandinavian states are deeply concerned lest the conflict spread in their direction since the Russian invasion of Finland many Scandinavians have seen small hope of avoiding such a spread except through restoration of peace among Germany, Great Britain and France.

Mankind's dwelling places are variously known as asylums, bungalows, cabins, cottages, castles, apartments, flats, hotels, halls, inns, huts, igloos, hermitages, lodging houses, rooming houses, manor houses, lodges, palaces, mansions, wigwams, tepees, residences, penthouses, shanties, sheds, shacks, etc.

Light Kills Made By Duck Hunters

Baltimore, Dec. 7 (AP)—Maryland started the duck season with the greatest number of ducks in several years—and after two weeks, the situation hasn't changed much.

The state game commission said today that with few exceptions, hunters had reported light kills, even in the Susquehanna flats section, where the sky has been "black" with mallards, canvas-backs and other varieties.

Chief Deputy Game Warden Richard T. Norris said a combination of weather conditions was responsible.

"Moonlight nights have enabled the ducks to go to the feeding grounds and eat their fill without disturbance. So, in the daytime, they've flown out to the middle of the bay, safe from hunters," Norris said.

In addition, there have been "too many" bright, sunshiny days, Norris said, pointing out that the duck hunters need mist, rain and chill weather for ideal hunting conditions.

New Deal Scored for Attitude on Russia

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Walter S. Hallanan, Republican national committeeman from West Virginia, accused the administration today of "promoting and encouraging insidious boring from within by Communists in this country."

He said Soviet Russia was recognized "over the protests of Republican leaders," and added in a statement:

"While the president is wrist-slapping Russia for its shocking and unwarranted policy of ruthless conquest against its defenseless neighbors, he and his inner circle have been and are still trying to put more Russian internal policies into effect here."

Hallanan, in Washington for a meeting of the Republican executive committee, opposed any delay in the national convention date, saying "there's no reason to wait and see what the Democrats do, we've seen it for six years."

Court Order Permits George To Wed Eileen

Riverhead, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—Socialite George Lowther, 3rd, fortified by a letter he said his lady fair had smuggled to him to profess her undying love, obtained a new court order tonight granting beauteous Eileen Herrick her opportunity to marry him.

Nassau County Judge L. Barron Hill gave the 21-year-old "Juliet," also a social registerite, freedom to leave her parents' home where, Lowther contended, the Herricks continued to keep her imprisoned in an effort to nip the full-blossomed romance.

After a private conference with the girl, Judge Hill announced:

"Eileen Herrick is free to leave the home of her parents, but as long as she lives with her parents and is supported by them, she is under their control."

This opinion will produce results, opined Lowther's attorney, Eli Johnson. He said the couple would meet at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow and probably would be married within a few days, over the objections of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Herrick, the parents.

High Winds Blow Steamer Aground

Grand Haven, Mich., Dec 7. (AP)—High winds drove the helpless steamer Sensibar with her crew of thirteen into shoal water late today, but with the storm apparently abating her peril was believed diminishing.

At the mercy of a forty-mile gale since early morning after a tow line broke, the 538-foot decommissioned vessel had been blown shoreward from her anchorage three miles out in Lake Michigan.

An eight-inche hawser snapped while the tugs Montana and Wisconsin were towing the Sensibar from South Chicago to Grand Haven, and Sailors feared to attempt putting another line to her because of the gale.

Coast guards said they believed the crew was in no immediate danger.

Lou Gehrig Noted Place Among Famous

Cincinnati, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Baseball Writers' Association of America moved tonight to place Lou Gehrig in the sport's Hall of Fame immediately "to commemorate the year in which he achieved his record."

By a unanimous vote at the annual winter meeting, the writers agreed to suspend the rules and present Gehrig to the Hall of Fame committee as the association's nominee without an election.

After running his string of consecutive games with the New York Yankees to 2,130, Gehrig retired from baseball because of illness.

Family Argument Over Buried Gold To End in Court

Los Angeles, Dec. 7. (AP)—A family argument over division of $6,040 in gold which lay buried twenty-three years probably will go into a civil court.

Edwin Myers, a deputy district attorney, advised sixty-three-year-old Mrs. Frances Glass and her two widowed daughters-in-law today to take such action after attempting to arbitrate their dispute.

Mrs. Glass, who walks with the aid of a cane, told Myers she was forced to reveal the hiding place of the treasure by the daughters-in-law and other relatives Sunday. The money, she said, was buried by her late husband.

"He said for me to keep it for my old age," Mrs. Glass declared. "I kept the secret of the hiding place all these years, although the family knew the money had been buried."

Early Sunday morning, she charged, she was awakened by Mrs. Rachel Glass, 26, and Mrs. Martha Glass, 36, and a group of their relatives and forced to reveal the hiding place underneath a cowshed.

The daughters-in-law contradicted her assertions.

"Mother agreed to split the gold with us," they declared. "She showed us where it was and we had a picnic Sunday digging it up. Once she came out and said, 'you are digging in the wrong place, and showed us where to dig."

Three Nations To Work for Peace

Olso, Norway, Dec. 7 (AP)—The foreign ministers of Denmark, Norway and Sweden decided today to make all possible efforts through the league of nations for peace negotiations between Finland and Soviet Russia.

Conferring on issues raised by Finnish-Russian conflict, the Scandinavians also discussed possible general consequences of the fighting, but they announced no decisions.

Since Denmark already has proclaimed neutrality, the ministers were not expected to advocate any joint Scandinavian action beyond conciliatory action through the league.

There were unconfirmed reports the conferees considered the advisability of appealing for general European peace but a communique issued at the end of the meeting lent no support to these reports.

However, the Scandinavian states are deeply concerned lest the conflict spread in their direction since the Russian invasion of Finland many Scandinavians have seen small hope of avoiding such a spread except through restoration of peace among Germany, Great Britain and France.

Mankind's dwelling places are variously known as asylums, bungalows, cabins, cottages, castles, apartments, flats, hotels, halls, inns, huts, igloos, hermitages, lodging houses, rooming houses, manor houses, lodges, palaces, mansions, wigwams, tepees, residences, penthouses, shanties, sheds, shacks, etc.

Light Kills Made By Duck Hunters

Baltimore, Dec. 7 (AP)—Maryland started the duck season with the greatest number of ducks in several years—and after two weeks, the situation hasn't changed much.

The state game commission said today that with few exceptions, hunters had reported light kills, even in the Susquehanna flats section, where the sky has been "black" with mallards, canvas-backs and other varieties.

Chief Deputy Game Warden Richard T. Norris said a combination of weather conditions was responsible.

"Moonlight nights have enabled the ducks to go to the feeding grounds and eat their fill without disturbance. So, in the daytime, they've flown out to the middle of the bay, safe from hunters," Norris said.

In addition, there have been "too many" bright, sunshiny days, Norris said, pointing out that the duck hunters need mist, rain and chill weather for ideal hunting conditions.

New Deal Scored for Attitude on Russia

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Walter S. Hallanan, Republican national committeeman from West Virginia, accused the administration today of "promoting and encouraging insidious boring from within by Communists in this country."

He said Soviet Russia was recognized "over the protests of Republican leaders," and added in a statement:

"While the president is wrist-slapping Russia for its shocking and unwarranted policy of ruthless conquest against its defenseless neighbors, he and his inner circle have been and are still trying to put more Russian internal policies into effect here."

Hallanan, in Washington for a meeting of the Republican executive committee, opposed any delay in the national convention date, saying "there's no reason to wait and see what the Democrats do, we've seen it for six years."

Ridgeley School Strike Is 3-Cornered Mix-Up

Price-Small Dispute Complicated by Move To Return Cather

Ridgeley's school strike was left in a three-cornered mix-up today when the Mineral County Board of Education adjourned late last night without taking any action.

The board announced that it will continue its discussion of the trouble at a meeting Saturday night at its offices in Keyser.

Ask Return of Cather

While the board was discussing whether Hubert Price or Thomas Small should have the teacher-coach position, Ridgeley high's football and basketball players were running a booming campaign to have the job given back to William "Pete" Cather, whose resignation was forced early in November.

The high school athletes elected Billy Spriggs, a senior, as their spokesman, and he announced plans to hold a mass meeting at the school gym tonight at 8:15.

Student Leader Spriggs said the boys wanted the true story of Coach Cather's dismissal to be heard. The boys called Keyser to invite the school board. They also asked Cather, Price, and Principal Melvin M. Heiskell, as well as all parents of students, to be present.

The boys met at the home of Bob Thompson, typed up a raft of petitions, and soon were circulating them up one street and down another. The petitions advocate the meeting, and also call for the rehiring of Coach Cather.

Situation at a Glance

This is the way the three-cornered mix-up looked last night:

1. The school's athletes, and a large number of townspeople, want Cather back, claiming he was forced to resign unfairly, and that he never had deserted the team for a minute.

These students are striking to get Cather back, but might be satisfied with Price.

2. Students in the lower grades of the high school are striking to get Price back, they say, and they are backed in this by a number of the townspeople.

Principal Heiskell, too, is pulling to get Price back.

3. The board of education voted Wednesday night to give the position to Small, a Piedmont man who has been on the substitute list for two years and who is a personal friend of several of the board members. But no one in Ridgeley wants Small.

Strike to Continue

Apparently the strike will continue today, with 275 students of the junior-senior high school away from their classes. A number of girls who ride the buses stayed in school yesterday, but no formal classes were held after the first period.

The students went on a strike at 10 a. m., with the younger children running wild about the gymnasium. Later, the students paraded through the town, leading a goat bearing the name "Board of Education."

The strike developed after the word was passed among the students about the results of the board's meeting in Keyser Wednesday night.

Citizens Urge That Price Be Kept

At this meeting the board decided to dispense with the services of Price, who was temporalily filling Cather's place, to name Small to the position.

The board took this action after a delegation of some ten Ridgeley citizens had appeared to urge that Price be kept.

The delegation was headed by Mrs. Floyd Kerns, new head of the Parent-Teacher Association, which was split wide open because of Cather's being fired.

Board Warned

Also present was Mrs. W. M. Cornelius, chairman of the PTA's publicity committee. "We told the board that Price should be retained in the interests of peace, and we warned them what would happen. We told them we had just gotten one problem settled, and didn't want another one."

Board members explained that Price had been appointed as a substitute by Principal Heiskell, and that the board had never hired him.

The board members said applications for the position were received from both Price and Small at Wednesday's meeting, and that they hired Small, since he was a Mineral county resident, while Price is from Portland, O.

Furnish Home Here

The citizens, however, pointed out that Price had moved to Cumberland from Ohio with the understanding that the job would last. They added that he and Mrs. Price had furnished a home here.

Price took up his teaching on November 13. He had been a teacher and coach at Paw Paw high school for several years, but resigned in 1938 to engage in stock raising on a farm owned by his family, he said. He coached basketball and baseball at Paw Paw, but the school had no football team.

Principal Heiskell and Price became acquainted when they were both at the Paw Paw school.

Athletes Back Cather

Some of the school's athletes, headed by their chosen leader, Billy Spriggs, called at The News office last night to express their loyalty to Coach Cather, who started his fourth year as coach this fall and who turned out an unbeaten, untied football team.

"Coach Cather never quit the team. He never let us down," said Student Leader Spriggs.

"We have found out definitely that he asked the principal for permission to be away from school on Monday, November 5, for an interview about another job," Spriggs said.

Resignation Asked

"He also got permission to be away Tuesday, and then on Wednesday he got a letter from the principal before he went to school telling him that the board had asked for his resignation.

"He didn't go to school on Wednesday, then, but he was out on the field to coach us Wednesday afternoon.

"Thursday he was there to coach us, but Mr. Heiskell ordered him away.

"He never disappeared, and was on the sidelines at all the games we played.

'Want Him Back'

"We want him back. He has been a good coach, we respect him and like to work for him."

Coach Cather was coaching without special pay this fall. His salary had been cut from $135 a month to $112.50 because he did not have the necessary college credits in physical education. But he was continuing to coach without coach's pay.

The boys said they learned that arrangements would have been made for him to continue with the team through the season, even though he had obtained the better position he was seeking.

Further details of their 'vindication" of their coach will be brought out at tonight's meeting, the boys said.

Russia To Blockade Coast of Finland

Copenhagen, Dec. 8 (Friday) (AP)—The Danish ministry of commerce announced today it had been notified by the Soviet Russian government that the coast of Finland will be blockaded beginning at noon tomorrow.

Foreign ships will be given until noon Saturday, the announcement said, to leave the area and after that the waters will be declared "dangerous for shipping."

Deer Season Ends Today At 4:35, Warden Warns

Three more deer were reported slain in Allegany county yesterday as Game Warden Harry R. Kenney reported that the season officially closes at 4:35 p.m. today and warned hunters to be out of the woods by 4:45 p.m.

Kenney said that the law calls for the season to end at sundown, and that means 4:35 p.m. Hunters still in the woods ten minutes later might find themselves charged with hunting out of season, he warned.

The district warden reported one allegedly illegal kill yesterday—although it had been reported to game wardens as a legal kill.

He explained that C. M. Neathers, of Oldtown, had reported bagging a four-point buck, weighing 140 pounds, on Green Ridge, but that wardens received information that it was, in reality, a spike-buck.

A visit to the Neathers home revealed the carcass, weighing about seventy or eighty pounds, and the head, with only a spike, instead of four-point antlers, according to Kenney. He added that the head had been prepared for mounting.

The head was taken as evidence, and Neathers will be charged with violation of the game laws, the warden said.

Meanwhile, in Garrett county, Deputy Game Warden Raymond Houck reported a quiet day, with only eight legal kills on record. He said, however, that he had discovered four more does slain, bringing the total of illegal kills to date to seventeen.

District Game Warden Joseph A. Minke, stationed at Grantsville, could not be reached for a report.

The three Allegany county kills reported, which brought the total to sixteen, were:

Frank Neff, 744 Maryland avenue, eight-pointer, east side of Town Hill; estimated weight, 200 pounds.

Louis Roque, St. Clarysville, Ohio, seven-pointer, Town Hill; estimated weight, 175 pounds.

Virgil Bishop, 1009 Virginia avenue, eight-pointer, south side of Town Hill; estimated weight, 150 pounds.

J. R. Goodfellow of LaVale, reported bagging an 180-pound eight-pointer near Swallow Falls, in Garrett county.

Class To Toast 'Fellowship'

Dr. Jacobson To Talk To Bible Students

Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson will make the principal address at the "Fellowship Meeting" of the Duke Memorial Men's Bible class today at 6:30 p.m. at the Central Y. M. C. A.

The Rev. W. A. Eisenberger will offer the invocation, after which P. E. Meyers will offer a toast. Dinner will be served following the toast and several songs sung by the group.

Another feature of the evening will be the program presented by a vocal trio of Allegany high school students composed of Clara Lee Moore, Doris Brant and Josephine Williams, accompanied by Miss Mary Turnley.

Brief remarks will be made by the Rev. Eisenberger and F. C. Hendrickson. Moving pictures will be shown by James L. Barrow, of the C. and P. Telephone Company.

Couple Battles Over Baby Bonds

Woman Gets Injunction Against Husband

A Barton woman today had gone to court in an effort to prevent her husband from taking $2,600 worth of United States government "baby bonds" from a safe deposit box in the First National Bank of Barton.

The woman, Mrs. Verda L. Michael, won an injunction prohibiting the bank from releasing the bonds and her husband, Clinton P. Michael, from taking them.

The equity suit, docketed in Circuit court by Attorney Gorman E. Getty, said that the bonds were the joint property of Mr. and Mrs. Michael, but that Mr. Michael planned to take them and sell them.

The injunction order, signed by Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, gave the defendants the right to move to rescind the order after answering the bill of complaint.

Keating Nursery Planning Party

Auxiliary To Give Christmas Treat

Plans for the annual Christmas party were made yesterday at the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Keating Memorial Day Nursery.

Mrs. Joseph H. Lichtenstein and Katherine M. Moore were named to head the committee on arrangements. Plans call for a playlet, Christmas tree, a visit from Santa Claus, and treats and gifts for the more than 100 children who will be entertained.

Mrs. John L. Reed, vice-president, presided in the absence of Mrs. Fred T. McIntyre Jr. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were given.

A definite date for the party, which will be held the week before Christmas, will be announced soon.

Frightened Boy Returned Home

Police Find Youngster As Relatives Worry

A frightened and sobbing ten-year-old Keyser, W. Va., Loy, who told city police that he was "lonesome and homesick," got wanderlust fever last night—but not for long.

Dickie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stickley, was visiting relatives in LaVale, but decided that he'd rather be home. So, with hope of seeing his aunt, he caught a bus to Cumberland to see what she could do about his loneliness.

Meanwhile, Dickie's relatives missed him and telephoned police headquarters. They told Desk Sergt. Bert B. Browne that they thought the boy slipped out of the house and caught a bus to town.

Then Officers Frank J. Zawaski and Walter P. Crabtree went to North Mechanic and Frederick streets in time to stop the Park bus. Dickie, sure enough, was crouched in a corner seat.

Later, relatives arrived at the station and took Dickie back to LaVale—possibly back to Keyser today.

on High Roads Low Roads and By-Ways

Well, the Big Law Chief in Washington has sent an emissary through the big woods and into Cumberland for a pow wow on the handbill ordinance, and this emissary, after checking the lay of the land, has told the braves to lay aside their warpaint.

No scalps were taken on either side, and apparently the Big Chief doesn't want any scalps taken.

The Big Chief says the ordinance is legal, which is what Medicine Man Pete has been saying all along, but the Big Chief also says that the ordinance doesn't apply to any of his brothers who are just out whooping it up and not trying to collect a little wampum.

Which may lead the union braves to bury their rubber hatchets.

Anyway, the Big Chief has spoken.

Federal Attorney Rules Handbill Ordinance OK

Mayor Irvine Demands Hearing Be Secret

Mayor Harry Irvine yesterday again excluded newspapermen from a conference of vital interest to the general public.

Reporters were barred when a representative of the Federal government and city officials sat down to confer regarding a complaint that Cumberland's handbill ordinance was an infringement on the freedom of the press and the civil liberties of Cumberland citizens.

Previously, City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett had stated that reporters should be admitted and thus enabled to relay a full and accurate account to the general public.

The mayor, however, demanded a closed hearing.

Can't Be Enforced On Non-Profit Groups, However, He Says

Cumberland's handbill ordinance yesterday was termed sound by an officer of the Federal government who ruled, however, that it may be applied only to commercial enterprises.

This was the outcome of yesterday's conference between G. Randolph Aiken, assistant United States district attorney, and Mayor Harry Irvine, City Solicitor Charles Z. Heskett, Police Chief Oscar A. Eyerman, and the members of City Council.

Murphy Ordered Probe

Aiken was sent to Cumberland to probe the constitutionality of the ordinance by Attorney General Frank Murphy.

Murphy ordered the investigation following a complaint by Local 26, United Rubber Workers, who protested that the ordinance was an infringement on their constitutional rights.

After studying the ordinance and conferring with city officials, Aiken announced that the handbill ordinance was sound as applied to commercial organizations, but could not be applied to non-profit groups desirous of distributing printed matter.

Union Handbills Private

Aiken stated that union groups were within their rights in distributing notices of meetings or elections without purchasing a permit at City Hall. This also holds true for religious groups or persons or groups of persons desirous of distributing printed matter of a political or scientific nature, he said.

Setting up a hypothetical case, Aiken stated that, on the other hand, a union advertising a profit-making venture such as a jallopy race would be bound by the terms of the ordinance and forced to buy a $10 license.

Wants Case Dropped

The federal attorney and city officials discussed the case of John F. Geis, former rubber worker president, who was arrested Nov. 24 for distributing notices of a union meeting without a permit.

Aiken said last night that he would suggest that Geis' counsel drop the case, which has been removed from Police Court to Circuit Court on a writ of certorari.

City Ready to Drop Geis Case

As explained by Heskett, the Geis case would in all probability have been dismissed in the event the defendant's counsel had seen fit to let the matter go to trial in Police Court. The city attorney then referred to the case brought against a group of Jehovah's Witnesses, the dismissal of which was satisfactory to the city he added.

No Indictment Sought

Prior to the hearing at 2 p. m., Aiken stated that while he intended to draw the attention of city officials to the fact that the federal government could indict for violation of civil liberty rights, that it was his hope to arrive at a satisfactory agreement.

The agreement resulting from the conference appeared to be that the handbill ordinance stands in regard to the licensing of profit-making enterprises, but henceforth will have no jurisdiction over non-commercial groups.

Rubber union officials last night made no comment regarding the suggested withdrawal of the Geis case.

Parents Deplore Shoddy Condition Of School Rooms

State's Attorney Calls for More Highway Police

Only forty-six state troopers are available for patrol of Maryland's 15,000 miles of highways, State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris reported last night as he renewed his plea for enlargement of the state motor force.

Mr. Harris, making a safety talk at the meeting of the Centre Street Parent-Teacher Association, and said the State police force now has a personnel of about ninety-three, but that the number of officers actually available for highway patrol totals only forty-six.

In addition to their accident-investigation duties, state troopers on patrol also have considerable value in accident prevention, he asserted, citing the average driver's tendency to slow down on sighting a police car.

Building's Condition Deplored

Another highlight of the meeting was a lengthy and somewhat heated discussion of the condition of the school building.

Speakers deplored the condition of painting and window - shades throughout the building, laying special stress on what they called the shoddy appearance of the auditorium, in which public meetings are held from time to time.

Principal Loretta McGeady promised to confer with County School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp in an effort to have necessary painting and repairs taken care of.

Pedestrians Need Education

Mr. Harris quoted statistics at length to show the annual toll taken by motor vehicles, which he likened to a Frankenstein monster. He noted that the yearly traffic casualty list in the United States exceeds that of the World War.

Safety education is needed especially among pedestrians, the state's attorney said, declaring that statistics show that they constitute forty-eight per cent of traffic deaths. In most cases, motorists are exonerated of blame, the pedestrians held at fault, he added.

He pointed with pride to the decrease in fatal accidents in Allegany county, noting that from a high of thirty-five in 1937, they were reduced to seventeen in 1938. This year, to date, only ten traffic fatalities have been recorded in the county.

Teach Students To Drive

Mr. Harris also urged construction of pedestrian sidewalks at hazardous points along highways; education of high school students in driving and safety; periodic re-examination of drivers; and adoption of uniform traffic laws throughout the country.

Also on the program was showing of safety pictures by Philip H. Smith, vice-president of the association. The films, obtained through John J. McMullen's county safety committee, were entitled "Night Driving" and "Stop, Look and Live."

Prize for the largest number of parents present went to the sixth grade.

President Herman Myers announced that the next meeting of the association, scheduled for Feb. 8, will be highlighted by showing of the film, "Safari on Wheels."

Hospital Social

A social will be held today at 8:30 p.m. at Allegany hospital by the Miraculous Medal Club for the benefit of the Kitzmiller Mission.

Special Police Patrol Stores

Shoplifting Dangerous Despite Holiday Rush

A special detail of plain clothes detectives in charge of Special Investigator Walter Clay today had begun their job of policing downtown stores during the Christmas shopping period.

The special detectives, including both men and women, will circulate through the various stores and will keep a sharp lookout for shoplifters, Clay stated.

Persons apprehended in the act of stealing merchandise will be vigorously prosecuted, Clay said last night.

Although some of the special agents are Cumberland people, a number have been brought in from outside, Clay said.

The men and women will watch the holiday shoppers from strategic positions in the various downtown stores and will also move about like ordinardy customers, Clay said.

Maryland Avenue PTA Hears Talk on Health

"Health" was the subject Dr. Walter B. Johnson, assistant city and county health officer, spoke on last night at the monthly meeting of the Maryland Avenue Parent-Teacher Association.

Dr. Johnson's talk concerned the advantages of vaccination. He discussed different diseases and their cures.

Plans for the February meeting were discussed.

PTA Buys Sleepy Students Cots, But Only for First Graders

If children insist on going to sleep in class, they might as well be comfortable.

So . . . the Parent-Teacher Association of Centre Street school last night voted to purchase twelve cots for sleepy first-grade tots.

Teachers had reported that first-graders — especially rural residents who had to arise early in order to catch school buses—became mighty, mighty sleepy in the afternoon, and despite the most interesting of stories and the like, couldn't help dozing at their desks.

Since first grade nowadays is more or less a preparation for real study to come, school officials figured that the kiddies might get more benefit from sleeping—if they just have to. And they might as well be comfortable about it, too.

Ridgeley School Strike Is 3-Cornered Mix-Up

Price-Small Dispute Complicated by Move To Return Cather

Ridgeley's school strike was left in a three-cornered mix-up today when the Mineral County Board of Education adjourned late last night without taking any action.

The board announced that it will continue its discussion of the trouble at a meeting Saturday night at its offices in Keyser.

Ask Return of Cather

While the board was discussing whether Hubert Price or Thomas Small should have the teacher-coach position, Ridgeley high's football and basketball players were running a booming campaign to have the job given back to William "Pete" Cather, whose resignation was forced early in November.

The high school athletes elected Billy Spriggs, a senior, as their spokesman, and he announced plans to hold a mass meeting at the school gym tonight at 8:15.

Student Leader Spriggs said the boys wanted the true story of Coach Cather's dismissal to be heard. The boys called Keyser to invite the school board. They also asked Cather, Price, and Principal Melvin M. Heiskell, as well as all parents of students, to be present.

The boys met at the home of Bob Thompson, typed up a raft of petitions, and soon were circulating them up one street and down another. The petitions advocate the meeting, and also call for the re-hiring of Coach Cather.

Situation at a Glance

This is the way the three-cornered mix-up looked last night:

1. The school's athletes, and a large number of townspeople, want Cather back, claiming he was forced to resign unfairly, and that he never had deserted the team for a minute.

These students are striking to get Cather back, but might be satisfied with Price.

2. Students in the lower grades of the high school are striking to get Price back, they say, and they are backed in this by a number of the townspeople.

Principal Heiskell, too, is pulling to get Price back.

3. The board of education voted Wednesday night to give the position to Small, a Piedmont man who has been on the substitute list for two years and who is a personal friend of several of the board members. But no one in Ridgeley wants Small.

Strike to Continue

Apparently the strike will continue today, with 275 students of the junior-senior high school away from their classes. A number of girls who ride the buses stayed in school yesterday, but no formal classes were held after the first period.

The students went on a strike at 10 a. m., with the younger children running wild about the gymnasium. Later, the students paraded through the town, leading a goat bearing the name "Board of Education."

The strike developed after the word was passed among the students about the results of the board's meeting in Keyser Wednesday night.

Citizens Urge That Price Be Kept

At this meeting the board decided to dispense with the services of Price, who was temporarily filling Cather's place, to name Small to the position.

The board took this action after a delegation of some ten Ridgeley citizens had appeared to urge that Price be kept.

The delegation was headed by Mrs. Floyd Kerns, new head of the Parent-Teacher Association, which was split wide open because of Cather's being fired.

Board Warned

Also present was Mrs. W. M. Cornelius, chairman of the PTA's publicity committee. "We told the board that Price should be retained in the interests of peace, and we warned them what would happen. We told them we had just gotten one problem settled, and didn't want another one."

Board members explained that Price had been appointed as a substitute by Principal Heiskell, and that the board had never hired him.

The board members said applications for the position were received from both Price and Small at Wednesday's meeting, and that they hired Small, since he was a Mineral county resident, while Price is from Portland, O.

Furnish Home Here

The citizens, however, pointed out that Price had moved to Cumberland from Ohio with the understanding that the job would last. They added that he and Mrs. Price had furnished a home here.

Price took up his teaching on November 13. He had been a teacher and coach at Paw Paw high school for several years, but resigned in 1938 to engage in stock raising on a farm owned by his family, he said. He coached basketball and baseball at Paw Paw, but the school had no football team.

Principal Heiskell and Price became acquainted when they were both at the Paw Paw school.

Athletes Back Cather

Some of the school's athletes, headed by their chosen leader, Billy Spriggs, called at The News office last night to express their loyalty to Coach Cather, who started his fourth year as coach this fall and who turned out an unbeaten, untied football team.

"Coach Cather never quit the team. He never let us down," said Student Leader Spriggs.

"We have found out definitely that he asked the principal for permission to be away from school on Monday, November 5, for an interview about another job," Spriggs said.

Resignation Asked

"He also got permission to be away Tuesday, and then on Wednesday he got a letter from the principal before he went to school telling him that the board had asked for his resignation.

"He didn't go to school on Wednesday, then, but he was out on the field to coach us Wednesday afternoon.

"Thursday he was there to coach us, but Mr. Heiskell ordered him away.

"He never disappeared, and was on the sidelines at all the games we played.

'Want Him Back'

"We want him back. He has been a good coach, we respect him and like to work for him."

Coach Cather was coaching without special pay this fall. His salary had been cut from $135 a month to $112.50 because he did not have the necessary college credits in physical education. But he was continuing to coach without coach's pay.

The boys said they learned that arrangements would have been made for him to continue with the team through the season, even though he had obtained the better position he was seeking.

Further details of their 'vindication" of their coach will be brought out at tonight's meeting, the boys said.

Deer Season Ends Today At 4:35, Warden Warns

Three more deer were reported slain in Allegany county yesterday as Game Warden Harry R. Kenney reported that the season officially closes at 4:35 p.m. today and warned hunters to be out of the woods by 4:45 p.m.

Kenney said that the law calls for the season to end at sundown, and that means 4:35 p.m. Hunters still in the woods ten minutes later might find themselves charged with hunting out of season, he warned.

The district warden reported one allegedly illegal kill yesterday—although it had been reported to game wardens as a legal kill.

He explained that C. M. Neathers, of Oldtown, had reported bagging a four-point buck, weighing 140 pounds, on Green Ridge, but that wardens received information that it was, in reality, a spike-buck.

A visit to the Neathers home revealed the carcass, weighing about seventy or eighty pounds, and the head, with only a spike, instead of four-point antlers, according to Kenney. He added that the head had been prepared for mounting.

The head was taken as evidence, and Neathers will be charged with violation of the game laws, the warden said.

Meanwhile, in Garrett county, Deputy Game Warden Raymond Houck reported a quiet day, with only eight legal kills on record. He said, however, that he had discovered four more does slain, bringing the total of illegal kills to date to seventeen.

District Game Warden Joseph A. Minke, stationed at Grantsville, could not be reached for a report.

The three Allegany county kills reported, which brought the total to sixteen, were:

Frank Neff, 744 Maryland avenue, eight-pointer, east side of Town Hill; estimated weight, 200 pounds.

Louis Roque, St. Clarysville, Ohio, seven-pointer, Town Hill; estimated weight, 175 pounds.

Virgil Bishop, 1009 Virginia avenue, eight-pointer, south side of Town Hill; estimated weight, 150 pounds.

J. R. Goodfellow of LaVale, reported bagging an 180-pound eight-pointer near Swallow Falls, in Garrett county.

Woman Gets Injunction Against Husband

A Barton woman today had gone to court in an effort to prevent her husband from taking $2,600 worth of United States government "baby bonds" from a safe deposit box in the First National Bank of Barton.

The woman, Mrs. Verda L. Michael, won an injunction prohibiting the bank from releasing the bonds and her husband, Clinton P. Michael, from taking them.

The equity suit, docketed in Circuit court by Attorney Gorman E. Getty, said that the bonds were the joint property of Mr. and Mrs. Michael, but that Mr. Michael planned to take them and sell them.

The injunction order, signed by Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, gave the defendants the right to move to rescind the order after answering the bill of complaint.

Frightened Boy Returned Home

Police Find Youngster As Relatives Worry

A frightened and sobbing ten-year-old Keyser, W. Va., Loy, who told city police that he was "lonesome and homesick," got wanderlust fever last night—but not for long.

Dickie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stickley, was visiting relatives in LaVale, but decided that he'd rather be home. So, with hope of seeing his aunt, he caught a bus to Cumberland to see what she could do about his loneliness.

Meanwhile, Dickie's relatives missed him and telephoned police headquarters. They told Desk Sergt. Bert B. Browne that they thought the boy slipped out of the house and caught a bus to town.

Then Officers Frank J. Zawaski and Walter P. Crabtree went to North Mechanic and Frederick streets in time to stop the Park bus. Dickie, sure enough, was crouched in a corner seat.

The sobbing and red-eyed Dickie reluctantly left the bus for headquarters. "I want my daddy," he repeatedly told officers who tried to comfort him.

on High Roads Low Roads and By-Ways

Well, the Big Law Chief in Washington has sent an emissary through the big woods and into Cumberland for a pow wow on the handbill ordinance, and this emissary, after checking the lay of the land, has told the braves to lay aside their warpaint.

No scalps were taken on either side, and apparently the Big Chief doesn't want any scalps taken.

The Big Chief says the ordinance is legal, which is what Medicine Man Pete has been saying all along, but the Big Chief also says that the ordinance doesn't apply to any of his brothers who are just out whooping it up and not trying to collect a little wampum.

Which may lead the union braves to bury their rubber hatchets.

Anyway, the Big Chief has spoken.

Setting up a hypothetical case, Aiken stated that, on the other hand, a union advertising a profit-making venture such as a jallopy race would be bound by the terms of the ordinance and forced to buy a $10 license.

Wants Case Dropped

The federal attorney and city officials discussed the case of John F. Geis, former rubber worker president, who was arrested Nov. 24 for distributing notices of a union meeting without a permit.

Aiken said last night that he would suggest that Geis' counsel drop the case, which has been removed from Police Court to Circuit Court on a writ of certorari.

City Ready to Drop Geis Case

City Attorney Heskett stated that the city stood willing to drop the charge against Geis.

As explained by Heskett, the Geis case would in all probability have been dismissed in the event the defendant's counsel had seen fit to let the matter go to trial in Police Court. The city attorney then referred to the case brought against a group of Jehovah's Witnesses, the dismissal of which was satisfactory to the city he added.

No Indictment Sought

Prior to the hearing at 2 p. m., Aiken stated that while he intended to draw the attention of city officials to the fact that the federal government could indict for violation of civil liberty rights, that it was his hope to arrive at a satisfactory agreement.

The agreement resulting from the conference appeared to be that the handbill ordinance stands in regard to the licensing of profit-making enterprises, but henceforth will have no jurisdiction over non-commercial groups.

Rubber union officials last night made no comment regarding the suggested withdrawal of the Geis case.

Parents Deplore Shoddy Condition Of School Rooms

State's Attorney Calls for More Highway Police

Only forty-six state troopers are available for patrol of Maryland's 15,000 miles of highways, State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris reported last night as he renewed his plea for enlargement of the state motor force.

Mr. Harris, making a safety talk at the meeting of the Centre Street Parent-Teacher Association, and said the State police force now has a personnel of about ninety-three, but that the number of officers actually available for highway patrol totals only forty-six.

In addition to their accident-investigation duties, state troopers on patrol also have considerable value in accident prevention, he asserted, citing the average driver's tendency to slow down on sighting a police car.

Building's Condition Deplored

Another highlight of the meeting was a lengthy and somewhat heated discussion of the condition of the school building.

Speakers deplored the condition of painting and window - shades throughout the building, laying special stress on what they called the shoddy appearance of the auditorium, in which public meetings are held from time to time.

Principal Loretta McGeady promised to confer with County School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp in an effort to have necessary painting and repairs taken care of.

Pedestrians Need Education

Mr. Harris quoted statistics at length to show the annual toll taken by motor vehicles, which he likened to a Frankenstein monster. He noted that the yearly traffic casualty list in the United States exceeds that of the World War.

Safety education is needed especially among pedestrians, the state's attorney said, declaring that statistics show that they constitute forty-eight per cent of traffic deaths. In most cases, motorists are exonerated of blame, the pedestrians held at fault, he added.

He pointed with pride to the decrease in fatal accidents in Allegany county, noting that from a high of thirty-five in 1937, they were reduced to seventeen in 1938. This year, to date, only ten traffic fatalities have been recorded in the county.

Teach Students To Drive

Mr. Harris also urged construction of pedestrian sidewalks at hazardous points along highways; education of high school students in driving and safety; periodic re-examination of drivers; and adoption of uniform traffic laws throughout the country.

Also on the program was showing of safety pictures by Philip H. Smith, vice-president of the association. The films, obtained through John J. McMullen's county safety committee, were entitled "Night Driving" and "Stop, Look and Live."

Prize for the largest number of parents present went to the sixth grade.

President Herman Myers announced that the next meeting of the association, scheduled for Feb. 8, will be highlighted by showing of the film, "Safari on Wheels."

Hospital Social

A social will be held today at 8:30 p.m. at Allegany hospital by the Miraculous Medal Club for the benefit of the Kitzmiller Mission.

PTA Buys Sleepy Students Cots, But Only for First Graders

If children insist on going to sleep in class, they might as well be comfortable.

So . . . the Parent-Teacher Association of Centre Street school last night voted to purchase twelve cots for sleepy first-grade tots.

Teachers had reported that first-graders — especially rural residents who had to arise early in order to catch school buses—became mighty mighty sleepy in the afternoon, and despite the most interesting of stories and the like, couldn't help dozing at their desks.

Since first grade nowadays is more or less a preparation for real study to come, school officials figured that the kiddies might get more benefit from sleeping—if they just have to. And they might as well be comfortable about it, too.

Special Police Patrol Stores

Shoplifting Dangerous Despite Holiday Rush

A special detail of plain clothes detectives in charge of Special Investigator Walter Clay today had begun their job of policing downtown stores during the Christmas shopping period.

The special detectives, including both men and women, will circulate through the various stores and will keep a sharp lookout for shoplifters, Clay stated.

Persons apprehended in the act of stealing merchandise will be vigorously prosecuted, Clay said last night.

Although some of the special agents are Cumberland people, a number have been brought in from outside, Clay said.

The men and women will watch the holiday shoppers from strategic positions in the various downtown stores and will also move about like ordinarly customers, Clay said.

Maryland Avenue PTA Hears Talk on Health

"Health" was the subject Dr. Walter B. Johnson, assistant city and county health officer, spoke on last night at the monthly meeting of the Maryland Avenue Parent-Teacher Association.

Dr. Johnson's talk concerned the advantages of vaccination. He discussed different diseases and their cures.

First grade pupils presented entertainment by reading in groups. Mrs. Leo C. Cameron, president of the association, presided.

Plans for the February meeting were discussed.
